Was Downed Island Plane Far Off Course?

By BILL STAVDAL

Victoria pilot Ervyn Duke, 28, was apparently lost Saturday when he and three companions survived a plane crash on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

On Monday, 15 hours after the four were rescued, the husky boom-man and student commercial pilot said he was about 15 miles northwest of Cowichan Lake when he crashed in fog into tall timber.

* * *

But the RCAF's Rescue Co-Ordination Centre in Vancouver places the crash 20 miles to the southwest, about 10 miles east of Bamfield.

Only one of the four is still in hospital. Arnold Anderson, 22, of 943 Ledge, sustained a broken left wrist and a burned shoulder when the four-seat Tri-Pacer caught fire as it crashed through trees to a mountain slope.

* * *

Mr. Anderson is in satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Passenger Victor Hohlachoff, 25, of 700 Roderick, who walked out and summoned help, was unhurt.

Roy Paul, 41, of 1265 Dunsterville, sustained facial cuts and bruises.

Hohlachoff

Pilot Duke, of 151 Cadillac, received only a slightly cut finger, a wrenched left knee and bruised ribs.

* * *

What began as a combined pleasure jaunt and training flight for Mr. Duke ended in a flaming crash shortly after 10 a.m. Saturday on the watershed of the Klanawa River east of Bamfield on the West Coast.

Mr. Duke, a boom-man at B.C. Forest Products, Plumper Bay operation, intended to fly to Tofino by way of Shawnigan Lake, Lake Cowichan and Port Alberni. He was going to carry on to Comox, then head south down the east coast back to Patricia Bay.

Victor Hohlachoff, an expert outdoorsman, was looking for game while Mr. Duke was practising his mountain flying.

"We just got closed in with the weather," Mr. Duke told the Colonist at home Monday.

He said he was flying up a valley northwest of Cowichan Lake when he found the path ahead closed by lowering cloud. He was boxed in.

He made a series of turns, then plunged into the fog and immediately began climbing to get clear.

* * *

"The fog was so thick it looked like snow," he said.

Suddenly tree tops loomed ahead.

"I didn't think I was going to die. I was trying to think my way out, but there wasn't any.

"There was only one thing to do. I dumped air speed and pulled the nose up."

The light plane mushed into the tree-tops, hung for a mo-

Papandreou to Fight

ATHENS (Reuters) — Ousted Greek prime minister George Papandreou Monday declared "a new unrelenting struggle" in his clash with young King Constantine as he addressed an estimated 400,000 demonstrators, unprecedented in Greek history.

"The question now is who rules the country, the king or the people," 77 - year - old Papandreou said after making a triumphal entry into Athens in a flower-bedecked car from his country home.

VOTE URGED

The crowd called for a referendum for or against the monarchy.

"We have declared a new unrelenting struggle," the veteran statesman said. "We are sure we will win. Democracy will win again. Down with the government of traitors."

KING REFUSED

Papandreou was forced out of office last week when the 25-year-old king refused to sanction a purge of right - wing army officers and the proposed dismissal of Papandreou's defence minister Petros Garoufalias.

Despite the size of the crowd which gathered in 95 - degree heat, there were no clashes or incidents. Police were scarcely to be seen.

Nightmare Brings Death to Skydiver

OLYMPIA, Wash. (CP)—A British Columbia skydiver who was having a nightmare opened the door of a moving car and was thrown to his death Monday.

William Virtel, 26, of Vancouver, died in a hospital in this state capital.

Elaine Trood, 31, of Vancouver, driver of the car, told police that she and Virtel were returning from a parachute jump rally south of here.

She said Virtel, asleep in the front seat, had a nightmare and, somehow opened the car door. He awoke just at that moment and grabbed the steering wheel in an apparent effort to save himself from falling out of the car, she said.

The car veered off the highway and plunged over an embankment, pitching Virtel out of the door.

Miss Trood was in fair condition in hospital with a back injury.

Romania Takes Rift-Healer Role

BUCHAREST (AP)—Romanian Communist party chief Nicolae Ceausescu called on the Soviet and Chinese Communist parties Monday to make a "sincere and comradely" new effort to settle their long-seething conflict.

The unity of the world's Communist parties is in the vital interest of the Communist system and world peace and must prevail over all disagreements, Ceausescu told 2,000 cheering delegates at the ninth congress of the Romanian Communist party.

Communist unity can only be achieved, he declared, if every party respects the independence and equal rights of the other.

INDEPENDENT COURSE

Romania has been steering a course independent of Moscow and Peking.

His audience included Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Teng Hsiao-ping, general secretary of the Chinese Communist party, as well as dele-

Premiers Facing Federal Hard Line

BOTH SIDES DIG IN

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—This federal-provincial conference is shaping up like a battle royal which could answer the classic question of what happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable object.

Right from the opening bell Monday several provinces pounded the federal government with tough demands and hard-line statements.

If they keep punching the rest of the week—and there's every indication they will—something has to give.

BACKED DOWN

At the last two such conferences it has been the federal government that has backed down, largely when confronted by vociferous demands from Quebec.

This time, rumor has it, Prime Minister Pearson has been urged by his key officials to stand firm, and not give way to provincial demands.

British Columbia, Quebec and to a slightly lesser extent Ontario distributed tough-talking statements Monday before the conference opened in the west block of the Parliament buildings.

'SHORTSIGHTED'

B.C. Premier Bennett accused the federal government of having a transportation program that is "shortsighted" and leaves "much to be desired."

He added that the federal government has been "most unfair" by ignoring his province's requests for aid for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Convicts Burn Prison

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI) — Rioting prisoners set fire to the maximum-security Mount Eden Prison here early today during a breakout attempt. Authorities said the prison was virtually destroyed.

Police said more than 200 soldiers cordoned off the prison.

The wardens released other prisoners into a courtyard to save them from the fire.

Job Ads Anger Carriers

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto postmen are angry and it isn't only because they think they aren't getting enough money.

Monday, some letter carriers found they were distributing slips advertising for persons to fill positions in the postal department and the Civil Service Commission. (See Page 17.)

The action infuriated some postmen, who said they would destroy the slips rather than distribute them any more.

An official of the Toronto office of the Civil Service Commission said it is just a coincidence that slips are beng distributed at a time when the Toronto carriers were talking of strike action.

Talking again: Smallwood, Lesage

* * *

Old-Time Foes Wave Warmly

OTTAWA (CP)—For that great-to-see-you atmosphere, the Monday opening of the federal-provincial conference could only be surpassed by the arrival of an immigrant train.

"Duff!" exclaimed Premier Robarts of Ontario when he spotted Premier Roblin of Manitoba. "Mike!" shouted Premier Lesage of Quebec, at the sight of Prime Minister Pearson, a huge red flower adorning his buttonhole.

* * *

Around the big round conference table they mingled like long-lost friends. Mr. Lesage, who said several months ago he wouldn't talk again with Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland, was standing beside the bow-tied "Joey" in gleeful conversation. Premier Manning of Alberta, whose comments on Finance Minister Gordon were never regarded as complimentary, was waving warmly across the table in the direction of Mr. Gordon.

Medicare Offer Wins Support

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson proposed Monday that Canada build up a nationwide medical care system through a series of provincial plans backed by federal money.

He said he was "very encouraged" by provincial reaction to the idea.

His offer of federal financial help for any provincially-operated medical plan which meets four basic criteria appeared to catch premiers at the federal-provincial conference by surprise.

* * *

After an hour's detailed questioning, however, they were described as "interested and intrigued" by the plan.

The prime minister, for his part, was reported hopeful that he can win approval in principle for his proposal when the discussion resumes today.

He told the conference he would hope the plan might be in operation by Canada's 100th birthday—July 1, 1967.

The prime minister made his medical proposal to the first top-level federal-provincial conference of the year.

* * *

The conference discussed the prime minister's statement in a 60 - minute question - and - answer session in which all 10 premiers took turns querying Mr. Pearson on various aspects of his proposal.

Among the questions left unanswered is the size of federal contribution to a provincially-operated health insurance plan which meets Ottawa's broad criteria for universality, com-

France Accuses U.S. Of Aerial Espionage

PARIS (AP)—France has accused the United States of aerial espionage at its super-secret nuclear complex, where enriched uranium for the French hydrogen bomb is produced.

The incident aggravated French - American relations, coming at a time when Paris and Washington are poles apart on the Viet Nam and Dominican Republic crises.

FOUR PASSES

French officials charged Monday that a U.S. Air Force RF-101 reconnaissance plane made four passes over the nuclear complex at Pierrelatte in south-eastern France Friday and took 175 photos despite interception by a French fighter plane. A formal protest was lodged with the U.S. embassy here by the foreign ministry.

NO COMMENT

American officials in France and in West Germany, where the photographic reconnaissance plane is based, declined all comment after details of the incident were reported by a French defence ministry communique. State department officials in Washington said only: "The investigation is continuing."

Some hours later, the defence department in Washington issued a brief statement saying "there was no intent to overfly any prohibited area in France." It added, "we are continuing to investigate the matter."

Earlier, American officials said that on the basis of first reports, the plane had been on a routine training mission. They said a thunderstorm caused the plane to go off course, but expressed belief it had not flown over the Pierrelatte complex.

Refuse Clothing

Two Naked Women Held for Arson

KELOWNA (CP) — Two Sons of Freedom Doukhobor women, found naked at the scene of a fire Sunday, refused to put clothes on for a court appearance on arson charges Monday.

RCMP said they had to cover Mary Malakoff and Mary Astaforoff with blankets when they were taken into court.

* * *

The pair refused to enter a plea to charges of setting fire to buildings on the property of Wasyl Konkewicz. They were remanded in custody for a week.

"They're in the cells, still naked," an RCMP officer said. "We made clothes available for them, but they won't put them on."

One of them refused to walk into the courtroom and had to be carried in by three RCMP constables.

* * *

Police said the women had stripped and burned their own clothes when they were arrested on the Konkewicz property Sunday.

He said fires set when the owner was at church destroyed five sheds. There was heavy smoke damage to the house.

Thieves Fail To Crack Safe

Thieves got nothing for their troubles in a break-in at Menzies Street Safeway store over the weekend. The dial was knocked off the safe, but no entry to the safe was made.

Premiers Face Hard Line

But it was on the bitterly controversial subject of offshore mineral rights that he delivered his sharpest salvos.

In spite of the strenuous objections of Quebec, British Columbia and Maritime provinces, the federal government has turned the jurisdictional problem over to the Supreme Court of Canada for a decision.

'GREAT ALARM'

Premier Bennett said his government views the action "with great alarm."

"No step by a national administration in the 94 years since British Columbia entered confederation has caused more shock and concern.

"It is improper and unwise for the government of Canada which advocates co-operative federalism, to raise legal technicalities with respect to a part of provincial natural resources.

"May I warn politely, but in the strongest terms, that this federal step will not contribute to national unity," he charged.

'WIDENING GULF'

He recommended that the federal government withdraw the matter from the courts promptly.

"The government of Canada, if it continues its reluctance to heed the representations of British Columbia, alone must accept the full responsibility for widening the gulf that could develop between the province and the national administration," he said.

The question of offshore mineral rights, which is bound to cause major explosions later in the week, provided a jumping off point for Quebec Premier Lesage.

SHOCK TACTICS

He accused the Pearson government of trying to use "shock tactics" by issuing an exploration permit for the Gulf of St. Lawrence before the matter is settled.

"This procedure, which we consider unacceptable and without justification, threatens to undermine any confidence which we might have in prime minister and premiers' conferences, and to destroy the delicate structure of intergovernmental consultation," he said.

He accused the federal government of trying to turn an "essentially political question" into a legal matter.

MUST NEGOTIATE

"Quebec is not prepared to allow this question to be decided by the courts; it must be settled by political negotiation.

"We deplore that, on such an important issue, intergovernmental consultation should be overlooked," he said.

The Quebec premier also served notice that his province will not participate in most of the programs outlined before the conference by Prime Minister Pearson.

He said Quebec would go it alone on Medicare, the Canada Assistance Plan, regional development, and manpower and employment policies.

DEMANDS GRANTS

But he insisted that the federal government supply his province with grants equivalent to the amounts it could receive under these programs with no strings attached.

Premier Lesage questioned the efficiency of the federal program of tax incentives and capital grants to encourage industry to move into "designated areas."

"The Quebec government controls nearly all the jurisdictional fields which form the concrete basis for any regional policy. . . .

"Furthermore, for administrative and sociological reasons, it is much closer to its population than is the government of Canada.

IN BETTER POSITION

"This means that the Quebec government and the agencies which it may create are in a much better position than the central government to implement a truly effective regional policy," he said.

He added that his province would soon introduce a regional development policy with its own definitions of "designated areas." It will also introduce several other welfare programs covering areas in which the federal government has proposed to act.

He criticized the federal program of providing aid to people wanting to move from depressed areas to other locations where they might find work.

BASIC OBSTACLE

"Even under the best system which could be devised to encourage Canada-wide labor mobility the basic obstacle faced by a French-speaking citizen planning to move from Quebec to another province would still stand.

". . . This obstacle being the difficulty if not the impossibility, of having his children educated in his own language.

"Until this barrier has been removed, any talk of mobility of labor between provinces and of plans to that effect will seem illusory at least to French-speaking Quebecers," he said.

STOP 'ENCROACHING'

Premier Lesage said it was "high time" the federal government stop encroaching on fields of provincial jurisdiction.

"We are dead set against federal laws taking the place of provincial laws, on any pretext whatsoever," he said.

This question of federal-provincial jurisdiction was also raised in a surprisingly strongly-worded opening statement by Ontario Premier Robarts.

He demanded clarification of the federal term "regional development."

PROVINCIAL MATTER

"What Ontario stresses most emphatically is that regional development inside Ontario is primarily a provincial matter and responsibility," he said.

"Specific regional development priorities may be upset if the federal government initiates programs without prior consultation and agreement with Ontario," he added in several references to the federal government's failure to consult Ontario on key questions.

SIPHON WORKERS

He also questioned the "economic rationale" of the federal designated area proposals. Mr. Robarts said they may siphon workers from areas in which they could be more productive.

He strongly demanded a massive increase in federal government aid to higher education.

He recommended that the federal government pay universities an operating grant of $500 per student beginning this fall.

He also recommended that the federal government provide funds to meet one half the approved cost of construction of academic facilities of universities.

EDUCATION AID

Premier Robarts' request for more aid to high education was echoed by Manitoba Premier Roblin and some of the Maritime provinces.

When Mr. Roblin emerged from the conference room he told newsmen he was disappointed by the federal government's seeming indifference to the problem.

Premier Robarts concluded his statement with an indirect slap at the secret agreements that have been negotiated between Premier Lesage and Prime Minister Pearson.

"We are not suggesting that bilateral arrangements should never be concluded between the federal government and a particular province . . .

ISSUES AFFECT ALL

"However we do believe that many issues that affect Quebec are not peculiar to Quebec but effect all provinces.

"It is important not only for the workings of federalism in Canada, but also for the preservation of national unity that the interests and wishes of all provinces be considered and that full discussion should precede such decisions.

"If we are all for federalism, federalism must be for all," he concluded.

Camps for Diabetic Children Need Community Supporters

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Let's give a thought to some children who need help that, happily, we can give them.

I mean children with diabetes. The accepted figure is about one in 3,000 but there are many thousands of children in the United States and Canada.

These youngsters don't look ill. They are as vigorous as their playmates. The chief difference is that almost all of them need insulin every day, and they have to abide by rigid diets—no candy or between-meal snacks.

It's coming up vacation time. Millions of young folks will be going to summer camps.

NOT SAFE

Diabetic children can't—except as I shall explain. A regular camp wouln't be safe for them. Even if they could manage to stay on their individual diets, there would still be a constant risk because the excess amount of strenuous exercise can throw off the sugar-insulin balance. If they play too hard, there can be an insulin reaction; if they are too inactive, tests may show sugar.

These diabetics deserve some summer camp fun at least as much as other youngsters. The American Diabetes Association and affiliated groups are making it possible for them to have an enjoyable vacation. Nearly 50 special camps are now operating in the U.S. and Canada.

SPECIAL CARE

These camps have the same kinds of progrem: Hiking, swimming, sports, crafts, singsongs, campfires. But in ways they are different. Each child gets the diet that has been found necessary individually. Insulin is given daily, in the prescribed amount.

Doctors, nurses and dieticians in many instances donate their services. There's a doctor always on duty at each camp—an expert in recognizing the quirks of diabetes.

Funds are raised by various benefits throughout the year to meet the special expenses, so charges for going to the camps are minimal.

In almost every case, fees are lowered to whatever the parents can afford to pay, so that no child will be deprived because of lack of money.

In a few areas it may already be too late to get in this year, so start making arrangements for next summer. For the most part, however, the camping extends through parts of July and August. It would be a shame, it seems to me, if even one camp cot is empty this summer, while somewhere a youngster with diabetes stayed home in the city.

The age range for both boys and girls is from 7 or 8 to around 14 to 16 years.

Check with the diabetes association in your community. Or if you have difficulty in making contact, ask the doctor who is caring for a diabetic child. He usually can tell you where to write for the information.

Officer's Ear Like Bread —Joe Boy Bit It Off

CHESHUNT, England (UPI)—A ragman's horse bit off a policeman's ear while the officer was feeding it Monday.

Const. Ron Eyres, 31, and his two children were feeding bread to the horse, a two-year-old named Joe Boy, in a field near their home. Eyres bent down to retrieve a piece of bread the horse dropped—and chomp, off went his ear.

"It was just an unfortunate accident," the ear-less officer said later from his hospital bed.

Joe Boy's owner, ragman John Wallis, commented: "A lot of people feed the horse and he has never bitten anyone before. Perhaps he mistook the policeman's ear for a piece of bread."

DEFENDS CONCEPT

He defended the concept of Communist independence within the Soviet bloc, in line with Romania's new policy of Communist nationalism. But his remarks also contained a plea for mutual tolerance between the feuding Russian and Chinese parties.

Referring to "differences of opinion in the world Communist movement," he declared:

"The manner in which each party solves its tasks cannot be the object of dispute. Each party has the exclusive right to elaborate its political line independently. . . ."

WITHDRAW TROOPS

Ceausescu also appealed to all countries to bring their forces home from foreign territories.

He repeated old Communist demands for withdrawal of foreign troops from all countries and singled out the United States for having "nearly half its armed forces in various parts of the world."

French Angry

But the French defence ministry version contradicted these statements. A communique said the American plane committed three infractions: Overflight of a restricted zone; photography without authorization; photography of a restricted zone.

The defence ministry said the American plane made four successive photo passes over the plant. A French Vautour (Vulture) fighter plane intercepted the RF-101 on its second pass and identified it, the ministry said.

The French said they then determined the American plane's West German base and asked for the photos as soon as the plane landed. Development of the film, the French said, revealed 175 views centred on the Pierrelatte plant.

Jacques Baumel, secretary-general of the Gaullist Union for the New Republic party, told a luncheon meeting of the Anglo-American Press Association Monday the Americans gave the pictures to the French.

Police Team Checked All Tipoffs

MONTREAL (CP) — Systematic detective work—not a tip-off from a single person — brought about the capture of Lucien Rivard, Inspector Russell Senecal of the Montreal police said Monday.

"Of course, we had a few hundred tips as to his whereabouts, and each one was checked out," he said.

Inspector Senecal, head of the criminal investigation bureau, said: "The three forces involved—the Quebec Provincial Police, the RCMP and Montreal police—simply pieced together the information gathered from day to day."

ERRAND BOYS

The two men arrested with Rivard Friday — Sebastien Bocher, 41, and Armand (Freddy) Cadieux, 48, were arraigned in Montreal court Monday on charges of being "accessories after the fact" to Rivard's escape from Bordeaux jail March 2. Inspector Senecal called them "errand boys for Rivard."

OUT OF SIGHT

Rivard himself remained out of sight Monday in a QPP cell.

Claude Wagner, justice minister of Quebec, said Rivard could eventually have to answer to charges connected with the jailbreak, even though these charges were withdrawn Saturday.

PRIORITY GIVEN

"We wanted to give priority to the deportation order," Mr. Wagner said. "But we consented to deliver the accused to American authorities as quickly as possibly only after assurance Rivard would be returned to Canada immediately if he were to be acquitted, or after expiry of his sentence if he is convicted."

REVIVE CHARGES

He said the Crown can always revive the two charges it withdrew in arraignment court Saturday—jailbreak and theft of a car with violence.

The dropping of the charges was invoked by Cadieux's lawyer Monday as a reason for the granting of bail to his client.

Rivard Wanted In Texas

WASHINGTON (CP)—United States officials want to get their hands on recaptured prisoner Lucien Rivard as soon as possible but the "Canadians have damned good reason to want to talk to him themselves," one official said Monday.

Lawrence Fleishman of the U.S. bureau of customs' investigation service said Rivard will be taken to Laredo, Tex., as soon as he is available to face narcotics smuggling charges. Three men said to be his accomplices are already there.

Fleishman called the recapture Friday of Rivard near Montreal a good piece of police work and said Rivard "is a big fish." He had been told of the arrest 30 minutes after it happened, he said.

Possible Denis Witness

Cardin Consulting Justice Officials

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Cardin, in his new portfolio for only 12 days, seems to have made sure of consulting his departmental officials in his moves on the Rivard case.

His predecessor, Guy Favreau, resigned as justice minister June 29 after being criticized in the Dorion report for deciding against prosecutions in the Rivard affair without consulting departmental officials.

Saturday, Mr. Cardin said from his Sorel, Que., home he expected Lucien Rivard would be extradited to the United States without delay to stand trial on narcotics charges.

EXTRADITION

However, he added, justice department officials wanted to make sure "there's nothing else pending here" before completing extradition arrangements. Among questions to be considered was whether Rivard might be required as a witness in court proceedings against ex-ministerial aide Raymond Denis.

POSSIBLE WITNESS

Sunday, Mr. Cardin returned unexpectedly to Ottawa, met departmental officials and then announced Rivard's extradition would be delayed while John Cassells, Crown prosecutor in the Denis case, decided whether to call the suspected narcotics conspirator as a witness. This decision may not come until late this week.

BRIBE ATTEMPT

Denis, 32-year-old Montreal lawyer and former executive assistant to the federal immigration minister, was charged here last week with attempted bribery and obstruction of justice for allegedly trying to arrange Rivard's release on bail last summer. He is free on $1,000 bail pending his next court appearance here July 29.

Maxwell D. Taylor

Murder Plot Foiled

SAIGON (AP)—Police foiled a Viet Cong attempt Monday to assassinate U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, police sources reported.

The attempt came shortly after news of a Viet Cong attack on a Vietnamese special forces camp near the Cambodian border. A U.S. spokesman said some Americans were among the casualties.

HEAVY CASUALTIES

Eight American advisers were stationed with about 300 Vietnamese irregulars at the camp at Bu-lop, 80 miles north of Saigon. The spokesman said "casualties may be quite heavy."

The report on Taylor said Viet Cong terrorists had set up a powerful mine of the type used in last month's bombing of the My Canh restaurant, aimed in such a way that it would have killed Taylor 15 minutes later if it had not been discovered, the sources said.

UNITY DAY

Taylor was with an official party attending a "national unity day for the liberation of North Viet Nam" rally at Saigon's biggest stadium.

The mine had been set up in a cemetery across the street from the stadium entrance and aimed at the entrance, the sources said. The mine — a Claymore type — contains a shaped charge and shrapnel that is projected in a lethal beam when detonated.

The My Canh floating restaurant was bombed by Viet Cong terrorists June 25. The blast, the worst ever in Saigon, killed 43 persons, including 12 Americans, and wounded 81 others.

Police were reported to have found the mine 15 minutes before Taylor was to have entered the stadium. Reports said police arrested one Viet Cong terrorist responsible for setting the mine, and found a grenade on him.

It was not immediately known whether Taylor was aware of the incident. The ceremony itself went off without a hitch.

Paratroops, Australians Greeted by McNamara

BIEN HOA, Viet Nam (UPI)—U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara today flew by helicopter to the strategic U.S. air base at Bien Hoa near where three Americans were killed Monday in a Viet Cong mortar attack.

McNamara, in the windup of his tour of American military installations in South Viet Nam, maintained a quick pace in visiting the headquarters of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade and the 1st battalion of the Royal Australian Regiment.

CLEAN-UP JOB

During his visit with the American paratroopers, McNamara discussed their recent clean-up operations in the Viet Cong-infested Zone D area near Saigon. He then went down the line shaking hands and chatting with the paratroopers who took part in the operations.

McNamara is due to return to Saigon tonight for his scheduled trip to Washington.

THREE KILLED

The Bien Hoa air base is situated about three miles from U.S. infantry positions which came under Communist mortar fire early Monday. Three Americans were killed and an undisclosed number wounded in the attack.

McNamara, accompanied by army Gen. Earl Wheeler, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, first flew to the coastal city of Nha Trang, 200 miles northeast of Saigon. They inspected the headquarters of army aviation units and the 5th special forces group.

SUPPLY COMPLEX

Then they travelled 15 miles north to Cam Ranh, a port supply complex that will eventually be capable of supplying a U.S. fighting force of more than 100,000 combat troops.

Monday's tour lasted 10 hours before the defence secretary and his party returned to Saigon.

HEAVY GUARD

No advance schedule of McNamara's movements is released, and he is accompanied by a massive security guard wherever he travels in Viet Nam.

Ambassador designate Henry Cabot Lodge, who accompanied McNamara to Viet Nam at the request of President Johnson, stayed in Saigon. His schedule was secret, but there was speculation he was having political talks with Vietnamese leaders.

New Envoy?

While Washington speculated Monday that Secretary of State Dean Rusk might be shifted to post of U.S. ambassador to United Nations left vacant by death of Adlai Stevenson and Defence Secretary McNamara might succeed Rusk, White House and state department sources said they had no information to support this. Report also came as surprise to Rusk.

'Hanoi Key to Peace'

Wilson Eliminates Russia As Ally in Ending War

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson has virtually eliminated the Soviet Union as a possible instrument to help bring peace in Viet Nam. He said the key to peace lies in Hanoi and there appears to be no possible approach through Moscow.

Wilson touched on what he described as the sombre and tragic Viet Nam situation in a House of Commons foreign affairs debate Monday when the Conservative opposition accused the Labor prime minister of playing politics with the Commonwealth peace mission on Viet Nam.

POLITICAL ASPECT

Reginald Maudling, Tory foreign affairs spokesman, referred to statements by Dr. Eric Williams, prime minister of Trinidad and Tobago, to support his charges. Before leaving London last Friday, Williams, a member of the mission, was quoted as saying the British government had used the recent Commonwealth leaders' conference mainly with an eye on party politics.

Wilson interjected that Williams, on a previous occasion, stated the Commonwealth conference had accomplished more this time than the previous one under the Tories.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home, Opposition leader, asked Wilson to elaborate on reports that Hanoi had extended an invitation to President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, another Commonwealth peace mission member. Wilson said he could make no comment on this until Nkrumah had made his position known on the invitation. He expected a statement from Accra within a day or two.

Bombing Trip Foiled

DA NANG (AP) — Two drunk U.S. marine infantrymen tried to raid Hanoi but they couldn't get the jet bombers started, a military spokesman said Monday.

"We are here to kill Viet Cong and we are going to Hanoi to bomb it," said one of the marines, said an official report of the incident.

Military sources said the marines caused some damage to the bombers while fumbling with the switches and controls. However, both planes were repaired and flown on strike missions against the Viet Cong.

Different Basis?

PREMIER BENNETT indicates he has entirely dropped the idea of using the new federal constituency boundaries in provincial elections. Early in the year, it will be recalled, he thought of taking advantage of the redistribution at the national level by adopting the revised map with only one difference—the creation of an extra riding in the north—and with each district electing two members to the Legislative Assembly.

Now, however, having weighed the results of the work of the impartial, non-political federal boundaries commission headed by Mr. Justice Harold W. McInnes, he finds the altered districts "completely unrealistic on a provincial basis."

This description would seem to allow that the redistribution was realistic enough on a federal basis, and it is not exactly easy to see that in the allocation of voting power there should be a great deal of difference in the two fields. The ideal of representation by population, tempered by the need to make allowance for the problems of communication in the large and sparsely settled ridings, is the same in both.

Be that as it may, the premier's change of mind raises two important questions.

The first is, how much longer is British Columbia going to wait for a redrawing of its far outdated provincial electoral map, which for example gives Delta and Dewdney ratios of 38,000 voters to one MLA, while five of the province's 42 constituencies have fewer than 4,000 registered voters each?

Mr. Bennett says the problem is "under the active consideration of the whole cabinet." But it has been reported under consideration, with varying degrees of urgency and attention according to the standard governmental scale, for years. Are we to go through the next election, too, without putting representation right?

And the second: Is British Columbia going to have a redistribution at least modelled on that which the premier now disdains—a rearrangement of boundaries by a commission independent of politics, free of partisan influence and concerned not with election results and party organization but only with an equitable division of representation in the legislature, according mostly to members and as far as this permits, to community of interests? Or in the premier's view, would this merely be apt to return the same results—"unrealistic on a provincial basis"?

A Dud from Ottawa

THE GOVERNMENT of Canada recently circulated a pamphlet which described in general, and a few specific, terms the provisions of the Canada Pension Act which is to come into force next January.

The government at the same time promised that in the near future it will have a more elaborate brochure explaining the ramifications of this extraordinarily complex agreement between the state and individual. That is well. The present brochure has done little more than confuse the minds of a great many people as to what is happening.

Persons who are already over the age at which contributions may be accepted—70 years—have suddenly realized from this pamphlet that they are out. Even if they live another 30 years to be centenarians—the Canada Pension Plan is not for them.

Another question which has created some confusion is the question of the man and wife who both work. Does the double pension accrue? Many people say that the wife who has acted as housekeeper, wife and mother for a large family is as much employed as the person who has a $600 a year part-time job taking the minimum of time and effort.

Yet under the Canada pension plan it appears the one may not become a pensioner while the other may.

An older citizen who himself is barred from the plan has a younger wife. If she can find a $600 a year job will she be able to qualify for a Canada pension? Or if the husband chose to pay his wife a wage for her domestic services, would that count?

There should be little doubt even in the mind of a querulous public that Miss LaMarsh and her advisers have satisfactory answers to the hundred-and-one queries and problems which the national pension plan will raise, but meantime people who are planning for their old age should be informed as soon as possible what the great event of January, 1967, has in store for them—individually and collectively.

The first pamphlet was in vulgar parlance—a dud.

Apathy Apparent

WHY IS IT FEWER than 11 per cent of ratepayers turn out to vote on a $1,855,400 school building referendum in fast-growing District 63?

This area, which embraces the greater part of the Saanich area, Cordova Bay, Prospect Lake, Brentwood, Saanichton, Deep Cove and Sidney, approved the referendum last Saturday 841 to 444: a total of 1,285 voters. It was one of the lightest votes on record.

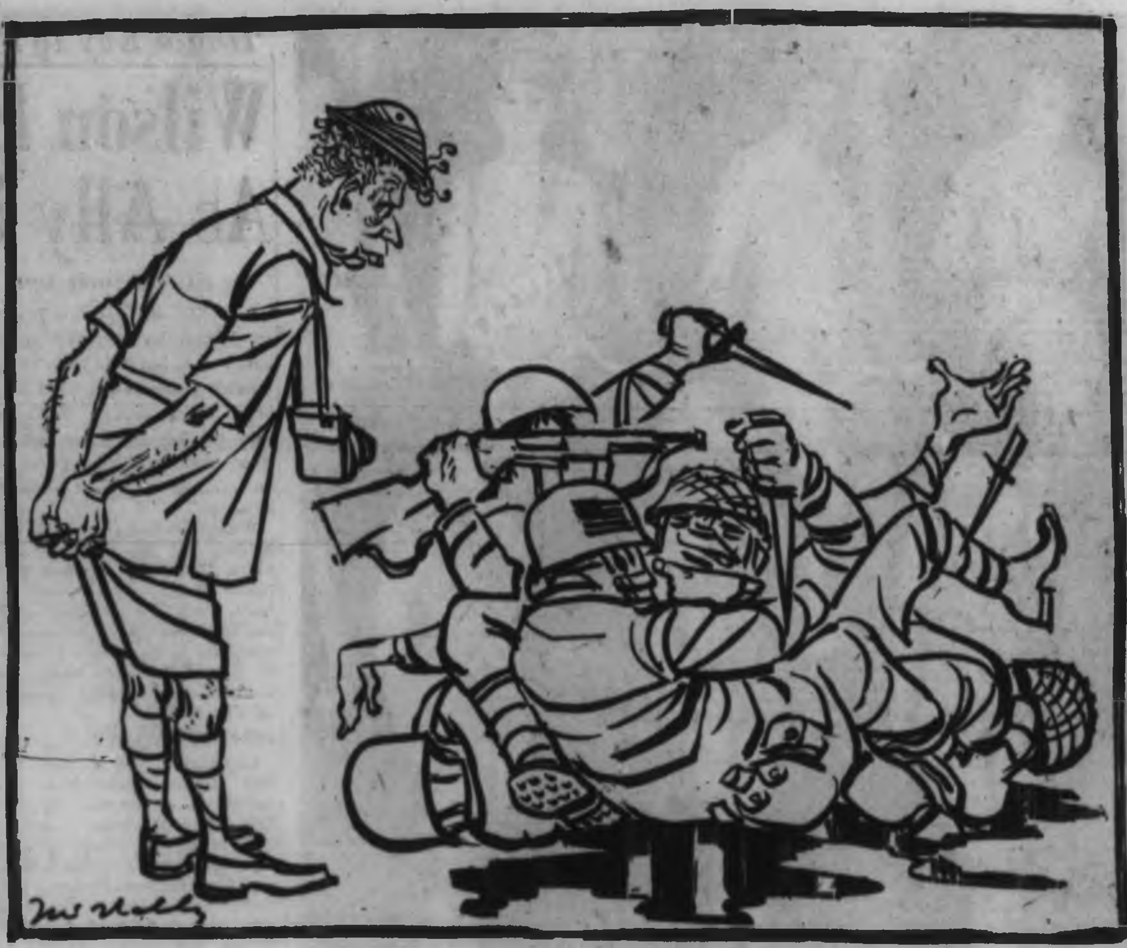
It could have been predicted.

In the regional meetings called to enlighten the public, and particularly the ratepayers, prior to the referendum a total of 19 persons arrived to hear trustees explain the needs of the area and the program to meet them. At Claremont school there were seven; at Mount Newton high school 10; and at North Saanich high school not a soul appeared until 8:30 p.m., half an hour after the scheduled start. There were two arrivals finally.

Officials have expressed some concern at the apathy of voters. In years past School District 63 was known for its keen interest in school building plans. In fact it was an area of furious opposition to building programs from time to time.

Today indifference seems to stem from the feeling that new construction is inevitable, and even though there is a hard core in opposition, as long as costs are within reasonable bounds the vast majority is prepared to accept the trustees' recommendations. Perhaps this is a good thing. But why, then, go to the expense of referendums? Why not leave the decision with the trustees?

Such amendments to the law as would be necessary to give school boards a free hand are not recommended; but if the suggestion were made it would appear from the experience of this latest referendum that opposition would not be vociferous.



"I want to see at first hand the situation in Southeast Asia."

'Peace' Conference in Finland

A Back-Biting, Bickering Brawl

By ROLAND HUNTFORD from Helsinki

THE word "peace" used polemically is suspect in Finland, for it is usually taken to indicate some form of Russian political manoeuvring. This was underlined at the World Congress for Peace and National Independence and General Disarmament held in this city.

Superficially a gathering of right-minded idealists in aid of the aims in the title, it turned out to be a Russian initiative in their brawl with the Chinese, the main points of contention being Viet Nam and Africa.

The conference was inspired by the Soviet-dominated World Council of Peace, whose chairman for some years has been a British scientist, Professor J. D. Bernal. The sponsors ranged from Bertrand Russel and Ilya Ehrenburg to Valentina Tereskova (the Russian woman astronaut) and Emil Zatopek, the Czech athlete. But even they could not erase local unpopularity, nor did they manage to extract Finnish approval for the participation on opening day of the Finnish president, Mr. Kekkonen, and the prime minister, Mr. Virolainen.

* * *

Organised by the Finnish Communists, the conference was dominated by the Russians. It took place at the Finnish Communist Party headquarters, the so-called "House of Culture" in Helsinki, a fine building designed by the famous Finnish architect Alva Aalto. Since the Finnish Communists are ostracised in Finnish political life, the participation of President Kekkonen and Mr. Virolainen, men of the Centre, seemed at first sight odd. It was generally accepted as being due to Russian requests—or pressure. As the conference unfolded, their role became clear—that of an outside and independent support of the Russian line against the Chinese.

President Kekkonen merely attended the opening session; Mr. Virolainen made a speech. He praised peaceful coexistence in fulsome terms. He boasted that Finland, the neighbor of Russia, had lived peacefully with her since the war. He talked of trade, of President Kekkonen's plan for declaring Scandinavia a nuclear-free zone, and ended by unveiling a sketch for a monument to "peaceful coexsistence," which may be erected in Helsinki. There was no doubt for whom all this was intended; it was for the large number of Afro-Asians in the hall, and (rather forlornly) the 40-strong Chinese delegation.

* * *

The Chinese disapproved of Mr. Virolainen's speech. They showed it clearly by stony-faced silence and by demonstratively refraining from joining in the applause. But the speech was obviously of importance to the Russians, who set great store by Finnish help, interested as they so clearly are in winning over the Africans from the Chinese.

The Russians are shrewd enough to realize the limitations of their own propaganda; conversely they know the value of sympathetic thoughts voiced by a neutral country, and preferably one with a Western style of government. Finland fills these requirements admirably.

The Chinese were aggressive even before the conference opened; they nearly wrecked it by insisting that a resolution on Viet Nam should brand the United States as aggressor. This was defeated by the Russian camp, but only after a protracted preparatory meeting of several hours.

The Russians muzzled the Chinese by manipulating the agenda in the method of voting. This led to a noisy demonstration at the plenary session, whose main interest was to show how the camps were divided; on the Chinese side were the Albanians and the Indonesians, with the rest either neutral or pro-Russian. Oddly enough, the Vietnamese showed no inclination to back the Chinese.

The North Vietnamese were represented, and so were the Viet Cong. Both were intransigent, and wanted war to the death. A negotiated peace seemed to them ridiculous, and they flatly rejected the efforts which have been made by the British prime minister, Mr. Harold Wilson, at mediation.

But behind all the words, there was a faint suspicion that the Vietnamese were not all that sure of throwing the Americans into the sea. A curiously large proportion of their speeches were devoted to whipping up sympathy by describing the damage caused by the Americans. From this it appeared that there was not a town or a village in all Viet Nam that was not devastated by American bombs, and that since 1961 the "Vietnamese people" had had 170,000 killed and 800,000 wounded in "fighting the imperialists."

They received massive support from the Chinese at all meetings, with standing ovations at the proper places. The Russians, on the other hand, showed a remarkable lack of enthusiasm—even when a Viet Cong speaker accused the Americans of using gas and bacteriological weapons. The expression on one or two Russian faces might even have been interpreted as "So what!"

It is little wonder that in private conversation both the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates gave the impression they were beginning to feel just a little like pawns in the Big Power game.

* * *

But the African delegates held perhaps most interest. They were chiefly from rebels in the remaining colonial territories, and it was clear the Russians had brought them to Helsinki as part of an effort to woo them from the Chinese. They all came via Moscow, where they talked to high officials. There were Angolan rebels, and members of a Southwest African exile organization in Cairo.

There were five members of the outlawed Zimbabwe African People's Union of Rhodesia. They left Rhodesia illegally, by a route they refused to divulge "because others will want to use it." But it seems to be by way of Cairo and Prague. Their leader, Mr. E. Ndlovu, said that he had had "interesting talks" in Moscow, but that he was "friends with the Chinese, too."

The Russians showed surprising lack of enthusiasm for the Africans, and gave the impression of fearing that more revolution in Africa at present will benefit only the Chinese. Certainly the Africans in Helsinki veered more towards the Chinese than to the Russians.

All in all, it is scarcely surprising that the Russians and the Chinese were not on speaking terms here in Helsinki. The back-biting and bickering reached such a pitch that the more idealistic participants started to complain. Professor Bernal—who announced his retirement as chairman of the World Council of Peace — sharply attacked the contestants, and asked everybody to sink their differences in the interests of humanity. But none concerned with the substance of the conference paid heed to his words.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press

Sir David Kirke captured Quebec 336 years ago today—in 1629—and completed the seizure of the French settlements of Acadia and the St. Lawrence for England. They were restored to France three years later but Kirke stayed in North America, being knighted in 1633 and becoming governor of Newfoundland in 1637. He was recalled by Cromwell in 1651 and died, probably in prison.

1881—Sitting Bull surrendered to U.S. forces after his return from sanctuary in Canada.

1923—Pancho Villa was assassinated.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1915—the Welsh coalfields strike, which had involved 200,000 men, ended; German forces captured Windau in Latvia; Sir Robert Borden visited Canadian troops in the field.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—President Roosevelt authorized a $4,500,000,000 expansion of the U.S. Navy for a "two oceans" fleet; Seyss-Inquart set up Nazi courts in The Netherlands to try acts "against the German nation;" Britain announced 336 civilians had died in the first month of air raids.

Dateline: Europe

Crucial Point

By OTTO VON HABSBURG

THE breakdown of negotiations on agriculture in Brussels on June 30 came as a complete surprise to the public. Naturally there is a feeling of disaster and widespread pessimism prevailing in Europe.

Our press is actively looking for a culprit. The conspirative thesis of world affairs demands a scapegoat and does not allow for the fact that generally everyone has his share of guilt. Everything is drawn in black and white, angels and sinners. As usual, France is the villain. Paris has certainly been guilty of mistakes and errors of judgment. Objectively speaking it is far from being mainly responsible for the crisis.

* * *

There is first of all Italy. Cleverly, discreetly, Rome remained in the wings. Its underhanded obstruction nevertheless was felt on every essential point. The Moro government created technical difficulties wherever possible so that it looks as if it had purposely tried to prevent an agreement. It seemed more than once that the policy of Italy's ruling parties was the interests of the nationalized petroleum-trust ENI, rather than those of Europe.

A grave responsibility falls also on the Low Countries. They followed a rigid, sanctimonious line, sacrificing practical possibilities to so-called principles. The more than intimate ties between The Hague and London may well explain certain Dutch governmental attitudes which obviously were aimed at slowing down the progress toward continental unity.

Germany, in turn, had a shifty policy. An energetic word from Bonn could have resolved many difficulties. People hoped for it in vain.

The majority of the governments of the Common Market share in the guilt for the deplorable events. If they were able to act as they did, despite public opinion, it is because of the technical nature of the debates, which permits them to hide reality behind a smokescreen of bureaucratic gobbledygook.

* * *

That this was possible is also the fault of the European organizations. Whether official or private, they have assumed the task of promoting the ideal of continental unity. But they have become all too often slothful, bureaucratized mutual admiration societies rather than fighting outfits. They and their leaders acted as if they had already reached the goal at a time when a major part of the work remains to be done. If, instead of wasting time in petty squabbles they had worked to mobilize public opinion, to pressure continuously the governments, to lobby in the parliaments and in the press, we would never have fallen as low as we have today.

Fortunately, nothing is as yet lost if true Europeans abandon their complacency and start to act. If this be the case, governments will be unable to resist them. A well-informed public opinion is powerful. If the present crisis serves to awaken the latent forces, then the Brussels disaster might turn out to be a blessing in disguise. But there should be no mistake: in this hot summer of 1965 Europe has suddenly reached one of the crucial turning points of its long history.

Higher-Educated Rioters

Spirited Youth

By SHAUN HERRON from Boston

THERE is a deep sense of hurt among the young people of America.

Sensation seeking news media have set out to fasten upon a majority the deliberately distorted image of a fun loving minority.

The riot season is over for a time. Easter, July 4 and Labor Day are the annual riot festivals. Christmas is cold and therefore uncomfortable and discomfort being evidence of life incompetence, no American boy or girl is going to be caught at it. Labor Day is our next happy jolly fun time, when no doubt batches of anachronistic old crocks and uniformed brutalizers will once again sputter like two-stroke engines against vitality and independence.

We older people must make an effort to understand the problems of the young.

* * *

First, they are young. It is inevitable that the judgment of the enfeebled and decrepit will be shadowed by jealousy of bubbling life. But if we don't have it, we shouldn't knock it.

Second, they are honest. What they have to do they do openly. You recall very well when we were young, how secret we were in the enjoyment of our delinquencies. In our tottering middle-age we like to imagine that we made our juvenile explorations in careful seclusion because we had too much taste to ram our personal discoveries down the throats of every passer-by. But in our hearts we know that privacy is mere deceit, hypocrisy, the sneaky manifestation of a putrid conscience. And taste is a synonym for cowardice.

* * *

We were snobs also. Remember how we thought rioting was something only the interminably unemployed, or the hidden hordes from the slums, or Communists, or Mosley's Blackshirts engaged in?

America's high school and college students are above and beyond these impertinent conceits. If the devil cannot have all the good tunes, why in Salvation Army headquarters should the poor, the revolutionary, the reactionary or the colored have all the good riots?

Liberty is a universal right. And what becomes of freedom if it is not exercised? Don't all the professors want to know that? Come on now, let's be fair-minded men and acknowledge that these youngsters have taken us a step forward. We now have higher-educated rioters.

We were, after all, a timid lot. I recall the last Rag Day I shared as a student. We were sissy, there is no doubt, making asses of ourselves to raise money for hospitals. We closed that day, I recall, with a minor brown paper flour-bag war. Not one of us had the guts to throw a Molotov cocktail at a policeman, or smash a plate glass window, or overturn and burn somebody's car, or set on fire the store or cafe or some craven and submissive taxpayer whose place of livelihood got in the way of our gay enjoyment of inalienable right.

As a matter of fact, a policeman for us was an ominous symbol of an even more ominous reality—Law. Behind the blue uniform there gathered a great cloud of power that whispered "O-R-D-E-R" even in the leaves of the trees. Before it we were cowed, beaten, regimented.

These young Americans are bolder lads and gals. Why, I saw one young girl, showing no trace of the debilitating corruption of higher education, turn on a uniformed bully who asked her to move on, and belt him right in the mouth. Perhaps she was a psychology major, or maybe in home-making.

* * *

I thought for a long time about her. In years gone by I should not have had the courage or confidence to marry a college girl of her calibre. Now that I am older, and have had time to reflect on all I have missed, I think with nostalgic resentment of my years with Calamity Jane.

It appals me now, but not once in all these years have I found in her enough spirit to justify knocking her down. With that girl at Lake George, things would have been different. She was of middle height and not indifferently molded. I could have beaten her up of course, but only if I stayed alert and picked my punches. Marital boredom? Murder, maybe, but boredom, not.

The time has come to be magisterial about these young students, to see them with objective sympathy, to understand them. They have much to teach us.

Postscript: Calamity Jane has been reading this over my shoulder. As she read the paragraphs about that college girl who belted the policeman in the mouth, she hauled off and clobbered me in the teeth.

I feel my middle age slipping away.

The Teachers' Salaries

Our Readers' Views

* * *

To be considered for publication in whole or in part, letters must be on subjects of general interest and if signed with pen-names, must be accompanied by writer's name and address. Preference will be given to those that are brief.

I WISH to submit a rebuttal to the ignorant prejudice of the "Long Suffering Taxpayer" which, I hope, will at least be somewhat objective.

Teachers can be blamed, I feel, for the lack of press coverage on their collective efforts concerning education except for salary negotiations.

The fact remains, however, that "Long Suffering Taxpayer" is ignorant of teacher's salary increases in comparison with other fields and the cost of living and of the working hours of teachers. Many teachers with lesser qualifications than a university degree make no more money and often less than tradesmen. Those teachers with degrees (all eventually) must have salaries that at least approach other professions. One reason being to help attract good candidates to the teaching field. To insist that raises are not based partially on the cost of living is to insult hard working trustees. Expert negotiators are hired by school boards ensuring that any salary increases granted are thoroughly justified.

Concerning working hours, it is admitted that concentrated effort is required for five hours a day. Obviously, though, preparation of lessons, marking, supervision and extra curricular activities demand several hours a day as well.

As with most fields teaching has its share of undesirables. Until the shortage of teachers is relieved, however, many less competent people will obtain positions.

It is not fair to be anti-teacher for the reason that they cost the property taxpayer money. If possible a different basis should be found for financing education costs. ALSO A TAXPAYER.

* * *

Idyllic Picture

On July 13 a "long-suffering taxpayer" painted an idyllic picture of the teaching profession as requiring only "five hours a day for 9½ months," and having "an excellent salary."

That "excellent salary" sounds wonderful! Imagine what it would be like for boards to be free of the necessity of advertising week after week to find some teacher (any teacher) to fill their vacant class rooms. They'd be besieged with applicants just begging for a job. The education faculty would be flooded with bright young students anxious, eager and able to take education instead of law or engineering. This would soon create a surplus of teachers. For the first time in history, school boards would be able to choose "the cream of the crop" and incompetent or ill-trained applicants would find it impossible to get a job. Teachers would be rushing to improve their qualifications, techniques and skills. Teaching would very quickly become a competitive field where only the best could survive . . . to the immeasurable benefit of our children and society.

A grand idea, but no more true than the claim that teaching takes only five hours a day. (This completely disregards the hours of study and preparation which precede the "in class" time, and the hours of marking and administration which follow. It's rather like saying that a symphony conductor works only one evening a month.)

Long vacations are intended to benefit children . . . not teachers, and many would cheerfully swap them for the two missing pay cheques.

Teaching is a wonderful career. It is exacting and time-consuming, but it is also challenging, exciting and fun. Still, very few students choose it. Why should they? In engineering, law or medicine (to mention a few) they can find an equal challenge, equal pleasure, AND A LOT MORE MONEY!

Let's face it, Mr. Taxpayer . . . if you want a better education for your children, you are going to have to pay for it.

ALICE AGES-BOURQUE.

Bilingualism

Mr. F. R. Jeffs writes of a French heritage, and of the intermingling of our generic races, which would be for Canada's immense benefit.

There is in Canada, only one European race, neither English or French, but European, and it is time for the Indo-Mediterranean elements; who have exerted more influence than their due share, in past history, to admit this. Language and religion have suffered most from this intrusion.

Racial integration between the two civilizations, the European and the Indo-Mediterranean, would bring Canada closer to the loss of those Christian ethics, which guarantee freedom for the individual, as past history teaches.

Having learned both English and French, as foreign languages, equally well in youth, I find English to be of greater international value, but in the study of language, the native Breton tongue, similar to the Rustic Latin of the Irish Gauls, is better than French or English or Latin, in etymological value.

Fine Work

I have just returned home from an extensive camping trip during which I spent two weeks on Vancouver Island, and most of this Island time was spent in Goldstream provincial park, near Victoria.

I feel the general public, in addition to campers who have enjoyed Goldstream, should be made aware of the fine work being carried on in Goldstream by naturalist Freeman King.

My family and I attended many evening nature talks around Mr. King's camp fire and we also accompanied him on his afternoon nature walks, and I must say we learned a great deal about the outdoors from this dedicated man who terms himself an amateur in the field of natural science. While he may be an amateur in the sense of being a non-professional, Mr. King remains an unquestioned authority on the flora and fauna of the Pacific Northwest and Western Canada.

Our vacation in British Columbia was made immeasurably more enjoyable by having met and sat at the feet of Mr. King.

May his work in the provincial park system go on for many years.

Change Required

Thank you for your common-sense editorial of July 4, "Parking in the Parks," dealing with the antiquated bylaw which prohibits parking for more than 15 minutes after dusk in Beacon Hill Park.

Isn't it rather ridiculous that money is being spent by citizens on night-time illumination, that literature is being distributed advising visitors of this, some of it being handed out in the park itself on the day of your editorial, and yet those same visitors are being prohibited from parking for a sufficient time to enjoy it and being moved on after less than 15 minutes by your local police?

Survivors Thankful Belts Not Fastened in Plane

By TONY DILLON-DAVIS

Fastened seat belts could have proved fatal for four Victoria men aboard a crashed light aircraft Saturday, Victor Hohlachoff, 25, of 760 Roderick, said Monday.

It started as a pleasure jaunt to Tofino.

The four men, Ervyn Duke, pilot, Mr. Hohlachoff, Arnold Anderson and Roy Paul left Patricia Bay airport at 9:15 a.m. Saturday aboard a Piper Tri-Pacer aircraft from the Victoria Flying Club.

A little less than an hour later, the pleasure ended, and the four men tensely stared through the windsheild as thick fog in a valley brought visibility down to only a few feet.

"We spotted a clear spot, and flew into it," Mr. Hohlachoff said.

A few minutes later the fog closed in.

"We saw trees 100 feet in front of us. Ervyn tried to gain altitude fast, but the plane just didn't have the power."

Anderson

The aircraft smashed into the tops of the trees, perched there for a few seconds, then plunged to the forest floor.

"As soon as the plane touched the ground it caught fire."

The aircraft was on its back, three doors were locked. The fourth, Mr. Hohlachoff's was jammed open. In the front, beside the pilot, Arnold Anderson was struggling with his seat belt as flames burned his arm.

Mr. Hohlachoff did not have his belt fastened.

The three other men got out, then pulled Mr. Anderson free.

"We pulled back a little, then checked ourselves over."

Mr. Hohlachoff and Mr. Paul started off to get help.

"It was rough going, very rough. The trees were so close together they were like the hairs on your head.

"Mr. Paul said he wanted to come, but he had some broken ribs, and every step he took was agony for him."

The two men followed a gully, then a creek.

They followed the creek bed, forced to make many detours at waterfalls.

Mr. Paul stopped at the creek, and could go no further, so Mr. Hohlachoff, who was unhurt, struck off on his own.

He followed the creek until it started to level off.

"I thought it was coming to a lake, a dead end, so I turned back."

"I wore out the soles of my shoes. When I reached Mr. Paul, I borrowed his shoes and struck out again."

"I spent the night lying in the bush. I was cold and wet and couldn't sleep."

Early Sunday morning, he found an old logging road and followed it, to a dead end.

He followed the road in the opposite direction.

"I saw two Indians in a truck and tried to flag them down. They wouldn't stop so I jumped on the bumper, then told them about the crash. They said they heard about it on the radio."

A few minutes later, and Mr. Hohlachoff was telling his story to a man at a construction camp, who relayed it to Comox RCAF base.

He guided an air force rescue team to Mr. Paul, then showed them the general area where the aircraft crashed.

Mr. Hohlachoff was taken to Tofino hospital, then to RCAF hospital, Comox, then back to Patricia Bay airport Monday morning.

"I expect to be back at work Wednesday," he said, as he rested from his ordeal.

ment, then plunged to the forest floor.

"She caught fire right away, even before we hit the ground," said Mr. Duke.

"When we landed there were flames all over. The whole thing burned within 30 seconds. There were flames 100 feet high."

The four dazed men scrambled from the wreckage, with only Mr. Anderson suffering burns.

* * *

The woods didn't catch fire; they were too wet.

At his home Mr. Duke pointed out the spot where he thought he crashed, a valley near the junction of Museum Creek and the Nitinat River, southeast of Franklin River.

Actually the four were far southwest, a fact which may have misled searchers who scoured their planned route Saturday afternoon and all day Sunday.

* * *

"I stayed with Arnold Alderson," Mr. Duke recalled. "He was pretty well off, considering."

Victor Hochlachoff and Roy Paul set off for help, heading down the Klanawa River.

Paul was forced to stop because of the pain in his ribs. Hohlachoff continued alone, back-tracking several times. Both men, like the two at the wreck, spent a cold, wet night in the open.

* * *

Hohlachoff separated from Paul again on Sunday morning, and that afternoon was found by Indians on a logging road. Picked up at Bamfield by an RCAF amphibious Albatross, he went back to hunt for his friends.

Paul was located and evacuated by helicopter, but Duke and Anderson remained unseen in the gloom of the rain forest.

"We were pretty hungry and thirsty," said Mr. Duke, who had left home that morning without breakfast. "But our biggest problem was keeping warm."

* * *

They had no fire, despite the plane's blaze.

"It was so hot we couldn't get near it. Then it died right down. Arnold's matches and cigarettes were lost in the plane.

"We couldn't see 30 feet for fog all Saturday night.

They saw no wildlife except a lot of woodpeckers.

"We talked about a lot of things."

* * *

Mr. Duke tore a landing light from the wreckage in the hope of signalling a rescue plane. He also spread a white piece of rudder, but he had doubts."

"All we could see of the sky was a little piece half the size of this ceiling," he said in his living room.

He heard several planes on Sunday afternoon.

"We could hear an Albatross, and we could occasionally see a plane, if it went overhead."

* * *

Near dark, at 9:30 p.m., the pilot of an Albatross spied the wreck. A helicopter carrying Flt. Lt. A. F. Cummings, a doctor, lowered the medic by winch.

The rescue was delayed until 1 a.m. Monday because the helicopter had to return to Comox for refueling. Then the doctor and the two men were pulled up to safety.

They were flown direct to Beacon Hill Park, then rushed to hospital.

* * *

"That country is pretty rugged," Mr. Duke reminisced on Monday. "Anyone who doesn't think so is welcome to go and walk through it."

Will he fly the wilderness again?

"Sure," he said.

Sir Stanley Accepts Job

LONDON (AP)—Sir Stanley Matthews, Britain's most famous soccer star who retired this year, agreed today to become general manager of Port Vale, a lowly team in the English Fourth Division.

Jack Mudie, who formerly played with Matthews in the Blackpool forward line, is player-manager of Port Vale. He will continue. Matthews said he and Mudie would work together.

'Religious Divisions Won't Be Tolerated'

By IAN ARROL

Protestantism and Roman Catholicism are things of the past, Bishop Dehys Rankilor said in Victoria Monday on his return from the Ottawa Inter-Faith Conference attended by Christians, Jews, Moslems and Hindus.

"The Inter-Faith Conference agreed that in principle, denominationalism is defunct. The 21st century now upon us will never tolerate the religious divisions of the past," said the bishop.

The conference was sponsored by the Centennial Commission of Canadian Confederation under the direction of Maurice Lamontaigne, secretary of state.

Bishop Rankilor termed the conference decision to hold nation-wide services "covering all religions in Canada" in 1967 "an adventure in human relations never before attempted in history."

These centennial-year services will be held New Year's Day, Dominion Day and Thanksgiving.

"The keynote of the conference was the clear cut decision that all churches and religions in Canada will work together in the common cause," said the bishop.

Not Funny But Fading

A bishop wearing gaiters other than in church is as peculiarly garbed as a judge would be wearing a wig other than in court, according to a London rector.

"So why should the church continue to wear funny clothes?" Rev. Joseph McCulloch asked a Westminster Abbey congregation.

"Gaiters are dignified, distinctive and really no more funny than a pair of trousers," answered Archbishop Harold E. Sexton in Victoria Monday.

However, the archbishop admitted he no longer wears gaiters himself and that even in England the practice is gradually disappearing.

Corpse In Trunk Husband

Fabian

Clyde

BLACKPOOL, England — Excited bystanders telephoned police that a blonde had just driven by with a man's foot sticking out of the trunk in her car. Police stopped the car.

"The corpse in the trunk is my husband," said the driver, Shirley Aire, "and he's very much alive." Mrs. Aire explained that her fuel pump had broken down. Her husband was traveling in the trunk to work the pump by hand so she could get to a service station.

* * *

HOLLYWOOD — Actor-singer Fabian, 22, has been treated at Cedars of Lebanon hospital for several lacerations on his right arm received when he walked through a glass door at a party.

* * *

VENTURA, Calif. — Clyde Beatty, who survived countless brushes with death as America's most famous wild animal trainer, has died of cancer at the age of 62. His wife, Jane, said he was suffering from terminal cancer of the windpipe.

* * *

SOUTHEND, England — Police towed Henry Near's car out of the North Sea. Near explained that he was fascinated by that television gasoline advertisement showing a go-ahead-fun-loving couple speeding in their sports car in the surf along a moon-lit beach. Near and his wife tried it and their car sank up to the axles. Then the tide came in.

* * *

LONDON — Belgium's Cardinal Suenens of Malines, considered one of the Roman Catholic Church's leading theologians, says he feels the Christian churches are on the verge of union. He said he felt union would be easiest between the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox churches.

* * *

CLEVELAND — Sam Sheppard and his blonde wife, Ariane, have celebrated their first wedding anniversary quietly but they are worried over his possible return to prison. The U.S. Court of Appeals has denied Sheppard a retrial and ordered him back to prison. He won his temporary release from prison on a court order. The state of Ohio had five days to file objections to letting Sheppard remain free on $10,000 bond, pending an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

* * *

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations who died in London has been buried in the family plot of Evergreen Park Cemetery. His family and friends, President and Mrs. Johnson, Vice-President and Mrs. Humphrey and U.S. cabinet members, watched solemnly in silent tribute.

THURNHAM, England — Landlord Alfie Postelthwaite of the Black Horse public house here has a massive headache — 300,000 aspirins he can't sell. Alfie exchanged his car for the drugs in the hope of selling them within the trade. But nobody wants them — or the breath-cleansing chlorophyll pills he got in the same deal.

Atomic Plant Okayed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The go-ahead signal flashed Monday for construction of an atomic-powered plant on New York State's Long Island that will turn sea water into fresh water at the rate of 1,000,000 gallons a day.

The $5,000,000 project, to be completed in 1968, will be the first of its kind in the U.S. to be powered by nuclear energy.

The plant also will have an electric generating capacity of 2,500 kilowatts.

Tibetans Ambush Chinese

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Tibetan rebels are ambushing Chinese convoys in the area bordering eastern Nepal, according to the Madras newspaper Hindu today.

The newspaper's correspondent in Gangtok, capital of the Indian-protected buffer state of Sikkim, said according to reports reaching there, the Tibetans used medium and light machine-guns against heavily armed Chinese forces in a major engagement recently at Yeh, about 40 miles north of Mount Everest.

He quoted Tibetan sources in Gangtok, which is only 10 miles from the border, as saying the Chinese must have used air power to quell that rebellion.

During the weekend, another newspaper report from Darjeeling, 60 miles from the Tibetan border, said Radio Lhasa announced that 5,000 Chinese military reinforcements were sent by the Chinese to quell a widespread revolt in the Lhoka area, the granary of Tibet.

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The European Common Market executive commission met here in secret session today to discuss a compromise formula for overcoming French objections on agricultural financing.

Manhunt Ends In Death

FAIRVIEW, Alta. (CP) — Ernie Napesis, wanted by police in the fatal shooting of another man during the weekend, was found dead Monday by police in a lonely trapper's cabin, about 30 miles north of Fairview.

Police said Napesis, in his late 20s, a trapper from the Eureka River Indian reserve, was shot with a .30-30 rifle, which police believe was used to kill Roy Francis Phelps, 36.

RCMP said Napesis apparently committed suicide. The rifle was found by Napesis' body.

Phelps' body was found Sunday morning in a cabin near the Eureka River. Police said there was an eyewitness in the shooting, but did not identify the witness.

Mariner IV Pictures Assured

PASADENA, Calif.—The U.S. Mariner 4 spacecraft executed on schedule Monday night a slight change in its picture transmission to earth, giving assurance that it will send back 21 closeups of Mars, a Jet Propulsion Laboratory spokesman said.

The tape recorder sending pictures since July 15 switched to a new track on schedule at 8:15 p.m. PDT (11:15 p.m. EDT) during transmission of the 11th picture.

GOOD ORDER

The spokesman said this meant that the picture transmission equipment was functioning in good order and should continue to do so until all 21 photographs are received.

Reception of the 10th picture was completed early this afternoon and the 11th was scheduled to be finished by midnight PDT.

All 21 pictures should be in hand at earth receiving stations by Saturday, according to Dr. William H. Pickering, director of Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Each picture, received in the form of digital data from the spacecraft's tape-recorder, takes more than eight hours in transmission.

The photos were recorded and stored on tape in Mariner 4 when it passed within 10,000 miles of Mars last Wednesday.

JPL officials released the first three pictures to news media but decided to withhold the remaining ones indefinitely pending further study by teams of investigators.

MORE TIME

Scientists said they needed more time to come to conclusions about Mars and declined to speculate about the exact nature of markings on the first three snapshots.

These photos showed what seemed to be an enormous haze on the Martian horizon, a mysterious W-shaped smudge, and what appeared to be a crater-like depression.

"We've just got to give it some time, some study," said Dr. Bruce C. Murray, a television experimenter.

The pictures will probably be run again from the spacecraft's tape-recorder in order to clear up any garbling and to verify initial reception.

Mutilated Money Case

Scots Court Says Go Back

EDINBURGH (CP)—A sheriff's court decided Monday to grant the crown application to have two Scots extradited to Canada to face charges in the armed robbery of $1,200,000 from a Canadian Pacific Railway express office in Vancouver.

Joseph Percival, 37, a former member of the Vancouver police force, and James McDougall, 31, were arrested last month in Blantyre, Scotland.

The court ruled there was a prima facie case against the two men after a 200-page deposition, prepared by Vancouver authorities following a July 2 hearing there, was read.

MAY APPEAL

Defence counsel Joseph Beltrami said in an interview Monday night that he was considering appeals on behalf of both men to the Scottish High Court of Criminal Appeal. He said he would decide whether to seek a ruling from the higher court by Thursday.

The money, mutilated by three holes punched in each bill, was awaiting shipment to the Ottawa mint to be destroyed.

Both men will remain in custody in Edinburgh pending a decision on their appeals.

Suspended

Dangerous Driving Nets Fine

H. E. Jefkins, of 49 Pilot Street, was fined $150 and had his licence suspended when he pleaded guilty to dangerous driving in city magistrate's court Monday.

Court was told that he skidded through a red light at Bay and Government on Saturday after being paced up to 56 miles per hour between Discovery and Bay.

He had previously passed on the right at an estimated 45 miles per hour.

William H. Hodson, 725 Admirals, was sentenced to four months after he pleaded guilty to his third charge of driving under suspension in just over a month.

He was stopped by Esquimalt police Friday after previous convictions on June 12 and July 2.

Follow Birds To Theatre

New bird to follow is phoenix on route leading to University of Victoria's Phoenix Theatre, which opens Renaissance Festival Thursday. Sixty-four enamelled black, yellow and red markers, designed by Bob Hedley, are being placed along Douglas, up Hillside and right to the theatre door, if Oak Bay council approves. City and Saanich already have, and are installing markers in every block of route.—(Robin Clarke)

Pathologist Testifies

No Cause Found In Death of Baby

A city pathologist testified Monday that he could find no cause of death for a baby who had lain dead in a crib for two weeks prior to discovery by police.

Dr. Ross McNeely made his statements at a preliminary hearing into a manslaughter charge against Mrs. Mary Bilton, 3138 Cook Street, who slept in the same room as her dead daughter for two weeks until the body was discovered early July 3.

PUTRID ODOR

Police were eventually called by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bley, owners of the house, when they noticed a putrid odor upon their return from a trip to California.

Dr. McNeely said there was no evidence of violence to the skull or of pneumonia, and he admitted in response to a query by Magistrate William Ostler that "she could have died of natural causes."

DECOMPOSITION

He said there was extreme evidence of decomposition on the right side of the head.

Police witnesses said that when asked how she was able to live with the smell, Mrs. Bilton just put it out of her mind.

Rifle-Toting Brunette

Caught by Her Own Vanity

LONDON (Reuters) — A rifle-toting brunette who held off a squad of London police in a suburban seige was sentenced today to five years in prison—and went to the cells smiling prettily.

It was her vanity, the judge said, that finally led to her capture.

* * *

The brunette, 20-year-old Mrs. Eileen Blackmore, held off police for 90 minutes with a rifle poking from a window in a house in Muswell Hill, North London, last month.

She felled one policeman with a shot, wounding him. She was finally captured by a newspaper photographer, Steve Davis, who clambered up to the window sill, told her he wanted to take her photograph and then grabbed the rifle when she posed for him.

Sentencing her, the judge said: "Blackmore was a woman who was obviously extremely vain. She fell for what Mr. Davis was saying to her about his readers liking to have a photograph of her with her rifle."

Mrs. Blackmore, a fugitive from a reformatory, was convicted of unlawful wounding and of possessing a firearm with intent to endanger life.

Year's Low Gets Test At Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials and other sections of the mark.t, after a day of indecisive trading, finished on a lower note.

The 87-stock industrial index edged perilously near a new 1965 low point by falling .40 to 159.58. The 1965 low is 159.30, reached June 29.

In the main list, Burns and Almimium each lost ⅛ to 23 and 27⅝ and Abitibi and Bell Telephone ⅛ apiece to 11⅛ and 57⅞. B. C. Telephone and BA Oil each trimmed ⅜ to 67¼ and 30 and Trans Mountain Pipe and Consumers' Gas ⅛ each to 30¾ and 13¼.

The day was not without winners. Canada Permanent Mortgage rose ⅝ to 67¼ and Interprovincial Pipe ⅛ to 88½. Argus Corp. rose ⅞ to 21 and Union Carbide ⅛ to 28.

Senior base metals advanced early in the session but fizzled near the close. Hudson Bay and Inco led, each off ½ to 66⅝ and 88⅝. Falconbridge fell ⅝ to 96⅝.

Golds trimmed earlier losses. Dome, however, fell ¼ to 40.

In penny issues, United Comstock Lode dropped ½ to 19 cents and churned p 151,200 shares.

In a sluggish senior western oils list, Home A and B each declined ⅛ to 17½ and 19.

Rally in Mines

VANCOUVER—Mining shares traded more actively with a number of advances recorded. Coast Copper was up ⅝ at 12.00, while New Imperial at 1.87, Stairs at 1.68, Bethlehem at 6.20 and Western at 4.50 made smaller gains.

Granduc was easier at 5.15 and Endako eased to 13.00.

Westcoast rose to 16½ among pipelines while industrials were dull with Doman common at 7.75 and Okanagan Helicopters at 2.70.

* * *

Paper Stocks Mixed

MONTREAL (CP) — Stocks were narrowly mixed in light trading.

Canada Cement dropped ⅛ to 51 and CIL ⅛ to 20⅛. Asbestos rose ⅝ to 26½.

Price Bros. dropped ⅝ to 39⅛ and BC Forest ¼ to 26¼. Great Lakes rose ½ to 23½.

CPR rose ⅛ to 59⅛ and Maritime Telephone ⅛ to 22⅝. Brinco was up ⅛ to 6⅛.

Senior oils slipped with Texaco off ½ at 48¼ and BA ⅛ at 30⅜. Husky dropped ⅛ to 12 and Imperial ⅛ to 51.

In machinery issues Hawker Siddley added ⅛ to 6 and Massey-Ferguson was off ⅛ at 28⅝.

Defence Stocks Rise

NEW YORK (AP)—The market put on a slow and irregular performance.

Several of the aerospace defence stocks did well. This was linked with the expanding nature of U.S. involvement in Viet Nam and government appropriations for defence spending.

Fairchild Camera was the most active issue, rising 2⅜ to 51¼ on 98,000 shares.

Union Oil of California preferred made its debut as a result of the completed merger of Union Oil with Pure Oil.

Hail Storm On Prairies

REDFIELD, Sask. (CP) — A hail storm Sunday cut a swath two miles wide and seven miles long in this district 40 miles northeast of North Battleford.

N. S. Nykiforik of Redfield, hail insurance agent, said the heaviest damage occurred on farms nine miles southwest of Redfield. Losses ranged to 100 per cent.

Image Important In Old Blighty

LONDON—The tricky question of image cropped up in a couple of places in Britain this weekend.

At Swansea, Wales, burly steelworkers demanded the local council change street names on a new housing estate, claiming that living on Petunia Road and Snowdrop Avenue "makes us sound like a bunch of sissies."

And at Reading the annual working man's sailing regatta will become the Reading Town Regatta from now on because "the old name has a cloth cap image and sounds out of place in this day and age."

Ghana Issues New Currency

ACCRA (Reuters)—Ghana's banks reopened Monday to issue the country's new decimal currency. The banks closed to the public Thursday to complete arrangements for the change-over from pounds, shillings and pence to the new Ghanaian decimal currency.

MONEY IN BANK

Canadians had more than $9,000,000,000 in personal savings in chartered banks at the beginning of May.

Hudson Bay New Target For Oilmen

OTTAWA (CP) — An aeromagnetic survey of Hudson Bay this summer is expected to yield new light on the possibility of huge oil pools under the bay's central section

The survey, a joint effort by the mines and technical surveys department and the national aeronautical setablishment of the National Research Council, is expected to get into full swing next week.

* * *

A magnetometer and other instruments will record information that will help scientists determine more accurately the thickness and composition of the sediment layer at the bottom of the bay.

In most cases, a sediment layer more than 4,000 feet thick indicates the possible presence of oil, and a mines department magnetic survey conducted by ship in 1961 showed a layer up to 10,000 feet. A subsequent seismic survey showed the sediment layer coming close to shore, with a thickness of 2,5000 to 5,000 feet just off Fort Churchill, Man.

* * *

One firm, Richfield Oil Corp., of Calgary, already has permits to explore 50,000,000 acres of the bay for gas and oil and will be conducting its own magnetometer survey this summer. The company expects to spend $2,000,000 on Hudson Bay exploration this year.

COMINCO EARNINGS

Higher prices for metals, the introduction of ore from Pine Point Mines, and a special dividend of $2,500,000 from West Kootenay Power and Light, one of its subsidiaries, contributed to considerably higher earnings for Consolidated Mining and Smelting in the first half of 1965.

Consolidated's net profit for the first half of 1965 was $27,800,000 ($1.67) compared with $20,700,000 ($1.27) a year ago. W. S. Kirkpatrick, president, said that as the Pine Point Mines of which Consolidated owns 78.2 per cent, were so closely integrated that the Pine Point earnings were being consolidated in the C. M. and S. accounts.

Firm's Shares Up, Income Is Down

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Sales are up 14 per cent and net income down 17 per cent for Crown Zellerbach Ltd. in the first six months of 1965.

One of the three forest giants in British Columbia, Crown Zellerbach announced its net income for the first six months was $5,965,000 against $7,151,000 in the same period of 1964.

Meantime sales for the period grew from $64,543,000 to $73,605,000.

NET INCOME

R. G. Rogers, president, explains that a poor first quarter was mainly responsible. Net income for the second quarter was 23 per cent above that of the first quarter.

Earnings in the second quarter were boosted by improved production rate of the expanded kraft pulp mill at Elk Falls and an improved market for lumber and plywood.

Adverse factors were the high cost of purchased wood chips for pulp manufacture, and curtailment of production at Ocean Falls and Elk Falls.

WATER SHORTAGE

At Ocean Falls a water shortage occurred in the company's reservoir, and at Elk Falls the No. 1 paper machine was shut down for two weeks for a major rebuild.

For the shareholder in Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., an interesting item in the interim report is that statement by Mr. Rogers that cumulative dividends in arrears on the company's ordinary shares have now been paid and that henceforth the dividend rate on the ordinary and "A" shares will be the same.

DIVIDEND

All 7,085,344 ordinary shares are held by Crown Zellerbach Corporation, the U.S. parent company. They are entitled to a dividend only after 25 cents a quarter has been paid on the "A" shares.

The 361,206 "A" shares which are publicly owned and traded in Canada have received 25 cents a quarter since they were issued in 1958.

With a payment of 35 cents last March, the ordinary shares caught up to the 25 cents a quarter rate, and under the terms of the agreement any dividends above the 25 cents a quarter will now be at the same rate for ordinary and "A" shares.

The indications are that in the near future the dividend rate on the "A" shares will be upgraded for the first time since the issue was made.

DEPOSITS GROW FAST

In a six months' report to shareholders Commonwealth Savings and Loan Corporation says that less than 55 per cent of its investments were in mortgages and that over $10,000,000 was invested in liquid assets consisting of cash, bonds, demand loans and readily marketable securities.

During the half-year Mark M. Tanz, president, said deposits with the company had risen 79 per cent, from $7,859,714 at Dec. 31, 1964 to $17,633,730 at June 30.

In the same period Mr. Tanz said the operating profit had risen to $94,200, from $55,067 a year ago.

He described this as "tremendous progress."

NEW PULP PLEASES

The Kamloops Pulp and Paper Co. mill is expected to start up in October, more than two months ahead of schedule, according to the Weyerhaeuser Company, a major shareholder in the new Canadian company.

Several batches of pulp from Kamloops area chips have been manufactured at the Weyerhaeuser mill at Everett for sampling by paper mill customers in the U.S. A Weyerhaeuser official said the results had exceeded expectations.

POWER TO BE OUT

Abitibi Power and Paper Co. has called a shareholders meeting for Aug. 12 to submit changes in the bylaws which would change the name of the company; transfer the head office from Iroquois Falls to Toronto; to increase the directorate from 11 to 13, and to revise the record date for meetings.

New name proposed is Abitibi Paper Company.

COSTLY U.S. STRIKE

Three U.S. steamship lines say that the strike of ship engineers since June 15 has already resulted in lost revenue of over $5,000,000 and the cancellation of 21 passenger ships sailings.

Cancelled is a 35 days cruise to the Baltic by Moore McCormack Lines. The liner Brasil had 440 bookings.

Cancellations of three sailings by Grace Line has terminated all regular ocean passenger service between North and South America.

SUNSHINE PAYS UP

Sunshine Mining Company of Kellogg, Idaho, has made a payment of $6,000 to Dolly Varden Mines under terms of an agreement to do work on the Canadian company's property at Alice Arm.

Trio Held In Quebec

LABELLE, Que. (CP) — Provincial police Monday arrested three cold, wet and tired young men on a highway near here and took them to Mont Laurier, Que., to be charged in connection with the gunpoint abduction of a young constable last week.

Four others, one injured by a bullet wound allegedly fired by another, already are in jail at Mont Laurier after being arrested last Thursday.

Constable Gail Bourdon escaped unhurt from three men who forced him to come with them into the bush about 90 miles northwest of Montreal.

Earlier Monday, warrants were issued for Claude Nadeau and Jean-Guy Leveque, both of Montreal, and Andre Lessard of Chicoutimi, all in their 20s.

Loffmark Bound for Europe

Trade and Industry Minister Loffmark will head a B.C. trade mission to West Germany, Belgium and Holland from Oct. 6 to Oct. 28.

He will later participate in talks with leading economic organizations in the U.K.

Mr. Loffmark told reporters Monday that he will try to convince European manufacturers using B.C. raw materials that it would be to their advantage to locate processing plants in this province.

* * *

Raw materials like asbestos are being shipped from here to Europe, where they are processed into goods destined for the Canadian market, the minister said. Overseas distributors are running into difficulties with Canadian tariffs levied on the finished products.

Mr. Loffmark said he hopes the trade mission will convince some manufacturers that tariff difficulties can be solved and savings achieved in transportation costs if they locate here.

* * *

The minister, a long-time critic of Canada's tariff and freight rate system, agreed that "on the face of it" this appears to be one situation where the system may produce new industry for B.C.

He said meetings with representatives of leading U.K. economic groups have been arranged for the end of October.

These groups are anxious to hear first-hand about B.C.'s economic development, said Mr. Loffmark. He will be accompanied on this stage of the tour by Deputy Trade Minister Sturgeon.

* * *

At present Mr. Loffmark is the only B.C. minister slated to make the European tour. Premier Bennett is expected to go to Europe later this year as the guest of a single government as unidentified.

A new Town for our Province
GOLD RIVER
The latest chapter in the exciting British Columbia Story

Location of town and mill.

Why settle for a logging camp in the virgin forest?

In this modern day and age it didn't make sense to the Tahsis Company Ltd. So, when planning their new $60 million kraft pulp mill on the west coast of Vancouver Island, they decided to add a complete new town to the map of British Columbia as well. It's already taking shape.

GOLD RIVER will be just about as unlike a logging camp as you can get. It will be a model, up-to-the-minute community of attractive, privately-owned family homes, garden apartments, stores, elementary and senior secondary schools, playing fields, swimming pool and the many other amenities of modern living, including cable television. It will be a place where families can settle and enjoy the good life to the full . . . where children can grow up with all the educational and recreational advantages of urban living anywhere.

Located in the historic cradle of B.C., close to the shores of Nootka Sound where the Indian Chief Maquinna rose to fame and Captain Cook first landed in 1778, GOLD RIVER will be an "open" town with its own municipal self-government. By June 1967 its population will number nearly 3,000 and sufficient land is available for expansion. It will be linked to Campbell River and the Island Highway by a 50-mile public road. Regular scheduled air flights already connect it with Vancouver, little more than an hour's flying time away.

Family homes will be privately owned.

Typical Gold River home design.

GOLD RIVER will be the home of many loggers working in nearby operations and of employees at the new Tahsis Company mill a few miles distant from the townsite. The mill itself, also due to be in operation by mid-1967, will be one of the most modern in the world. With a daily capacity of 750 tons of bleached kraft pulp, it will provide permanent jobs for 600 people in the mill and the woods.

GOLD RIVER represents the latest chapter in the exciting British Columbia story. It will become a focal point for the opening up of the whole northwestern area of Vancouver Island . . . a fine place to work, a fine place to live.

King Fisherman

Springs, Derby Coincide

Cowichan Bay Salmon Club's annual spring salmon ladder derby is under way just as the big springs are starting to show in the Bay.

Derby fishing will continue until Aug. 21 and the 50 anglers who weigh in the heaviest salmon during the five-week contest will be eligible for cash prizes in the fish-off Aug. 29.

CASH PRIZES

Prizes of $75, $50 and $25 will go to the top three anglers in the fish-off, which will also carry two $10 hidden weight awards.

Four prizes totalling $25 will be awarded each week during the qualifying period and heaviest fish on the ladder will win a silver tray.

For the ladder derby, fishing ends Sunday evening each week and fish must be taken in Cowichan Bay and weighed in by 9:30 p.m. each evening. A club membership and a derby entry ticket are required for the competition.

SHOULD BE ENTERED

Anglers are advised that when weighing fish into the Cowichan Bay derby they should also make certain the fish are entered in the Colonist King Fisherman Contest for trophies, prizes and grand hidden weight prizes including a Canadian Pacific Airlines trip to Rome, a Vancouver Island Helicopters weekend camping-fishing trip, and a Thornes aluminum boat like the one won last year by Cowichan Bay's Steve Gillies.

Syngman Rhee 90, Dies

HONOLULU (AP) — Syngman Rhee, a fierce, old Korean patriot died at Maunalani Hospital here Monday of a stroke.

He was 90, in failing health for at least three years.

The founder and a former president of the Korean republic was admitted to Queen's Hospital a month ago after he began bleeding internally. His condition improved and he was sent back to the nursing home.

Doctors said they had an hour's indication that death was near, giving them time to summon his Austrian-born wife, Francesca, 65, and his adopted son, Rhee In-soo.

Doukhobor School Site of Boys' Home

The old Doukhobor school at New Denver will be the site of an experiment in child care to be launched this fall by the department of social welfare.

Twenty boys, between the ages of 12 and 15, will undergo a program of rehabilitation and training. The program is designed to help boys who are unable to settle down at home.

Picked for the job of director of the New Denver Youth Centre is Jack Scott, formerly assistant executive director of Gordon Neighborhood House in Vancouver. Sam Parker is assistant director.

In the program, officials said, emphasis will be placed on remedial classroom instruction and constructive activity including community improvement projects.

B.C. Tel communication systems help guard our continent against surprise attacks

To detect the approach of and defend against missiles, rockets or planes entering the territorial atmosphere of North America is the role of NORAD—North American Air Defence Command—with its Combat Operations Centre at Colorado Springs.

Jointly controlled by the United States and Canada for defence against surprise nuclear attack, this complex nerve centre demonstrates vividly how B.C. Tel and a continent-wide network of telecommunications systems is meeting the challenge of today's "Cold War" conditions.

B.C. Tel's variety of the very latest developments in the communications systems are playing a key role in perhaps the most important of all public services—defence of North America against destruction. These electronic marvels provide the connecting links for data transmission devices between radar sites and strategically located computer centres.

Such dramatic advances for military purposes are even now expanding our everyday communications. Long distance calling, radio-telephone coverage, TWX and other special data services are but a few.

Ale is not another name for beer.
(Ours is the one on the right.)

Doesn't look much different from beer, does it? So why does Ale taste so different? One reason is malt. All malt and plenty of it gives our Ale weight. Authority. Some days you'll prefer a lighter brew. Beer, for example. Fine. We brew that, too. But when you do thirst for a change, will you consider Ale? Because it is a change.

Tug Races to Stranded Liner

HALIFAX, N.S. (UPI) — A Dutch tug, enroute from the Azores, is expected to reach a stranded liner adrift in the North Atlantic by noon today.

Meanwhile, an American weather ship — Absecon — is standing by the West German liner—the Seven Seas—which is floating in calm seas with 400 passengers and 210 crew members aboard.

The Seven Seas was enroute from Rotterdam to New York when an engineroom fire Saturday night put the ship's electrical system completely out of commission.

Since then the 12,500-ton motor vessel has been holed up about 300 miles from Newfoundland.

The Dutch tug, the Iersezee, is expected to tow the stricken ship to Newfoundland, by Thursday evening or early Friday morning.

RCAF search and rescue headquarters here told UPI, following their contact with other rescue locations, that the Seven Seas is being supplied with electricity from auxiliary generators. However, this power, enough to maintain sanitation, light and other basic needs, is not sufficient to turn the ship's engines.

The rescue centre spokesman said all passengers are remaining on board the Seven Seas. Reports say there are no problems being experienced and the ship's program is running smoothly.

Tourist Boom Skyrockets

Some Complain

By IAN SMITH
Second of a series

What caused the tourist boom? Officials of the B.C. Travel Bureau think they have a few answers — but, as with most things about the tourist industry, nobody seems at all sure.

The estimated tourist expenditure in the province stayed relatively stable between 1957 and 1961, but now it seems to be mushrooming at a remarkable rate.

Nobody's unhappy about it, but nobody's quite sure how and why it happened.

* * *

In 1957, tourists spent $103,-000,000 — or at least, this is what government officials estimate they spent. The next year was Centennial year, but estimates increased by only $3,000,000.

By all predictions, things should have slumped the next year, and there was a slight recession, but only back to an even $100,000,000.

The 1960 estimate was virtually the same, at $100,400,000, and there was only a $15,000,000 jump in 1961.

But in 1962 the flood-gates opened and B.C. sitting happily in the backwash of the Seattle World's Fair, raked in $145,000,000 from tourists.

* * *

Officials waited for a recession the next year, and they're still waiting.

Inexplicably, trade increased to $150,485,000, and then last year it jumped to a record $183,936,000.

And 1965 figures are up about 15 per cent over last year, which should bring the province pretty close to the $200,000,000 mark.

When this happens, tourism will be close to replacing mining as the No. 2 industry in the province.

* * *

It's all rather amazing, considering that two years ago tourism wasn't even clearly in third place among the provincial money-makers. It has since passed agriculture in the revenue scales.

There has to be a reason, and many people have pointed to the miles of blacktop roads that have been constructed since the Social Credit government came into power in 1952.

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi is of course the first to agree with this theory.

"I'd say that 90 per cent of it has to be because of the roads," he commented recently, "although everything else has improved as well.

"People won't enjoy anything unless they have a highway system. What we're really concerned with is people who visit B.C. from the south or east.

"Californians are used to driving on good roads and won't accept anything less, and Prairie drivers are used to flat country, so if we're going to lure them into the mountains and have them enjoy it, they also need first-class highways.

"The roads play a major part in the tourist business, believe me."

* * *

Mr. Gaglardi and his department have spent more than $1,000,000,000 on roads so far, representing about 7,000 miles of major roadwork and perhaps 13,000 miles of improvement.

"We've opened up whole new areas of the province," he said. "Take the Rogers Pass, Deas Island, Salmo-Creston, and Cascade constructions. These were major bottlenecks, and now they've been eliminated.

"And don't forget the logging access roads. They are being utilized to get tourists into wilderness areas.

"The tourist who will travel the wilderness areas doesn't mind doing it on gravel roads, because that ensures good fishing. If the roads are too good, the lakes get all fished out.

"Many people are already complaining to me that my roads are too good, and that they've lost their fishing and hunting."

* * *

He stressed the importance of his famous "circle routes" to the tourist trade.

"Tourists like to go one way and come back another," he pointed out, "and we try to let them do this as much as possible."

One "circle route" involves a trip into the province via Rogers Pass, and back through the Kootenays. Another will be opened up when the Vancouver Island-Prince Rupert ferry service is inaugurated, allowing people to see the Coast and the Interior on one trip.

The vision of the roads is still strong within him.

"You take this province," he says. "You can fly in many areas for two hours without travelling over any human habitation. Many of these areas are uninhabitable today —but believe me, when we get the roads and the electricity, you will see these areas boom with tourists and people living there.

"I'm like the Indian who turned around and saw a grizzly snuffling at his footprints. 'You like my tracks?' he said. 'I make some more.'

"Well, if you like my highways, I'll build some more.

"We have 25,000 miles of roads now. It will take 50,000 to do an adequate job in 15 years. And you watch the tourist business boom then!"

Doctors Warned

Drug Addicts Ruled off Road

VANCOUVER (CP) — Laws prohibiting alcoholics and drug addicts from obtaining driving licences are spelled out for doctors in a booklet printed by the B.C. Medical Association.

The booklet is entitled: Guide for Physicians in Determining Fitness to Drive a Motor Vehicle.

EXAMINATIONS

A spokesman for the motor vehicle department in Victoria said Monday the guide is for doctors who give medical examinations to certain applicants for drivers' licences who are required to see a doctor.

The guide tells physicians they should report to the motor vehicle branch any applicant who is an alcoholic or addicted to narcotics, tranquilizers, sedatives or other drugs.

SIX MONTHS

The spokesman said B.C. law prevents alcoholics or drug addicts from obtaining drivers' licences without first proving they have been free of the addiction for at least six months.

Normally, only applicants for chauffeur's licences, applicants over 70 and persons with physical disabilities are required to have a medical examination.

However, the spokesman said any driver involved in an automobile accident as a result of alcohol or drug impairment may be required to have a medical examination.

Radio.

You have just read the Toyota Crown option list!

The Toyota Crown is a shocking automobile. It has only one optional extra — a radio. Most of the goodies the others add on, Toyota builds in. Even standard optional features like whitewall tires and chrome wheel discs do not cost you a penny extra.

Shocking isn't it? And so is the price. Plus the generous trade allowance CMI dealers are dealing out these days. Very shocking.

And it's the same no matter which Toyota Crown you buy. The one with the bucket seats and 4 on the floor, the one with the sofa seat and the automatic or the one with the column shift and sofa seat. 12 models. 1 option — radio.

When you take a good long look at the big Toyota Crown (and a good long drive) you're in for a few more shocks. It has the craftsmanship, fit and finish of some of the finest cars built. It has a ride somewhat between a well-bred sports sedan and a limousine.

One thing for sure, you can forget most of the foreign car traits when you own a Toyota Crown. Toyota builders think along the same lines you do.

So, go ahead . . . live a little. Drive a Toyota Crown tonight.

The Toyota Crown is the big one from Japan.

Headline-Maker Publicity Shy

Coming out swinging, W. E. Westcott Jr., owner of Atlanta Mustangs of Southern Professional Football League, launches punch at one photographer, left, and strikes another, right, after leaving court, free on bail after he allegedly paid his players with about $2,500 in bogus $20 bills.—(AP)

Atlanta Football Payoff Made with Bogus Bills

ATLANTA (UPI) — The owner of a minor league professional football team was placed under $7,500 bond Monday at an arraignment hearing on a charge that he paid off his players in bogus $20 bills—all with the same serial numbers.

* * *

Charges were placed against William Wescott, a mortgage loan broker, in Jacksonville, Fla., Saturday. He was arraigned before U.S. commissioner Frank A. Holden on a specific charge of possessing $3,000 in counterfeit money.

Wescott is owner of the Atlanta Mustangs in the Southern Professional Football League. He signed a waiver of removal which means that he agreed voluntarily to return to Jacksonville to face charges there. Wescott, 32, was arrested Sunday at his home in Atlanta on charges filed in Jacksonville. The complaint said the bills all had the same serial number.

* * *

The counterfeit money was discovered after the game when a motel manager noticed the bills all carried the same serial number. Many of the players ended up hitch-hiking back to Atlanta. Some went without meals until they returned home after dark yesterday, according to coach Jerry Wilcoxson.

Secret service agents said they had recovered about $2,500 of the counterfeit money.

After being paid, many of the Mustangs had gone to eating establishments and night spots in Jacksonville and unknowingly cashed the bogus bills.

But There's No Time to Rest

Dodgers Keep Eluding Braves

Los Angeles Dodgers have won five straight games and Cincinnati Reds seem to be slipping, but the Dodgers can not afford to let up for a moment.

Because Milwaukee Braves are streaking too, backed by the most powerful bats in the National League.

TWO-WAY THREAT

In Los Angeles last night, Don Drysdale smashed a single and a double for his fourth straight victory, beating Houston Astros, 8-3, to run his record to 15-8.

It was a victory that kept the Dodgers in front of the Reds. But the Braves moved past San Francisco Giants into third place and made it six in a row by battering New York Mets, 6-0, after beating them 8-1 and 5-4 Sunday.

Ken Johnson's seven-hit pitching and a four-homer barrage were more than enough to finish the Mets last night. Felipe Alou hit his 15th, Hank Aaron his 18th, Eddie Mathews his 20th and Joe Torre his 18th.

Vernon Law, who had lost four straight, spaced six hits in Pittsburgh's 3-1 victory over the Reds. Law had two singles himself and retired 12 consecutive men between Cincinnati's first and second hits.

Philadelphia Phillies, only four games behind the Dodgers on the losing side, ended St. Louis Cardinals' victory streak at four with a 5-2 victory behind Chris Short.

Minnesota Twins, who were beginning to stumble around a bit atop the American League, got straightened out again last night as Jim Perry ran his record to 7-0 with a four-hit, 5-2 victory over Los Angeles Angels.

The Twins had split a doubleheader with the Angels Sunday, and Cleveland, Baltimore and Chicago moved to within 3½ games. But only the Indians could keep up the pace last night.

Lee Stange, who has shut out Baltimore Orioles on nine hits in 25 innings this season, beat them, 5-0, for the Indians, while Kansas City was dumping the White Sox, 6-3, on Dick Green's three-run homer.

New York Yankees, held to two hits by Mike McCormick while losing, 3-0, to Washington Sunday, ran into another nemesis last night.

Rookie Jim Lonborg, only 6-10 on the season, beat the Yanks 3-1 for Boston Red Sox, his third win over the Yankees this season. And it was Lonborg who drove in the winning run with a single off loser Jim Bouton, the first RBI of his major league career.

In Monday's other American League game, Phil Ortega threw a three-hitter as Washington blanked Detroit, 8-0.

Leaders Get 15th Victory

Shepherd's Dairy scored their 15th victory in 17 starts last night, downing Bapco Paint Supply, 6-3, in Industrial Softball League play last night at Macdonald Park.

In other action, Island Tug dumped Orphans, 8-1, and Yarrows trounced RCMP, 16-6, to move into a tie with Bapco for fourth place, the last playoff spot. The two teams play Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. to decide the berth.

Net Winners

Janice Wright, 10, took the girls competition and Morris Barer, 14, won the boys division in the Oak Bay Tennis Club's annual junior one-day competition yesterday.

Janice Tooby was runner-up in girls competition. Jamie Wood placed second in the boys division.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

Twice postponed, the junior inter-city match between Victoria and Vancouver has been rescheduled. The first game will be played Sunday, July 25, at Royal Colwood with the second game in Vancouver on Sunday, Aug. 1.

The ten players who finished in top places in the City junior championship have been selected to represent Victoria.

They are Don Billsborough, Martin Smith and Al Cliff (Uplands); C. Ferguson (Gorge Vale); W. Speidel (Cedar Hill); D. Evans and W. Doan (Gorge Vale); K. Langford (Uplands); B. Carberry and P. Moretti (Victoria). Alternates are D. Zabel (Uplands), G. Barnes (Cedar Hill), L. Holyoak (Uplands), and K. Floyd (Colwood).

If they have not already been in contact with team manager Don McColl, players on this list should phone him without delay at 385-4685 confirming their availability to take part.

The match starts at noon.

* * *

Most people know Rule No. 3, which says that you must not carry more than 14 clubs in the bag, and that the penalty is loss of two strokes for each hole before the excess number is discovered, or loss of hole, or holes, in match play.

The rule also says that no one may borrow a club from another player during a round.

In other words, the fellow who asks a fellow competitor, opponent or partner for a club during the round is subject to the penalty of two strokes or loss of hole as often as he uses it.

The U.S. Golf Association, however, has recently ruled that while one may not borrow a club, there is no rule against sharing a club or clubs.

The point arose in a fourball match when one team shared a bag in which each player had his own woods and his own short irons and putters. But they had only one set of long irons, which they used between them. Thus one player had only 9 clubs and the other had the maximum 14.

The U.S. Golf Association decision was that if the partners arranged before the match started that the player with nine clubs would use five of his partner's clubs, such arrangement would constitute sharing clubs, not borrowing, and there would be no penalty. But if no such prior arrangement had been made, the player would be held to have borrowed them and would be penalized.

The B.C. junior team to play for the Inter-Provincial team championship will be chosen by the provincial association in Vancouver Friday.

The matches this year are being played at the Brantford Golf and Country Club, Ontario, on August 30-31, and will be followed by the match play rounds of the Canadian junior championship.

An innovation by the RCGA this year is the extension of the Inter-provincial matches and the qualifying rounds for the championship to two days. Hitherto, the 36 holes have been played on one day. This year it will be 18 holes a day, with 64 players qualifying for the championship proper.

On the form shown in the recent B.C. junior championship, two Victoria youths, Don Billsborough of Uplands and Cec Ferguson of Gorge Vale are in the running for places on the B.C. provincial side.

Victoria Golf Club sent a team of 32 to the mainland Saturday to play Point Grey, and finished in arrears by 27 points to 21.

In the singles, Victoria players had a slight edge—16½ points to Point Grey's 15½—but in the four-ball matches, the home men teamed up better and won 11½ of the 16 points.

The return match at Victoria will be played next month.

And after being in arrears following their visit to Port Angeles, Gorge Vale got ahead of the Olympic Peninsula club Sunday at Gorge, turning the deficit into a 45-34 win in the home and home contest.

* * *

The Esquimalt Amateur handicap championship will be played Sunday at Gorge Vale. It is open to all district amateurs, and the entry fee is $2.50.

'Bellies Refuse To Give Ground

With each passing game, the date Aug. 1 looms more and more important in the plans of Victoria's Junior Shamrocks.

That's the date of their last league meeting with first-place New Westminister Salmonbellies in the Inter-city Junior Lacrosse League.

On Sunday, the Rocks beat Coquitlam Adanacs, 10-9, in overtime at Coquitlam. But last night in New Westminster, the Salmonbellies got their four-point lead back by downing Burnaby Norburns, 12-9.

Shamrocks have five games left to play, New Westminster four. Rocks see their next action Thursday against Adanacs in Memorial Arena.

Ranjit Dillon had two goals and three assists Sunday, and Tej Dhillon scored two goals and assisted on four. Others Shamrock scorers were John Stewart, Ken Alexander, Vern Black, Ron Zilkie, John Lauvaas and Pat Green.

Kevin Parsons replied with six for Adanacs.

'Twas Expensive

Sam Mele, manager of Minnesota Twins, is paying stiff price for yielding to pressures of American League pennant race. He was fined $500 and suspended for five days yesterday for "pushing and shoving" umpire Bill Valentine during game lost to Los Angeles Angles on Sunday.

TV Blackout Looms

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC) and the Canadian Television Network (CTV) Monday said the networks may not provide television coverage for 1965 Canadian Football League games.

In a statement, network officials said:

"Because of a time factor by a breakdown in negotiations with the Montreal firm of Bouchard, Champagne and Pelletier Ltd., who hold the rights to television coverage, we have been forced to plan alternate programming in the event settlement is not reached."

IN DEFAULT?

The television networks said "the agency has not met certain conditions with terms of broadcasting and sponshoship." Officials said negotiations have been going on for the last two months, but no agreement has been reached.

Both networks said "they are anxious to provide coverage of the games, but not unless an agreement can be reached."

MAYBE TODAY

Contacted in Montreal, Jean-Paul Champagne, vice-president of the publicity firm of Bouchard, Champagne and Pelletier Ltd., said he had no comment to make on the networks' statement.

Mr. Champagne said he might have a statement following a Tuesday trip to Ottawa and Toronto.

Manitoba Imports Japanese Caddies

TOKYO (AP)—Three Japanese veteran women caddies were en route to Canada Sunday to help in the Manitoba Open golf tournament opening in Winnipeg Tuesday.

Tamae Tanaka, 26; Kiyoko Saito, 25, and Masako Sekiguchi, 25, departed aboard Canadian Pacific Airlines.

They have been working as caddies at the Kasumigaseki Country Club course on the outskirts of Tokyo for eight to 10 years. They were selected from 240 women caddies at the request of tournament sponsors.

Hett Wins No. 13 With Two-Hitter

Geoff Hett pitched his 13th victory in 14 starts last night, giving up only two hits to pace league-leading Century Inn to a 4-2 win over Victoria Carlings in Victoria Softball League action at Heywood Park.

The win, Century's 16th, boosts its lead to a full two games.

Last night's score: Century Inn 4, Carlings 2.

Next game: Tonight, Morrison's vs. Newstead, 6:45 p.m. at Heywood Park.

Doubles by Gary Aikin and Ken Polluck combined with singles by Don McIntosh and Derek Stone to account for Century's scoring.

Bud Taylor scored on John Balloch's sacrifice fly and Norm Curran came home on an error for Carlings.

Jack Lundquist went the distance for the losers.

In Sunday's action, McLarens Construction downed Morrison Motors juniors, 11-3, with Penston pitching a one-hitter.

McLarens opened the scoring with a seven run rally in the top of the first inning on five doubles and a Morrison's error, then saw Morrison's score three runs as Penston gave up three walks and his one hit.

Golf Can Be Boring

Mute testimonial to slow play prevailing in tournament golf these days is this shot of Roberta Albers, resting on golf bag while playing-partner Barbara McIntire slumps dejectedly on shooting stick, waiting vainly for twosome ahead to finish in women's western amateur tournament in Minneapolis.—(AP)

Callison Tries Again To Be Most Valuable

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Callison, who probably would have won the National League's Most Valuable Player award last season if Philadelphia had won the pennant, again is turning out to be a most valuable player for the Phillies.

The veteran outfielder hit three homers, including a grand slam, and drove in six runs last week when the regular season schedule was interrupted because of the All-Star game. This gave him 20 home runs and 66 RBI. He is only three homers behind San Francisco's Willie Mays, the circuit's pace-setter, and three RBI behind co-leaders Deron Johnson of Cincinnati and Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh.

Callison, who is batting .262, leads the NL in triples with 11. He is well ahead of last year's pace in the power categories. He had 31 homers and 104 RBI in 1964 when he sparked the Phils.

The Giants' Mays with a .338 average continued to lead in batting, holding a one-point lead over Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente.

Donn Clendenon of Pittsburgh held the No. 3 spot, advancing two points to .330 with seven hits in 19 attempts.

In the American League, Carl Yastrzemski of Boston holds a 20-point lead over Minnesota's Jimmie Hall. Yastrzemski, sidelined for two weeks with an injured leg, returned to action Saturday and collected three hits in eight at bats in the weekend games. He boosted his average one point to .341. The figures include Sunday's games.

Hall slumped four points to .321 in last week's games. Felix Mantilla of Boston is third with .315 followed by Vic Davalillo, Cleveland, .312 and Brooks Robinson, Baltimore, .302.

Mays remained the NL home run leader with 23. Stragell is the runner-up with 22. The latter also drove in three runs to tie Reds' Johnson for the RBI lead.

ROCKY AHEAD

Cleveland's Rocky Colavito slammed one homer, giving him sole possession of first place in the American League with 21. Detroit's Willie Horton is next with 20.

Mantilla regained the top spot in RBI with 65. He had six RBI last week and moved in front of Colavito, who has 64.

Pitching Tigers In Empress Tank

When it comes to tournament time, the baseball teams with the pitching have the big edge.

Empress Motors had it Sunday, and won the Victoria Colt League championship. They went 13 innings to beat Williams Heat 5-4, in the first game of a best-of-three final, then won the second game, 4-0, at Topaz Park.

Phil Pimlott, who hasn't pitched all season, came on in the sixth innings of the first game and blanked Williams for eight innings until Empress scored an unearned run in the 13th.

In the second game, Brian Lucas tossed a one-hitter, yielding only a scratch single to Brian Paul.

Evening Optimists Making It a Habit

Evening Optimist all-stars will represent Vancouver Island in the provincial Babe Ruth League baseball playoffs for the third straight year.

The Optimist club beat Cosmopolitans, 9-5, at Reynolds Park Sunday to sweep through the double-loss elimination tournament with four straight victories and collect the Island title.

Their next stop is Kelowna, where the B.C. playoffs open July 27.

Over the Island tournament, Optimists collected 42 hits in four games, sparked by Jerry Ferrie, who had seven hits in 12 trips for a .533 average.

Evening Optimists ...... [illegible] 0—9 11 0

Error in 13th Inning Puts Duncan in Final

When the provincial Connie Mack Baseball League finals start July 28 in North Vancouver it will be a Duncan team which will represent Vancouver Island.

That was decided Sunday, when Duncan defeated Victoria, 4-3, in a 13-inning thriller to take the best-of-three Island final in straight games.

A bases-loaded error was the difference, wasting a fine bit of relief pitching by Peter Duncan, who had blanked the mid-Island team for nine innings after being called in to throttle a third-inning rally at three runs.

Duncan was hooked up in a great duel with Larry Paradis, who had relieved Doug McKinlay in the seventh inning, when Victoria made a last stand to force the game into extra innings with two runs, when the end came.

Greg Ledding, lead runner in a bases-loaded situation, scored the winning run when catcher Terry Orr dropped the ball on an attempted force play at the plate.

Late Debut Good

Rick Reynolds waited until the final game of the Carnarvon Pony League playoffs to pitch his first game of the season Sunday. It was a great way to start.

Reynolds threw a six-hitter, struck out nine and walked but three batters as Menzies beat Model Sheet Metal, 7-1, in the second game of a best-of-three final at Carnarvon Park.

In the opener, Menzies won, 5-3.

Veterans Win Northwest Golf Honors

TACOMA—Experience scored in both cases as veterans won the men's and ladies' championships in the Pacific Northwest Golf Association tournament, which concluded here over the weekend.

George Holland of Seattle, 38, a winner in 1958, won the men's title by defeating 23-year-old Butch Ogilvy of Portland, 2 and 1, in the 36-hole final.

Mrs. Pat Lesser Harbottle of Tacoma 32 and mother of four, regained the honors she won in 1952 and 1953, by defeating 18-year-old Peggy Conley of Spokane, 3 and 2, after holding a five-hole lead after 29 holes.

Another Chance

Warren Sphan, winner of more games than any lefthander in major league baseball history, is getting another chance to add to his total of 360 victories. Spahn, 44, and released last week by New York Mets, has agreed to terms with San Francisco Giants.

Clark Flogs Alcos XI For Century

Castaways	10	4	6	0	20
Albions	10	1	9	0	5

Next game: Saturday, Incogs vs. Oak Bay, 2:15 p.m. at University School.

Dave Clark hit away for a brilliant 102 not out Sunday as Castaways dumped Alcos by seven wickets in the Victoria and District Cricket Association.

With Clark showing the way, Castaways declared at 160 for three, then dismissed Alcos for 101.

Meanwhile, Oak Bay was beating Albion by five wickets at Windsor Park, scoring 90 after Albions were all out for 86.

Jack Sparks took five Albion wickets for 14 runs, then hit for 37 himself. Dave Thompson and Bill Parrott each hit 30 for Albion.

Uplands Sets Sunday Final

Fred Billsbrough and Len Holyoak play off Sunday at Uplands Golf Club in the final of the club's handicap championship.

"B" class championship has already been decided, with Ken Little shooting a 81-22—59 to win by two strokes over G. Ray and G. Austin.

Sunday's draw:

8 a.m. —Championship, F. Billsbrough vs. L. Holyoak.
8:07—First flight, C. Nielsen vs. D. Billsbrough.
8:14—Second flight, G. Silburn vs. C. Locatelli.
8:21—Third flight, V. Evans vs. J. M. Wright.
8:28—Fourth flight, A. Chalmers vs. J. Archambault or R. Walker.
8:35—Fifth flight, J. Douglas vs. A. Cliff.

Family Split In Net Meet

CHICAGO (AP) — Dennis Ralston, America's top-ranked tennis player, won his second straight U.S. clay courts championship Sunday when he aced the match point to defeat Cliff Richey 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

It wasn't a total loss for the Richey family from Dallas. Cliff's sister, Nancy Richey, captured an unprecedented third straight women's U.S. clay courts title, defeating Julie Heldman 5-7, 6-3, 9-7.

Rock Coach Changes Tactics Expects More In Last Stand

Jim McNeill hasn't been a whip-cracking type of coach, but he's willing to learn.

"I'm tired of watching some of these guys dog it," he said last night. "From now on I'll bench anybody who doesn't go all out all the time. I'd rather have 11 guys who are working than carry four others who aren't."

McNeill put Victoria Shamrocks through the regular workout last night at Memorial Arena. And he made time to talk about the current Shamrock situation in the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

With eight games left, the Rocks trail third-place Coquitlam Adanacs by six points. Only the top three clubs make the playoffs. To most people, the Shamrocks are dead. Not to McNeill.

STILL DEFIANT

"When I think we're dead," he snapped, "I'll let you know.

"As long as we've got those two games left with Coquitlam, we've got a chance. But we've got to beat somebody in a hurry, and we're not going to do it unless everybody works. So anybody who does'nt is out."

Did he, or did he not bench Terry Davis Saturday night in Coquitlam after Adanacs had scored six straight goals?

"Yes, I did. He wasn't working as hard as I thought he could."

Coquitlam scored five goals on seven shots to start the third quarter. How much of it was Skip Chapman's fault?

"Skip never played better for us than he did in the first half. And when they started scoring on us they were shooting from 40 feet out and picking the corners. When they shoot like that, and get lucky like that, there's not much a goalie can do."

Looking back over the first 22 games of the season, McNeill could point to one main reason for the Shamrock troubles. They lack a leader.

BARRY MISSED

"If Barry Ashbee had been here like we figured, maybe it would have been different. But we lose games we shouldn't lose because we make silly mistakes. There's nobody to steady the club down when things start going badly."

McNeill hopes that steadying influence was at last night's practice in the person of Jack Showers, who worked out after missing most of the season with a muscle injury.

Showers will play Wednesday when New Westminster O'Keefe's visit Memorial Arena.

"And you'll probably see Ed Kowalyk checking Paul Parnell all night," McNeill said. "Other than that, I haven't figured out a line-up.

"But Wednesday is the last chance for some of these guys. Anybody who doesn't go all out gets benched.

"I don't think we're dead, but if we are, we're damn well going to go out fighting."

Munn Grabs Part of Pot

SPOKANE — Victoria's Dick Munn is $283.33 richer today, his share of fifth spot in the $5,200 Lilac City Open Golf tournament.

Munn shot a 70 here in Sunday's final round to tie for fifth spot with 211, five strokes behind winner Al Feldman of Auburn, Wash.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver was third.

Colts Beaten

BRIGHTON, England (AP)—The touring Canadian Colts cricket team went down to its fifth defeat in 10 games Monday, losing 205-161 to Brighton College.

The colts have won twice and drawn three times with six games remaining in their British tour.

Colin Wyatt Top Rifleman

Colin Wyatt battled gusty wind conditions to turn in a mean average grouping of 1.750 inches and capture the Tackhammer Trophy at the Victoria Fish and Game Association benchrest rifle shoot-offs at the Esquimalt Lagoon Range Sunday.

Ernie Foulser was runner-up with a MAG of 2.031.

Wyatt, using a .222 BSA hunter, made it the third straight year that the Tackhammer was taken by a hunter.

Bob Kirk grouped in 3.093 inches to lead the .257 - .284 calibre division. Gary Williams shot a mean average grouping of 2.089 to win the .308 and up division.

Wet Grounds Sets Back Bomber Game

WINNIPEG (CP)—Extremely wet grounds forced postponement of a scheduled Monday night Canadian Football League exhibition game here between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The game will be played tonight.

George Coroneous, Bomber assistant general manager, said another factor in the postponement was a weather office prediction that severe thunderstorms could hit the Winnipeg area around game time—8 p.m. CDT.

Lions Announce First Two Cuts

VANCOUVER — B.C. Lions have announced their first two cuts of the season, releasing Don Holder, rookie import halfback from University of Utah and John Reykdal, a rookie centre from the University of British Columbia.

Reykdal, however, may get a chance to try again next year. He returns to UBC for his last term. Holder was trying to make the club as a defence back.

Coach Dave Skrien also announced that two players are suffering from knee injuries. Corner-linebacker Greg Findlay injured one of his in a weekend workout but was with the club when it left for two exhibition games against Eastern Football Conference clubs, today and Thursday.

More serious was the knee hurt suffered by Norm Winton, a Canadian lineman who has been going to school at University of Oregon.

But the Lions have no intention of releasing Winton, who indicated at training camp that he could be useful line insurance. He will return to Oregon for a few days, then come back to Vancouver for examination to determine if an operation is necessary. He may be placed on the injured reserve list.

Worries Reds

Health of slugging outfielder Frank Robinson is currently big worry for Cincinnati Reds. First reported to be suffering from mononucleosis, Robinson is now said to have a "viral condition" and is playing on day-to-day basis.

Tismine Pays $119.80

Big Vancouver Payoff

VANCOUVER—Tismine, a 10-year-old thoroughbred veteran who hadn't gone to the post since last May 3, stole the show at Exhibition Park on Monday with a surprise victory.

Almost completely overlooked, the brown mare got her annual surprise early, winning the first race at odds of 59-1 to return a straight price of $119.80.

Fawcett's First, a bit less of an outsider, took place money to set up a juicy quinella return of $239.50.

Two other big upsets featured Monday's card. Dicky Dan paid $44.70 in a two-year-old sprint which was the second race, and Dieppe's Boy paid $32.50 in winning the sixth race.

And it was also quite a day for jockey Rogelio Trejos, who had five winning rides, including those on Tismine and Dieppe's Boy.

Clark a Shoo-In For Racing Title

ZANDVOORT, Netherlands (AP)—Jim Clark of Scotland streaked to Victory in the Dutch Grand Prix Sunday and virtually clinched the world driving championship for 1965.

It was Clark's fifth grand prix victory this year and his third straight in the Dutch Grand Prix. The victory gave the Scot 45 points towards the world championship and virtually guaranteed him the title he last held in 19663.

Driving his sleek green Lotus, Clark crossed the finish line in the 208.41-mile race nine seconds ahead of another Scot, Jackie Stewart, who drove a BRM. Dan Gurney of the U.S., driving a Brabham, finished third.

Clark's time cf two hours, three minutes, 59.1 seconds was a record for the race. He averaged 100.86 miles an hour. On the way, Clark set a lap record of 1:30.6 for the 2.604-mile circuit, averaging 103.525 m.p.h. The first four finishers all averaged above 100 m.p.h.

Sunday's scores: Rawlings 5, Chemainus 4. Transports 14, Chemainus 2.
Next game: Tonight, Transports vs. I.A.A., 6:30 p.m. at Athletic Park.

Chemainus Carlings used three pitchers to hurl a no-hitter Sunday but lost anyway.

In fact, they lost twice, dropping both games of a Senior Amateur Baseball League double-header played on their home territory, 5-4 to Rawlings and 14-2 to Transports to drop into the league cellar.

The no-hitter came in the opener when Rawlings, although failing to hit, scored four runs in the second inning on walks, errors and a wild pitch.

Art Worth and Mike McAvoy carried most of the artillery in the second game, driving in four runs apiece for Transports. Jim Heighton also helped, slamming his fourth homer of the year.

This Boozer Should Be Flushed

WIGAN, England (Reuters)—A secret drinker on the outskirts of this northern England industrial town has blocked the local council's new sewage pumping station.

A flood of pocket-sized bottles of Scotch whiskey has several times brought pumping to a standstill, and engineers have had to dismantle equipment to remove them.

Council surveyor James Holding said the tiny bottles had been flushed down a toilet, presumably after private drinking sessions in the bathroom.

Government Ready On Medicare Plan

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is ready to move immediately on medicare.

Officials say that if the provinces react quickly to Prime Minister Pearson's proposals, the majority of Canadians could be covered within a year.

Before the prime minister went into the federal-provincial conference Monday with the federal proposals, officials of all 11 governments had made a technical study of medicare and informants said the results were encouraging. Ottawa officials are highly confident of success.

STANDARD

The role of the federal government in a medical care program is simply to make necessary revenues available to the province and to see that acceptable standards are met by all provincial governments. All provinces will be free to raise their plans above those standards, although they won't be compensated by the federal government beyond the predetermined revenue rebates that will precede establishment of the plans.

In laying out four preconditions for medicare, the informants said the federal government is being "pretty firm" on them.

UNIFORM TERMS

First, the benefits must apply to the services of both physicians and specialists; second, the plans must cover all residents of a province on uniform terms and conditions; third, the plan must be publicly administered either by a provincial government or its agency; and fourth, the coverage must be mobile among provinces.

Federal insistance on publicly administered plans means that of the provincial schemes now operating only Saskatchewan's qualifies. The Ontario and Alberta governments have devised plans operating through private companies while B.C. has set up a non-profit medical insurance society.

"If public funds are to be used," said an official, "it is only reasonable that there be public administration."

TACKLED LATER

The question of how Canadians would pay for medical care has not yet been established. This woild be tackled later.

While the necessary revenues would be provided through new fiscal arrangements, the outflow would have to be met by increased government income. Among systems being talked about by federal officials are premiums and income-tax rebates that would result in the well-to-do paying more than the poor.

This method of suing income taxes to relate contributions to earnings was mentioned by Mr. Pearson in 1961 when he advocated a form of national medical scheme. The federal-provincial tax structure committee would have a good deal to say about the financial aspect.

Forest Fire Cuts Power

QUESNEL (CP) — A forest fire ate through a high-voltage transmission line Sunday night, cutting normal electrical power to the entire Cariboo district for about 15 hours.

Normal service was restored about noon Monday.

The entire area from 100 Mile House to Quesnel was without power for two hours, when emergency service was started.

OUT WHALING LIMITS

Limits on the world whale catch will be reduced for 1965-66. Last season only 6,984 of 8,000 available units were caught.

Medicare Reaction 'Good'

prehensiveness and transferability.

The reaction of most provinces was one of guarded approval.

All four Atlantic premiers, for example, said they probably would take part in any such program provided federal financial contributions are sufficient.

Premier Lesage of Quebec said the four main criteria laid own by Mr. Pearson were no bstacle to his province.

Mr. Lesage indicated his government is ready to participate in the Pearson plan, provided Ottawa will advance its money through a taxabatement and not through the type of cost-sharing program from which Quebec has chosen to stay out.

Premier Roberts of Ontario, whose government is ready to launch a medical plan which falls short of Ottawa's criteria, indicated he might be ready to ompromise on his legislation rovided the federal financial id made it worthwhile.

For Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan, the prime minister's offer amounted to a gift horse. Heading the only province which now has a medical care plan meeting Mr. Pearson's criteria, Mr. Thatcher has only to count up the amount of federal aid he'll receive. His first estimate: $12,000,000 a year.

BASED ON NEED

Premier Bennett of British Columbia and Manning of Alberta indicated concern that the federal plan is not voluntary, while Manitoba's Roblin said he would like a program based purely on need.

Mr. Pearson said the federal government would be ready to establish and operate its own medical care plan if the question did not fall within provincial jurisdiction. But even while the constitutional responsibility was provincial, Ottawa had a national role in seeing that public medical services are available to all.

SILENT ON AID

But nowhere in the opening speech on the federal side was there mention of a subject raised most frequently by premiers in advance of the meeting—increased federal aid to universities.

Subject to parliamentary approval, the federal government would support provincial medical plans "by means of a fiscal contribution of pre-determined size, Mr. Pearson said.

The criteria on which it will subsidize provincial plans are:

- That the scope of benefits should cover broadly all services provided by physicians, both general practitioners and specialists.
- That the plan should be universal, covering all residents of a province on uniform terms and conditions.
- That the plan be publicly administered either directly by a provincial government or through a provincial government agency.
- That each plan provide for full transferability of benefits when people move from one province to another.

HOPE FOR AGREEMENT

Mr. Pearson said he hoped the conference wold agree first on these for principles, then establish a committee of health ministers to write out the conditions in precise terms.

Then the federal government would offer technical help in co-ordinating standards and operation of medical services, and consider what tax adjustments should be made to cover the federal contribution.

"When medicare begins, Canadians will be relieved of costs which they are now paying either directly to their doctors or through various prepayment plans," he said.

"Instead they will have to pay more in public revenues, to meet these existing costs and those of the improvements in service which are brought about. The federal and provincial governments together will have to raise the revenue needed for medicare, or else reduce other expenditures.

"No one, I am sure, would assume that these costs could be added to budget deficits, which must be determined according to economic circumstances and a responsible fiscal policy."

Dancers Delayed

Visiting Children Delight Islanders

By JEAN BAIN

SHAWIGAN LAKE — A mix-up in transportation took some of the local color out of Welcome Day ceremonies at Children's International Summer Village here Sunday.

Indian dancers were to perform for children and visitors at 3 p.m. They did not arrive until after 5 p.m., and most of the visitors had gone.

REEVE ON HAND

Among visitors welcoming the children were Reeve and Mrs. Don Morton of North Cowichan.

The children were presented with T-shirts bearing the emblem CISV, and "1965-V.I., Canada".

Boys promptly stripped to the waist and pulled on the shirts.

One little girl from Guatamala combined enthusiasm with a gymnastic feat as she got the T-shirt half on, then slipped off her sweater underneath, then finished pulling on the T-shirt.

The youngsters roared through a number of games, including leap frog, drop-the-handkerchief, and relays.

Visitors were delighted by the children, as the youngsters from many lands tried desperately to understand the instructions of the games.

After games, they went swimming in Shawnigan Lake.

Following a salmon barbeque, the children watched four Indian dancers, two from Cowichan, two from Saanich.

Victoria Shipbuilders

Pledge Doubted

Victoria's two major shipyards have replied with a cool "thank you" to a federal government guarantee of shipbuilding contracts for west coast yards for the next five years.

John Wallace, general manager of Yarrows Ltd., said while pleased with the breathing space, he is doubtful whether they would be in a better bargaining position at the end of the period to enter fully into a nationally competitive fray for government ship contracts.

And, he added, he had "no confidence whatever" in west coast yards securing a sizeable share of the $206,000,000 worth of shipbuilding contracts which are to be competed for on a national basis in the meantime.

Ottawa has announced that west coast yards will be offered work totalling $71,000,000 during the five-year period for regional competition.

According to David Groos, Liberal MP for Victoria, west coast tenders would be called for a tidal current survey vessel, an oceanographic ship and a research vessel for the National Research Establishment.

Harold Husband, president of Victoria Machinery Depot, said that B.C. was "appreciative of the fact the federal government is recognizing that some federal shipbuilding work should be allocated to the coast," but was concerned about what the distribution would be.

Vancouver Man Dies in U.S

OLYMPIA (AP) — Richard French, 62, of North Vancouver, B.C., died in a Tacoma hospital Monday of injuries he received in an automobile accident 10 miles south of Olympia June 26.

The state patrol said his wife, Joan, 45, was killed instantly when their car ran off the road and was pierced by a guard rail.

Baby Dies

A two-month-old baby died Monday after falling from a bed.

Dead on arrival at Royal Jubilee Hospital was the baby of Mrs. Margaret Jones, of 3326 Quadra.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre has ordered a post-mortem.

Inquest Ordered

Baby Found Dead On Camping Trip

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — Three-month-old Arlene Waters, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Waters, of 1062 Queens Avenue, Victoria, died suddenly Saturday while on a camping trip at Shawnigan Lake.

The infant was found dead in her bed. Police said a coroner's inquiry has been ordered by Duncan physician Dr. R. R. Wilson.

An autopsy has been performed and police are awaiting the coroner's verdict.

Besides her parents she is survived by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril E. Waters and Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Ramsfield, all of Victoria.

Private services will take place from Royal Oak Chapel, Victoria, Tuesday at 10:00 followed by interment at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Duncan Paper Sold

The Duncan weekly newspaper Cowichan Leader has been sold to a chain of B.C. publications which also owns the Prince George Citizen and Cariboo Observer, it was announced Monday.

The Leader, along with the Prince Rupert Daily News, were sold by John F. Magor to Northwest Publications, a newly-formed company headed by W. B. Milner of Vancouver.

Foresters' Camp Ends Schedule

DUNCAN — To round out a busy winter schedule, the local Independent Order of Foresters recently held two camp-outs.

The first was held June 30 to July 4 at Fairbridge Farm School with over 100 campers attending.

With temperatures rising to 80 degrees during the four days, water activities were prominent, including kayak races for young and old with heavy fellows sinking the kayaks before they could even begin.

This weekend, all the Island Foresters met at Mountain View Resort at Shawnigan Lake for a three-day camp-out.

Foresters attending included Court Arrowsmith (Port Alberni), Court Nanaimo, Court Trouhalem (Duncan), Court Victoria, and a few from Vancouver, Manitoba and California courts who were holidaying on the Island.

Woman, Goat Pulled from Well

By KLAUS MUENTER

COWICHAN STATION—After 20 anxious minutes Saturday afternoon in an old, unused well, Mrs. Mercedes Gibson, 67, and her favorite milking goat Betsy were saved from drowning by George Plumb, 47, who lowered himself on a rope to the helpless woman.

The drama started after Mrs. Gibson heard a bleating from the old well.

She saw the other goats standing near the well and "I knew what had happened!"

She ran to the well and tried to rescue Betsy, who had broken through rotten timber which covered the well and fallen 15 feet into the 80-foot well, which was filled with about 65 feet of water.

Not waiting for neighbors, Mrs. Gibson put a ladder against the side of the well, but as soon as she stepped on it the ladder slipped and disappeared in the water and the elderly woman plunged in.

She grabbed hold of a pipe with one hand and held the goat with the other. She said her husband has a heart condition and was unable to help.

NEIGHBORS ARRIVE

Finally Mr. Plumb and neighbors arrived at the scene. Mrs. Gibson said, "If it had not been for Mr. Plumb I would have drowned because I could not hold on any longer. My arm became weak, I felt dizzy and my sight was blurred because of pain."

SHE HESITATED

Mr. Plumb said, "I had my leg around a pipe and told Mrs. Gibson to step on it, but she hesitated at first, fearing I might go under. Finally she did as I told her, stepped on my upper leg, on my shoulder and on my arm, and then she was pulled from the top by North Cowichan fireman Ray Bujold and RCMP Constable Tom Earl."

Mr. Plumb said, "When we carried her across the meadow she insisted on walking, and told us to get the goat." Mrs. Gibson said, "I love my goats!"

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Chief Underwood:

Namu Will Die In Lonely Exile

By JIM BEAHAN

Namu the killer whale will not live long in captivity, according to Chief Edwin Underwood of East Sanich band.

"I don't think he will last very long, because his spirit will be with his family, and he will just pine away and die of loneliness," Chief Underwood said.

Killer whale is a white man's name for the mammal Indians call Black Fish.

"White men seem to think the black fish is a menace and is out to kill anything, but this is not so," said Chief Underwood.

He said the whales only kill for food, and are actually mild creatures unless in their mating season, or if they feel their young are in danger. Then they can be extremely dangerous.

"When a school enters a bay the old-timers will stay near the entrance of the bay, and it is the young speedier whales which cruise the coves and inlets to chase the seal and salmon out to where the big fellows can make the kill," he said.

"I do not think it is right that these people should be bothering the black fish, they are meant to live to have the freedom of the oceans—not to be kept in a cage," he said.

Hearing Told

Invoices Falsified To Cut RedTape

The president of a photographic firm described Monday how fictitious invoices were used to cut naval red tape

Frederick Tanner, president of Victoria Photo Supply, was testifying at a preliminary hearing into four charges of fraud and one of theft over $50 against Lieut. Eric Haywood, 2150 Allenby, and Charles Whyte, 3834 East Saanich.

The case, which involves alleged misuse of navy photographic materials, is being heard by Magistrate William Ostler.

CONFUSING WELTER

The first day's testimony was about a confusing welter of photographic equipment invoices, cheques, and other related materials as Mr. Tanner described his dealings with Whyte.

Prosecutor Kenneth Murphy sought to reduce the confusion somewhat by explaining in an opening statement the nature of the testimony to follow.

He explained to the court that the navy purchases photographic equipment valued at less than $25 out of a petty cash fund, whereas material worth more than this is generally put up for tenders.

FICTITIOUS INVOICES

To circumvent this regulation, he said, several fictitious invoices would be made up to total the purchase price of a larger item.

He assured Magistrate Ostler that this was not a conspiracy with the shop.

Mr. Tanner said that such arrangements "were not uncommon where an item was urgently needed and there was not time to go through regular channels for such a purchase to be made."

GAVE CREDIT

Mr. Tanner said that he often gave a credit in cases where Mr. Whyte returned unused polaroid film before its expiry date.

The hearing will continue this morning, Wednesday and Thursday.

Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre is representing Haywood while Whyte is being defended by W. E. Whitley.

Postal Workers Vote For Strike Action

Greater Victoria postal workers voted Sunday to strike for higher pay if their national leadership calls for a walkout.

"But we will take no action until we hear from headquarters," said E. F. "Jack" Bell, president of the Victoria branch of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers, following an employees' meeting.

NATIONAL DEMAND

About 100 letter carriers joined with 100 members of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association to back up a national demand for higher pay.

Last week the government announced a $300 annual increase for letter carriers, and $300 for the main mail sorter category.

$600 RAISE

The Postal Workers' Brotherhood, which unites the two groups, has sought $600 annual raises.

OTTAWA MEETING

Executive officers of the Brotherhood will hold an emergency meeting in Ottawa today.

It is the decision made at the Ottawa meeting that will decide action by Victoria postal workers.

The Brotherhood represents some 19,500 Canadian mail workers. Its decision whether or not to strike will likely be influenced by a series of pro-strike resolutions being made across the country.

Joseph Belland, Brotherhood president, said Monday:

"If we find there's a general swing toward a strike across the country — they all want to go — we'll have to make our decision in the light of such feeling."

SKELETON CREW

A spokesman said that if there is a strike, a skeleton crew of mail handlers will ensure that cheques to old age pensioners and widows are delivered.

Mr. Bell said 90 per cent of the workers at Sunday's meeting voted to strike if necessary.

Government Reply 'Very Weak Tactic'

Postal union officials in Victoria described as "a very weak tactic," a reply received last night to a telegram sent to Prime Minister Pearson.

The telegram, protesting the recent salary offers to their members, called for a "new initiative" by the government to bring postal workers' wages into line with "norms prevailing in the private sector."

E. J. Benson, vice-president of the Treasury Board, replied to their telegram with an explanation of how the new salaries had been assessed.

Mr. Benson said the revised rates for postal workers conformed to those prevailing in comparable outside employment.

Rising Construction Costs Point to New School Vote

Victoria ratepayers face a supplementary school referendum this fall that could amount to more than a quarter million dollars.

Rising construction costs were blamed Monday by Greater Victoria School Board. The board instructed superintendent John Gough to calculate how much money will be voted on.

REFERENDUM

The amount won't be known for about a month, and the referendum will likely take place in September or October.

Mr. Gough and trustees declined to speculate on how much will be needed.

But it may be figured this way:

● In May, 1964, ratepayers approved a referendum of $6,737,354. Of this, $4,600,000 was earmarked for the building of new schools and additions.

● By last April, only $1,100,000 had been committed to contracts. At that time, school board buildings and grounds committee chairman Peter Bunn reported that tenders had been averaging six per cent above referendum appropriations.

● On a rough projection, six per cent of $4,600,000 comes to $276,000.

Monday night the board rejected all three tenders for the planned Victor School for retarded children. The board had allocated $121,000, but the lowest bid was $150,437. It was submitted by E. J. Hunter & Sons.

Recent tenders for addition to the Bank Street School were found to be at least $32,000 over estimate.

District superintendent Gough suggested the supplementary referendum after noting that "it is becoming increasingly obvious that several of the projects cited in referendum No. 6 cannot be built for the amounts respectively allocated to them."

He said that another, full-scale referendum can be expected in "five to six months."

CRITICIZE

In other business, the board criticized Victoria city council for lack of speed in plans for urban renewal affecting North Ward School.

The board has been hoping to demolish the old school, rebuild on a site provided by the city from the proposed Blanshard Street re-development, and give the site of the old school to the city.

"We're given the persistent slow runaround," said trustee Peter Bunn.

The building and grounds committee will investigate the possibility of going ahead and rebuilding the school without waiting for the city.

Trustee Frances Thompson criticized Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis for recent remarks he made suggesting that the school board needs a check on its spending by an elected municipal official.

Saanich is sponsoring a resolution at the next meeting of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, calling for a councillor to sit on school boards.

The board instructed chairman J. W. Porteous to confer with Reeve Curtis, and if necessary invite a joint meeting of the board and Saanich council.

Fire Guts Power Boat

COURTENAY — An $18,000 26-foot cabin cruiser, the Blackhawk, owned by William Husdon, Forbes Landing, caught fire late Sunday evening and burned to the water line, before sinking in about 200 feet of water, midway between Denman Island and Buckley Bay ferry slips.

The owner was aboard the boat at the time, and jumped overboard when the fire broke out. He was not hurt and was picked up later by a Mr. Hill of Denman Island, who was out fishing.

To Meet Minister's Deadline

Oak Bay Will Vote On Regional Status

Oak Bay ratepayers will go to the polls this fall to decide whether or not the municipality will join the proposed regional district of the capital city of British Columbia.

Oak Bay council voted Monday to prepare a referendum which would go before the ratepayers before Sept. 11, deadline set by Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell.

Reeve Allan Cox said he would meet with members of the municipal affairs department in efforts to extend the referendum deadline.

COMMUNITY PLAN

The proposed region would have the external boundries of Sooke, Greater Victoria and Saanich school districts and will deal with regional and community planning, sewers, regional parks, water board and fireworks.

Reeve Cox pointed out the municipality is already taking part in sewer and regional parks plans and that is has regulations similar to that of the surrounding areas concerning the use and sale of fireworks. He said he did not know about the water board section but felt it was of lesser importance.

SERIOUS STEP

He said taking part in regional and community planning was a "serious step".

"We are not so parochrial not to be interested at all," he added.

Reeve Cox said the minister had sprung the plan on very short notice.

"We must do something quickly."

"If we do nothing, the municipality will be locked in the regional district forever and a day," he added.

IMPOSSIBILITY

The Reeve felt to put the matter before the public before Sept. 11 was a "practical impossibility."

"But, council has no mandate to hand away planning forever," he added.

Strong objections were raised to the matter of voting on the proposed regional district.

Reeve Cox pointed out that according to the letters patent a simple majority of votes cast would suffice.

DEPARTURE

"This is a marked departure of municipal law," he said.

Five out of seven must vote in favor for a motion to pass.

He said a 3/5 voting majority would provide more safeguards for property owners.

"Many people in the municipality would be in favor of the plan if it had more safeguards," he said.

"The regional district will be beneficial and I don't think it will affect the municipality very much," he added.

CLOSING HOURS

Request by Beverley Morley that current service station closing hours be extended one hour in winter and three hours in summer and Sunday operation between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. resulted in motion by Coun. Douglas Watts for amendment to the closing hours bylaw.

Current hours of operation are from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily and closed Sundays.

EXTENSION

Amendment would extend daily operation one hour during winter and three hours during the summer with Sunday opening from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The six other service station operators in the municipality have petitioned council opposing the extension.

Council agreed to permit the University of Victoria to install signs for directions to the university campus.

A request from the Daily Colonist for permission to erect distribution depot on municipal property bordering Bowker Creek on south side of Cadboro Bay Road was referred to a committee which will report at the next meeting.

Definite 'Go' for Highway

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

The provincial government will start reconstruction of the Pat Bay Highway this summer as planned, Highways Minister Gaglardi said Monday.

A shortage of men, however, has put his department "about six weeks behind" on its schedule of projects, the minister said.

He told reporters a requisition for funds has been made and tenders will be called shortly.

City Takes Preliminary Step Toward Planning Agreement

By A. H. MURPHY
City Hall Reporter

First step toward establishment of a new project planning facility for the city was taken Monday when a special council committee met with S. Joseph Cunliffe, president of the firm of Willis and Cunliffe.

Mayor Wilson said following the meeting that Mr. Cunliffe was asked to submit proposals for the city Paint-Up Plan and for Bastion Square, which will be started this year and completed before next summer.

The action was made necessary by the recent resignation of Roderick Clack, head of the special projects division at city hall. Following his resignation his assistants, Peter Atkin and Ted Parsons, also quit the civic service.

Mr. Atkin and Mr. Parsons will join the staff of Willis and Cunliffe within a short time as will Mr. Clack on his return from Ottawa in six months' time. Mr. Clack is now working with the federal Centennial Commission preparing and co-relating plans for civic improvement for municipalities who wish to make such projects their centennial scheme.

Members of the committee who attended Monday's meeting in Mayor Wilson's office were Aldermen Millard Mooney, A. W. Toone and Cecil Parrott.

Lipstick Vital To Career

BOSTON (AP) — Career women competing with men for the executive suite would do well to carry no stick, save lipstick.

The advice was from Miss Joe Foxworth in a talk before the recent national convention of the Advertising Federation of America. She is president of the Advertising Women of New York and a vice-president and creative director of a New York advertising firm.

Presenting a code for the woman who wants to succeed in business, Miss Foxworth made the following points:

Thou shall watch thy language; there may be gentlemen present.

A lot of our current smart talk drifted up to polite society from the dock walloper, but when the girls start bandying it about it's particularly unsmart.

Thou shall not match martinis with the men.

Some women can drink some men under the table . . . but a man under the table can still be dangerous.

Thou shall save thy sex appeal for after five.

Sex around the office is like alcohol on the highway.

Strugnell, 540 Selkirk Avenue. The wedding will take place at 7:30 p.m., August 7, in St. Saviour's Anglican Church, with Rev. R. N. Mugford officiating.

Occupy Children When Travelling

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP) — If you're planning a car trip with young children, it's a good idea to allow for two hours or 100 to 200 miles less driving a day.

"Young children want to stop every hour-and-a-half or so," says Carol Lane, women's travel director for Shell Canada Ltd. "With young children in the car, you should probably plan to drive about 300 miles in a day with several 10- or 15-minute stops.

"If you're going to take them with you on a long car trip you should plan for children's activities. They like to see animals, to stop and swim, and dawdle. You probably should leave adult preferences for the evenings."

Miss Lane says a little advance planning will help keep children happy while in the car and reduce the wear and tear on adult nerves.

You can turn the back seat into a play and nap area by stacking luggage level with the seat and putting a crib or air mattress on top of it. Or you can buy commercial platforms or build one with plywood and screw-in legs. If you do that, an extra set of longer legs can make the platform double as a portable picnic table.

MAKE MYSTERY BOX

Have two kinds of games — travel games and standard ones. The local library may be of help with games such as license plate cribbage or cow-counting. You can also buy commercial games with magnetic boards and counters or slots to keep pieces from getting lost.

Miss Lane suggests making up a mystery box.

"You might buy a few inexpensive new toys and wrap them up as gifts, and be sure to include some old favorites. Perhaps you could include a dime for ice cream, or a small package of candy. If you're on a long trip, mark different days of the week on each gift and give the children one selection a day."

Games and grooming equipment can be kept handy by hanging a compartmented shoe bag over the back of the front seat. Toys can be stored in some compartments, a comb and brush in another, a damp face cloth and soap in a plastic bag in another.

A plastic-lined tote bag makes a good holder for trash bags and will double as a carrier for bathing suits and other equipment when you leave the car.

DRESS FOR COMFORT

Dress the children casually. They'll be comfortable, and you can easily carry a few changes and stop at a coin laundromat to wash.

If they must be dressed up when you arrive at your destination, Miss Lane suggests you can carry good clothes in a plastic bag in the trunk.

If they want to take their shoes off, let them. It's easier on the car and they're less likely to hurt each other if they kick.

Both adults and children should eat lightly during the day on a car trip, Miss Lane says. You're less likely to get groggy, and a child is less likely to be car sick.

If you think he might be sick ask a doctor to recommend a motion - sickness preparation. And when in the car you can bring the child up to the front seat—a good idea occasionally anyway—and give him a lemon to suck. Try to keep his interest inside the car rather than on the passing scenery.

BUY WASHING MACHINES

Swedish women bought 110,003 washing machines in 1964, 30 per cent more than in the year before.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago you published a letter from a woman who complained because her sister-in-law brought a steak over to her house one Friday night and fixed it for herself while everyone else ate fish.

I grew up in a home that was strictly kosher. My sister Sadie married out of the faith, which almost broke my parents' hearts. Nonetheless, they have accepted Sadie's husband and are very pleasant to him.

Whenever Sadie has the folks to dinner she fixes fish for them but she always has a pork roast or baked ham for her own family. Last week I told her I thought she should stop it. She replied, "A grown woman is free to do as she pleases in her own home."

Is she right or wrong?—SADIE'S SISTER.

Dear Sister: A grown woman is free to do as she pleases in her own home, but a grown woman should also be considerate of her parents. They know she married out of her faith. She does not need to remind them by hitting them over the head with a pork roast every time they have dinner at her home.

Consciously or ~~unconsciously~~ Sadie is reminding her parents that they no longer have control over her. It's time she knocked it off.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: You said that even if the parents and grandparents were born in Poland the kids would be American because "nationality means the nation of your birth." Several people in our office think you're wrong.

If an American traveling in Africa has a baby is the baby African? Or if a mother cat has kittens in an oven are those kittens cookies?

Let's hear from you again on this subject.—IN DOUBT.

Dear In: The World Book Encyclopedia dictionary says, "Nationality is the condition of belonging to a nation. A legal relationship between an individual and a nation, involving allegiance on the part of the individual and protection on the part of the state. There are a number of technicalities and every country sets up its own regulations covering its nationality."

Many countries, including the United States, grant nationality (and citizenship) to anyone born here — yes, even if the child was born while Mom was just passing through.

And now about that cat who was born in the oven, — no, she is not a cookie, even if her mother was a tart.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Ten years ago my brother died. My husband had just gotten out of the service. He took over my brother's business which was then barely breaking even. My brother's widow was to be a 50 per cent partner and my husband was to own the other 50 per cent for running the business.

My husband built the company into a very successful enterprise. Three years ago my brother's widow married a jerk who is forever sticking his nose into the business. He knows nothing about the business but he pesters my husband to do this and do that.

Is it fair that my husband should continue to knock his brains out for those two? He is getting headaches from the brother-in-law and so am I. Any suggestions?—ANNOYED.

Dear Annoyed: Your husband can (and should) do either of two things. He can have an attorney draw up an "I'll buy you or you buy me" agreement, or he can effect a dissolution of the business and start again on his own. No one should remain in business with a partner he doesn't want.

Nisbet-Lee

Couple Spends Honeymoon In Harrison Hot Springs

An exquisite floor-length gown of bridal satin styled on Elizabethan lines was worn by Sharon Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hewitson, Glyn Road, when she became the bride of David James Nisbet, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Nisbet of Cobble Hill.

Rev. A.-G. McLeod officiated at the afternoon ceremony in St. Aidan's United Church, at which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Her lovely gown, with jeweled neckline, had appliques of silk chiffon on the bodice and skirt, with a flat bow at the back waistline above the slight train. A pill box headpiece ~~embroidered~~ with pearls held her bouffant shoulder-length veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses with stephanotis.

* * *

Floor-length gowns of yellow chiffon over taffeta were worn by bridal attendants, Mrs. Thomas Foster, matron of honor; Miss Jean Nisbet and Miss Penny Hewitson, bridesmaids, and Miss Debbie Rodger, flower girl.

They wore circlets of yellow rose petals in their hair, and carried bouquets of white gladiolus and yellow rosebuds.

Mr. Fred Tarasoff was best man for the groom and ushers were Mr. Larry Keen and Mr. Brian Hodgson.

* * *

A reception was held at Oak Bay Beach Hotel, where the bride and groom cut a three-tier wedding cake topped with a yellow rose bud in a silver vase.

Leaving later for a honeymoon at Harrison Hot Springs, the bride wore a pale blue Italian knit suit with beige accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

When they return to Victoria the newlyweds plan to live at Ashford Court, Fort Street.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ramazi Repski, Craik, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. Amer Lascelle, North Surrey, B.C., and Mr. Elof Ward, Saskatoon, Sask.

Groom's Father Plays Organ

In First United Church, Rev. Robert J. D. Morris heard marriage vows of Beverly Joan Andersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Rough, Mt. Baker View Road, and Edward Lester Bullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Bullen of Vancouver.

The groom's father played wedding music at the afternoon ceremony, at which Mr. Rough gave his daughter in marriage. Gold and white flowers decorated the chancel.

* * *

For her marriage the bride wore a beautifully tailored sheath of champagne brocade with double panels and three-quarter-length sleeves. A circlet of brocade held her shoulder-length veil of champagne tulle, and she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

She was attended by Mrs. Norah Carlsen, who wore beige chiffon over lace with hat en tone. She carried a crescent of shaded gladiolus.

Mr. Brian Powell of Montreal was best man, and guests were ushered to their places by Dr. D. C. T. Bullen and Mr. C. Brawner. Dr. A. E. Carlsen proposed a toast to the bride at the reception at the Olde England Inn.

For travelling south, the bride wore a suit of oyster silk shantung with matching hat and a brown cymbidium orchid en corsage.

After their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Bullen plan to live in Whitehorse, Y.T.

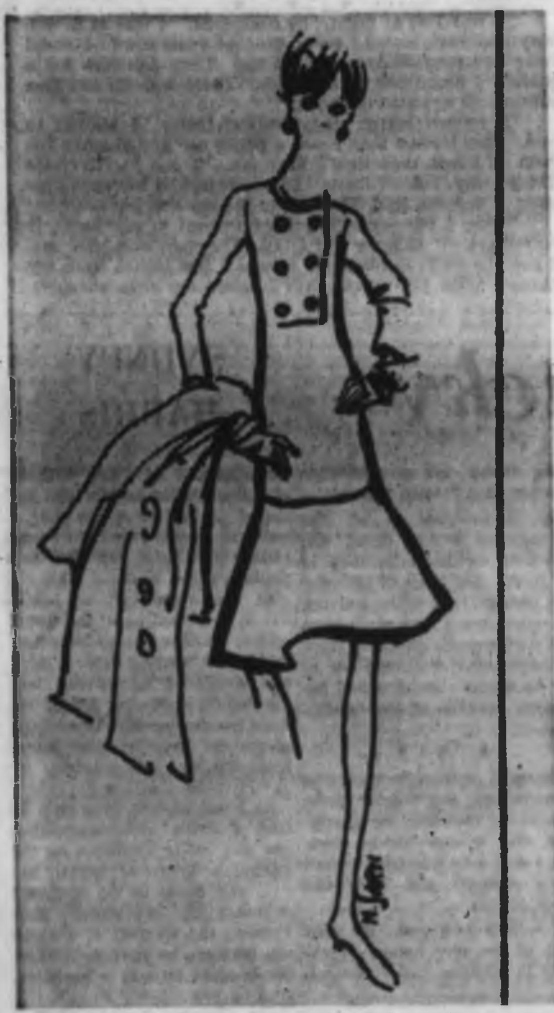
Italians Show Knits

* * *



This sketch shows the fluid, almost-fitted wool knit dress with flared hem rippling out from a low seam which was presented by Albertina House at the opening of the Italian 1965 fall and winter fashion showing in Rome.—(AP)

ROME (Reuters) — Rome knitwear designer Milo opened showings of the autumn-winter 1965-66 collections Saturday with a daring sports outfit which drew applause from international buyers and critics.

She featured a matching sweater and wool stockings with bold horizontal stripes and a short, above-the-knee, permanently-pleated skirt.

Other models had matching sweater and stockings with zigzag stripes and detachable hoods.

As her piece de resistance, Milo presented a bell-bottomed trouser suit in a soft, supple mohair, trimmed at the cuffs and neckline with brilliant gold lame.

Elaborate stitching, extravagant capes and knitted robinhood tights worn with tunic, created by designer Lida were also appreciated by the audience.

She showed little top coats in soft pastel shades and suits made with "blown stitches," capes and simple day dresses. The cocktail dresses created in cotton brocade were new, lovely and sophisticated.

COLOR FOR WINTER

Lida has also created some striking colors, blending and shading of the materials to give winter a touch of brightness and warmth.

She first showed subdued and delicate shades of pink, then burst out with the fiery colors of sunset.

Knitwear designer Albertina named her new collection "young style."

She tried to give each design a fresh breath of youth by putting the accent on slightly lowered waistlines.

Bust and hips were barely outlined, and skirts flared like flower petals in reverse.

Her coats followed the line of the body and were enriched by tricky motifs at the hem.

As a finale, Albertina presented a white knit wedding dress that clung to the body and flared at the hem.

Gaber, one of Rome's leading lingerie designers, presented housecoats and dressing gowns of hand-woven mohair yarn, intertwined with ribbons which gave the wool a smoother, more compact look.

She followed the high fashion trend inspired by Jean Harlow, the blonde Hollywood star of the 1930, with simple, clean lines clinging and then slightly flaring from the knees.

NOTICE TO PARENTS OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

UNIVERSAL TUTORING COLLEGE, now in its third year, once again is planning special remedial tutoring sessions to run through summer months. We have found this to be an excellent time to review and uncover basic faults and weaknesses in a student's work, for without day to day pressure of school, he is able to concentrate more fully on his problems.

Obviously, to do well in his next year at school, he must understand his previous year's work. Then again, by spending a little time each week at his books he is not apt to forget what he has learned this past year.

Daily classes are not required, but just a couple of hours twice weekly will suffice. This will not intrude too much on his holiday activities.

If your child has encountered difficulties this past year, plan now to give him this valuable help.

Garden Notes

Gift Spreads Joy

By M. V. CHESNUT

Several years ago, along about the middle of July, I received a most welcome gift from one of my regular readers in tthe form of a chocolate box filled to the brim with home-grown seeds of Brompton stocks in a particularly lovely scarlet shade. I didn't mention them in this column, for the quantity wasn't enough for one of my regular free seed offers, but I packaged them and slipped a packet in with each answer to readers' requests for garden advice.

The following spring I had over 50 grateful letters from tthe recipients of those seeds. Apparently these seeds germinate strongly with a minimum of fuss and bother, and the flowers were out of this world. A good example of the comments is contained in the following:

* * *

"Dear Ches: When you answered my inquiry about peonies last summer, you enclosed a packet of seeds labelled Brompton Stocks. I didn't know anything about this flower, but I sowed them anyhow and they came up and grew strongly. I was a bit disappointed when autumn came and still no flowers, but the plants continued green and upstanding all winter and they bloomed this spring. They made a wonderful splash of color, and I thought you would be interested to know that my spring-blooming Brompton stocks were quite a conversation piece in our neighborhood."

* * *

Brompton stocks are biennials, which means that they bloom and die in their second year. Seeds are sown in mid-summer, with the plants blooming the following May, after which they set seed and die. I wouldn't say thtey are quite as easy and reliable as my correspondent's letter would indicate, for a harsh winter can play merry hob with all biennials, even the tough Sweet William, but it is a good gamble and the seeds are inexpensive. One B.C. seedsman lists seeds in mixed colors for 25c per packet, while some English firms offer the seeds in separate colors; this is one flower that comes true from seed.

While there is always an element of chance in the growing of biennials from seeds, Brompton stocks are a good gamble. July and early August is a good time for a simple outdoor sowing for blooming next spring at a time when there isn't much color in the garden apart from the spring bulbs. The flowers have the typical spicy clove scent characteristic of the stock family.

Michaelmas daisies seem to have an unholy tendency to come down with severe attacks of mildew, which was particularly widespread last year. I did notice that clumps which had been thinned drastically didn't seem to suffer to the same extent as crowded clumps.

From this I suspect that air circulation around and through the plants plays a big part in governing the extent and severity of this infection. I saw some plants last year with their forest of stems bunched up like a sack of flour tied around the middle; these were so badly mildewed that most of the leaves were dead and the color of the flower could not be distinguished.

* * *

Unquestionably, the mildew fungus will be with us again, and it is a good idea to prepare for it. First, thin and space out the stems so air can circulate freely through them. Then make sure the plants don't lack moisture at the deep root level—a Root-Alder or a Ross Root Feeder is wonderful for injecting water deep into the soil below the plants. Finally, spray or dust weekly with an anti-mildew fungicide. Most sprays and dusts formulated for use on roses contain an ingredient for the control of mildew.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Norwegians Don't Forget

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—In London I learned why Elke Sommer was not in Heroes of Telemark, which was filmed entirely in Norway. Elke is German and feeling against the Germans is still very strong in Norway. They have not forgotten the occupation.

* * *

In Israel, where some people can forget and others cannot—and how can you forget when your loved ones were murdered?—a man everyone loves to remember is General Orde Wingate, the British officer who helped train the Israeli army. He was later killed in Burma. A British producer is planning a movie on Wingate and if and when it is made, the Wingate family will use the money to found scholarships for Israeli students to study in England.

* * *

"Two men tried to murder me last week," said playwright Franklin Lacey calmly, during my brief stopover in New York on the way back to Hollywood. Europe had been exciting, but this sounded too exciting. Lacey co-authored the book of The Music Man with Meredith Willson. He has just re-directed Bea Lillie in High Spirits for her current tour. He is a factual man, not given to flights of fancy.

* * *

"It was 1:30 at night," he continued. "I was at Broadway and 71st, looking for a Chinese restaurant. I could hear two men walking behind me. 'Let's ask him for a match,' I heard one of them say. There was no one else around. It sounded ominous.

"I walked faster, they walked faster. I started to run. They chased me. I saw a police car and shouted for help. I guess they didn't hear me. "I ran to Riverside Drive; why, I don't know. The men behind me kept running. Then one said, 'Go back to the car and get the gun.'

"Then I felt something hard thrown at my back. It threw me off balance and I fell. The man straddled me. I saw the knife in his hand. It was a few inches from my throat. With all my strength I raised my knee sharply.

SYDNEY HARRIS

This is the first column I am writing this summer from the peaceful seclusion of my little country place. It is only in such a rustic atmosphere that one can really meditate on the eternal problems of human life; that one can truly become detached from the frenzied, mechanical aspects of urban living.

* * *

This morning, for instance, I was up at the crack of dawn—in fact, I almost fell out of bed when the man from the nursery arrived to chop down some trees with a power saw. Ever heard a power saw under your window at 5:45 a.m., friends?

An hour later, having managed to muffle my eardrums with huge wads of cotton, I was again awakened from troubled dreams by the pounding of hammers in the kitchen—where two burly carpenters were installing new screens with the shrillest electric drills this side of insanity.

As the morning progressed, the nursery man left and the carpenters departed on their maniacal rounds—but we were shortly invaded by the garbage truck, the man who fills the bottled gas tank, a telephone linesman, and three dogs who had come over for a hootenanny with our Dalmatian.

* * *

After a lunch interrupted only by nine telephone calls—all for the children, of course—I decided it was time for me to go up and work in what I laughingly call my study: a fetid corner of the attic, which I share with two bats and a number of other fauna too repulsive to mention in a family journal.

But it was not to be. The washer had broken down, and something needed to be done to the pump. Also, two of the window shades refused to roll up, my oldest boy's basketball hoop was dangerously dangling from the back porch wall, and one of my daughters' bicycles had developed arthritis of the handlebars.

* * *

The bulk of the afternoon was spent in long, and largely futile, calls to the plumber, the garage man, the window shade store, and a couple of side trips to purchase washers and belts and shade rollers.

It is now 3:30 p.m., the only mail of the day leaves in exactly 15 minutes, and three columns should be going with it. But the harbormaster has just called to inform me that a storm is brewing and I'd better hustle over and put the tarpaulin on the boat.

In the meantime, one child has to be picked up at the riding stable, another has to be chauffered to a bowling date, a third has wandered somewhere into the woods, and the littlest refuses to take her nap. Her shouts of protest have at least paralyzed the bats into inaction.

* * *

As I was saying, it is only in such a rustic atmosphere that one can really meditate on the eternal problems of human life . . . and come to the profound philosophical realization that Thoreau did so well at Walden not because he was a thinker, but because he was a bachelor.

STAN DELAPLANE

Idles Day Away

These are the long, hot days of summer. The days of water and roses.

If you build your scatter on a hillside, the water from the sprinkler will run down to the bottom. Scarely dampening the roses en route.

This is true of water company's water — the water you pay for.

When heaven's free rain descends, it does not run to the bottom of the hill. It runs into the storage room. And mildew! Man, everything turns green.

* * *

Up with the ever-loving birds this morning — the birds outside were all a-twitter and gossiping. How can you sleep with a racket like that?

Anyway, the blooming birds were giving it what-fot. And one of the early rising moppets fell off a chair. Or a step ladder. Or a chandelier. I heard the — BUMP! But as long as they yell afterward, you know they aren't dead. So that's a comfort.

Between the birds and the BUMP! — what was the use? I got up and found myself with leisure time on my hands.

* * *

Leisure time is what is wearing us down. This up-and-at-it, daylight-saved hour is the killer. Immediately, you must think of something to do. You water the flowers. The water runs down to the bottom of the hill, the roses sit at the top, gasping like a desert prospector in a B-movie.

The things that happen in the morning should be avoided.

Nobody ever phoned me in the morning to tell me I had just won a 25-word-or-less contest paying riches beyond belief.

Morning calls are always bad news.

"This is the telephone company . . . ." Well, it seems I was out of town and the phone bill is overdue.

Public utility companies are very sharp about collections.

If my butcher is not paid, I get the idea when he slices the chops to match his thin smile.

But if the payment is not up within the hour to the electric company, a man comes around with big scissors and snips the wires.

"If you want to continue talking to your neighbors—without yelling out the window—get up the loot." That is the message from the phone company.

A bright and early call. If I had stayed in bed, this call would have been taken by someone else. Relayed to me in softer measures.

* * *

Once I put in a water softener. But I don't recall that it softened my life.

I think you were supposed to suds up faster in the shower.

Then I read that the worst thing you can do to yourself is put soap on your skin every day. Do it long enough and you come out looking like a boot sole. Soft water, hard you.

* * *

Having watered flowers—and still with leisure time—I went down to the village shop and found a gadget for polishing eyeglasses. (I am always looking for life's improvements.)

You put this stuff on your glasses and polish them with a soft cloth.

The softest cloth I could find was a flimsy thing in the guest bathroom. (How could I know we were having guests?)

Polish your glasses with this stuff, it's great. Polish them and get out of the house. By the time guests arrive, things will have cooled down. And you can see all day.

Asians Put Faith in Gold

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—"I would like to buy some gold."

"Yes, sir, how many kilograms do you wish?"

Go to almost any jeweller in Laos and he will hand you gold bullion across the counter as if you were purchasing potatoes in a grocery store.

The price, $1,227 a kilogram (2.2 pounds), is perhaps the lowest in Asia. This works out to about $45 a troy ounce, $10 above the official world price for gold.

* * *

In Vientiane, anyone who has the money can buy 50 or even 100 kilograms of bullion.

When sold in bullion form, one kilogram of gold brings only a $2 profit in Vientiane.

Smuggled to Thailand, the kilogram reaps a profit of $100. Taken to South Viet Nam, it will net $150-$300.

The import of gold in Laos has been free for 10 years.

The government levies a six-per-cent tax and does not care what happens thereafter.

The annual bulk of imported gold is estimated at 30 tons. It originates in Paris, London and Geneva.

The majority of it flows across the Mekong River into Thailand, where gold ornaments are in great demand, and to South Viet Nam where traditional distrust in paper money and real estate causes a demand for gold bullion as an investment of perennial value.

The importers are mostly Chinese.

* * *

South Viet Nam lets its nationals import legally half a kilogram of gold once a year from Laos. Professional racketeers round up a group of compatriots in Vientiane and pay them for trips to Saigon on condition they each carry a piece of gold. Even after plane fares are paid, there is a $100 profit a kilogram.

Foreigners also buy heavy gold bracelets and chains which they carry through customs as personal ornaments but with an eye on future resale.

Lincoln Big Attraction At Disney Anniversary

By BOB THOMAS

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—Walt Disney celebrated the 10th anniversary of Disneyland by giving his $52,000,000 pleasure park a new star: Abraham Lincoln.

The life-like Lincoln, an electronic marvel created by Disney's wizards, drew warm applause from anniversary audiences Sunday. It is a more advanced model than the one that has attracted 4,000,000 visitors at the New York world's fair.

This Lincoln stands, gestures with 48 movements and delivers (with the voice of actor Royal Dano) a compilation of the 16th U.S. president's utterances on liberty. The face and head, modeled after a life mask, combine 17 different movements.

At opening ceremonies Sunday, Disney explained that the attraction was created on a crash program occasioned by a studio visit of Robert Moses, president of the New York fair.

"I had Mr. Lincoln shake hands with Mr. Moses, who was greatly impressed," said the studio head. "We still had another four or five years to perfect a model, but Mr. Moses insisted he had to have it for the fair.

"Mr. Moses is a very persuasive man, so we dropped a few of the projects and went to work on Lincoln."

NEW DOOR OPENS

The result, said Disney: "A new door opened; a new way of entertainment appeared for us."

Already Disney was envisioning new uses of the system which has been dubbed "audio-animatronics." He spoke Sunday of using other models to portray Washington's ordeal at Valley Forge.

The cost of the Lincoln exhibit—$2,500,000. Disney said the theatre cost $1,500,000 and research for the animated Abe was reported at $1,000,000.

'WALT'S FOLLY'

Sunday's anniversary contrasted with Disneyland's opening exactly 10 years ago, when some termed the $17,000,000 investment in the midst of orange groves "Walt's folly."

Disney, who borrowed on his own life insurance to open the park, was to have the last laugh. Dasneyland grew to 48 from 22 large scale attractions, and attendance climbed to 6,000,000 yearly.

Playhouse Concerts Cease Temporarily

Noon concerts at McPherson Playhouse have been discontinued until mid-August.

Producer Ken Gravenor said poor turnout and lack of publicity by the Playhouse management has made the postponement necessary.

The shows will begin again Aug. 14 with the start of Show Parade activities at the Playhouse, and will continue in conjunction with Show Parade.

The shows will then be held Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

Sunday night concerts at the Empress Hotel will be continued.

More than 300 attended the concert in the hotel last Sunday, when George and Rosalie Esslhos performed.

Harriman Moscow Talks

Viet Nam Crisis Not on Agenda

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. presidential envoy W. Averell Harriman Monday held his third meeting with a Kremlin official since his arrival in Moscow last week on "vacation." But the talks apparently did not touch on the Viet Nam crisis.

The veteran American diplomatic troubleshooter conferred for 2½ hours with deputy premier K. N. Rudnev, the Soviet Union's scientific co-ordinator. An embassy spokesman said both agreed that the United States and Russia should step up scientific and technical exchanges.

THREE-HOUR TALK

Harriman discussed Viet Nam with Premier Alexei Kosygin last Thursday. A high U.S. embassy official disclosed that Kosygin lectured Harriman in "stern tones" during their three-hour secret talks in the Kremlin. Harriman has refused to comment on the report.

Informed sources said Harriman is expected to meet again with Kosygin before leaving Moscow — perhaps Wednesday. The mbassy refused to confirm or deny this.

VIET NAM CRISIS

Harriman has denied that he came to Moscow to "negotiate" with the Soviets on the Viet Nam crisis, insisting he is here on a private vacation.

Yesterday he minimized Moscow's influence with Hanoi, telling newsmen "Peking and Hanoi are involved, but I think Russia doesn't figure very much."

EXCHANGES

A U.S. embassy spokesman said Harriman "Described the meeting (with Rudnev) as interesting and said scientific and production problems of both countries were disucessed." He added that both men "agreed that exchanges in the technical and scientific fields are useful and should be expanded."

Diplomatic observers said the meeting was "encouraging" in view of the deterioration of Soviet-American relations over Viet Nam.

The embassy has wrapped most of Harriman's movements in Moscow in a cloak of secrecy. It would not even confirm to newsmen that Harriman was meeting Rudnev until after the talks in the Kremlin.

Nuclear Arms

U.K. Drafts Curb Plan

LONDON (UPI)—The United States has approved in principle a British draft plan for a treaty prohibiting the spread of nuclear weapons, official British sources said Monday.

The plan, to be presented to the Geneva Disarmament Conference, is also backed in principle by Canada and Italy, the other western powers participating in the Geneva talks. The conference is to resume July 27.

NATO allies also are being consulted and will review the plan in Paris next week.

The British plan provides for a short treaty among the major nuclear powers, prohibiting the spread of nuclear weapons and information by the nuclear nations and their acquisition by the non-nuclear countries throughout the world.

A nuclear non-dissemination agreement is rated by the United States and Britain as the most urgent measure to be negotiated at Geneva.

IRISH RESOLUTION

The draft embodies an Irish resolution, passed unanimously by the UN general assembly Dec. 4, 1963. It would preclude nuclear powers from transferring control of nuclear weapons to non-nuclear powers and non-nuclear powers from acquiring such control.

Russia has in the past expressed interest in such a treaty but has evaded firm commitment on the grounds the American-proposed Multilateral Nuclear Force and the British-backed Atlantic Nuclear Force would in effect pass on nuclear weapons to West Germany.

ASSUAGE FEARS

Britain may try to assuage Soviet fears by suggesting that a non-dissemination treaty be concluded now and any form of ANF or MLF be "fitted" later into the treaty.

With France and Communist China—the other nuclear powers—ostensibly unwilling to participate in the current talks, Britain holds that the non-dissemination treaty be negotiated without delay between the United States, Britain and Russia.

ACCEDE LATER

It should be open to Red China and France to accede to the treaty later.

Simultaneously all UN member nations would be asked to pledge themselves not to acquire nuclear weapons or knowledge in the same way they undertook not to test nuclear weapons.

This, British officials say, may encounter some opposition from nations such as West Germany.

Bonn Offers All Aid To Chileans

BONN (UPI) — President Heinrich Luebke pledged Monday night West Germany would do what it can to help Chilean President Eduardo Frei achieve his social and economic reforms.

Speaking at a state banquet at the Augustusburg Palace at nearby Bruehl, Luebke declared: "We are filled with an unwavering faith in the future of the Chilean nation. Because of this, Mr. President, you may be assured the German government will contribute according to its capacities toward the accomplishment of your great work."

The Chilean Christian Democratic leader began his state visit to West Germany by winning promises of increased German participation in the industrialization of his mineral-rich nation.

En route from Munich to his first meeting with Luebke, Frei announced Germany's Volkswagen corporation has agreed to build and operate an assembly plant in Chile.

A Volkswagen spokesman in Wolfsburg, company headquarters, confirmed the announcement. He said Volkswagen will assembly the 1200 model — the well-known "beetle" car—in Chile.

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

BITS AND PIECES—Warner Brothers seems determined to give us all the information. Latest brief from the studio says that Forrest Tucker has a custom-built electric golf cart to travel to the set of his F Troop series, complete with flower boxes. Well, gee . . . It also says Dick Kallman, of the new Hank series, "does not even own a sweat shirt, uses his torn T-shirts to polish his white Cadillac, and throws away his white tennis shoes when they get dirty" . . . who says public relations writing isn't creative? . . . Milton Berle will do one dramatic role in the new Mr. Roberts series . . . National Football League telecasts on Channel 12 will begin Sept. 19, when Chicago Bears play San Francisco 49ers, but there is still no word on when, if ever, Canadian league games will be televised.

"The picture flutters every time a mosquito flies over"

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

One of the less heavily plowed fields for brilliance is that of deceptive defensive play. Some defenders are suspected of lying awake nights thinking up new ways of baiting a trap for the declarer. To find out how immune you are to this kind of trickery, plant your thumbs over the East-West cards.

With travel distances no problem, European internationalists got far more practice against neighboring countries than is possible for North American teams. Thus, a few weeks ago, London saw a simultaneous clash between 10 top British squads and a corresponding number from France. This was one of the deals in which two countries fought their way to a draw.

It is not always profitable to try for ruffs when you have only one trump, so most Wests led from the long hearts rather than the singleton diamond. East took the ace and returned the nine, covered by declarer's ten and won by West's jack. On West's heart continuation, dummy ruffed with the spade eight, East overruffed with the king and returned a small diamond. How should declarer proceed from there?

Since East's overruff with the spade king apparently places West with the jack, most players would bang down the trump ace and queen—and the contract would evaporate.

As you can see by looking at the full deal, East's gambit of overruffing with the king when he could have overruffed with the jack was a brilliant deceptive play.

It offered East the only possible chance to win two trump tricks, for if East makes the normal play of overruffing with the jack, South will surely finesse against the king later.

THIS ABOVE ALL

It is seldom that an Exclusive Listing is obtained that offers a new home, extremely reasonable in price, easy terms, fitted with literally everything and in a prestige district. The present owner is transferred and regretfully has to leave OAK BAY for his new position. Some of these appointments are as follows and I regret that they are too numerous to mention here.

1. An expansive living room with roman tile corner fireplace, patio entrance from the dining area.
2. 3 large bedrooms with a coloured 2-pce bathroom off master bedroom
3. Spacious 4-pce bathroom and an abundance of cupboard space.
4. Entertainment-size recreation room with mahogany panelling
5. A bright and cheery in-law suite fitted with beautiful wall-to-wall carpeting and with its own 2-pce bathroom
6. Cathedral-style entrance
7. Spacious 2-car garage and workshop

Yard Address Handcuffs London

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP) — For most spies, murderers and society blackmailers in British fiction the traditional moment of truth comes as a casual invitation to "drop down to the Yard for a chat."

As every reader in the world is expected to know, invitations to New Scotland Yard are seldom issued lightly and don't require an RSVP. It's just the offhand British way of conveying to culprits the horrible fact that the game is up.

So often is Scotland Yard used as a fictional device, so often have shots of its Victorian brick facade been used to fill up time in bad British "B" movies, that it comes as something of a surprise to find that the famed headquarters of London's metropolitan police are not just a necessary invention on the part of feverish thriller writers.

NO MYTH

But Scotland Yard is no myth. The buildings are actually there, lying in the shadow of Big Ben's clock tower, overlooking the Thames and staffed by about 3,000 trusty men in blue. And the cable address of Scotland Yard really is: "Handcuffs, London."

The ugly, institutionalized interior of the Yard contains a crack modern crime-fighting organization that lives up to its reputation. Only the architecture is old-fashioned.

CRIMES ON RECORD

The headquarters have direct control over an 18,000-man force split into 23 divisions and 78 police stations and spread out across 750 square and frequently squalid miles of Metropolitan London. The Yard also acts as an operating nucleus for county-controlled police forces throughout England and Wales.

The efficient 1,400-detective criminal investigation department, the fraud squad, the spy-seeking special branch and the swift flying squad, with its 32 souped-up and subtly disguised vehicles, are all controlled from this nerve centre.

CRIME LAB

Down one green-walled corridor is the forensic science laboratory with its blood-stained specimens and down another is the criminal record office with complete details of all persons convicted of serious crime in Britain.

At the back, exuding whiffs of the past, are stables for the 20 chestnut horses of the mounted police. They are retained because of their invaluable help in crowd control.

In a neon - lit basement bunker, sealed off by a forbidding door labelled "Room 33," is the black museum with its grisly relics of old and famous British murder cases.

BLACK MUSEUM

The museum, never open to the British public and only rarely to foreign journalists, also contains a unique collection of burglary tools and examples of forgery that could easily give any would-be criminal some useful tips.

CURIOS ON DISPLAY

Among the forgeries is a perfect-looking $100 note ostensibly issued by the Imperial Bank of Canada, Toronto, and dated Jan. 2, 1917. And an example of tortuous effort for minimum returns is a three-shilling postal cheque laboriously altered to make it look like an eight-shilling postal cheque—a profit of roughly 75 cents.

POLICE CURIOS

Theoretically the museum, with its pageant of police curios dating back to 1829 when the Yard was founded by Sir Robert Peel and others, is used to instruct police officers in various aspects of crime.

But there is obviously a limit to what a young sleuth can learn from a rusty old acid bath or the agonized death mask of a long-dead homicidal maniac.

"I suppose the museum is just a collection of trophies," the chief curator confessed during a tour of the Yard. "The armed forces have their war museums. This museum is a record of our victories in the longest war of all—the war against crime."

MAP ROOM

Vivid evidence that the war still rages and that victories don't come easily is presented by the Yard's map room—a typographical maze of movable maps, folding maps and mural maps all ablaze with flags and strings in six colors.

One whole wall is covered by a 25-inches-to-the-mile map of Central London studded with more than 20,000 flags. This is the record of break-ins in the last six months alone.

HABITS REVEALED

Other "method" maps trace the paths of pickpockets and correlate safe crackings with particular types of explosives used. A larger map gives at a glance the grim picture of London's traffic fatalities over the last month.

On the basis of these maps detectives can tell, for instance, that a certain burglar likes to operate among railway lines, breaking into houses from the back and usually doing the jobs on Friday nights. Some Friday night on some railway line the cops will be waiting for him.

A staff of eight works full time keeping the maps up to date. There are always more flags going up than coming down. Despite its efforts, the Yard solves only about 25 per cent of all known crimes, with a higher average for such serious crimes as murders and a lower success rate for minor break-ins and thefts.

COMPUTERS

Chief reason for the failures, say police officials, is simply shortage of manpower. The Yard can and does match the sophisticated criminals gimmick for gimmick but even detection by computers is no replacement for the alertness and intuition of the bobby on the beat.

In the communications room, where a staff of 24 work round the clock answering emergency calls—3,000 calls a day—and directing a mobile fleet of 400 patrol cars and motorcycles, the pressure on the Yard is at its peak.

OLD DAYS

"In the old days we could spend some time on the phone consoling the old lady who thinks the Martians have landed in her petunia bed," said one communications officer.

"Today we simply haven't time. Someone is usually being murdered someplace else."

Work Through Board

'Teachers' Aid Handicapped

EDMONTON (CP) — Youngsters with emotional or physical handicaps in Edmonton's public schools can look for help to a special division of the school board.

The board's department of pupil personnel services has psychologists, social workers and welfare workers who swing into action to ensure that handicapped students overcome their problems as much as possible and obtain maximum benefit from their schoolwork.

400 CASES

The department has worked up to the point where it handles 400 cases a month—most of them spotted by teachers, health workers and others who come in close contact with the children.

In order to be able to tackle problems earlier in each case, the department has doubled its staff.

One youngster who was helped by the department stopped talking the day he entered Grade 1. A counsellor-psychologist visited the child about four months later at the request of his teacher.

Group therapy was applied and eventually the youngster overcame his fear, opened up and began talking in class.

Most cases aren't that dramatic, however, and that makes many of them tough to spot.

The department has eight "visiting teachers" — a term used when parents are visited at home to avoid an initial reaction of shock—who actually are psychologists, social workers and welfare workers.

Working from referrals by teachers and others, the visiting teachers first get in touch with the students themselves. Often they must then consult with parents, occasionally recommending such help as marriage counselling.

STUDENT SWITCHED

Sometimes the student is switched to another classroom. Special courses may be given to a group of students with similar problems.

Opportunity classes are held for mentally handicapped persons.

Therapy classes aid those with physical disabilities such as poor hearing or eyesight.

Counselling is provided for students in hospitals or detention homes.

Nasser Warming

American-Egyptian Relations Improve

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Relations between the United States and President Nasser of the United Arab Republic have warmed up considerably.

There is even some talk now of working out a new aid program to replace the expiring $450,000,000 program which has fed 29,000,000 Egyptians during the last three years.

BIG CONTRACT

This contrasts with the friction beginning last November when a Cairo mob burned the U.S. embassy's library and when Nasser told the United States it could jump in the sea with its aid program.

A short - lived congressional revolt early this year threatened to wipe out the tail end of the current program, which Nasser would like renewed. The U.S. would prefer in the future to assign aid a year at a time.

LESS ANTI-AMERICAN

In any event, U.S. officials are suggesting that Nasser appears to have taken a much less anti - American tone and point to these other signs.

Aid to the Congolese rebels has been halted. Some of the heat has gone from the dispute with Israel about sharing Jordan River water and that applies to other issues in the Arab block's deep hatred of Israel.

COMPENSATION

Some steps have been taken to compensate American businessmen for confiscated property and he has shown wariness about getting in any deeper with the Communist camp, whether pro-Moscow or pro-Peking.

In this regard, he has resisted the suggestions by China that tend to embarrass Moscow. The anti - American note in Cairo newspapers has been reduced.

An acid test is due next Friday, July 23, anniversary of the Egyptian revolution in 1952. In the past, Nasser has had some hard things to say on that day about the U.S., Western colonialism and other topics.

However, his chief reason for softening the line against the U.S. is his tremendous need, particularly in view of the rising population. He has also drawn heavily on Soviet help, with this assistance amounting to about one-third of all such given by Russia to other nations.

Hot Line Kills Climber

POINT ROBERTS, Wash. (AP)—An 11-year-old boy was electrocuted Sunday as his mother watched helplessly beneath the tree he had climbed to retrieve a lost ball.

The victim was James R. Munro, son of Mrs. J. Munro of North Vancouver B.C. His body was taken to the coroner's office in Richmond, B.C.

Whatcom County deputy sheriff William Franklin said the boy touched a 13,000-volt line which ran through the upper branches of the tree. Another deputy, Jeff Martin, climbed a nearby utility pole and disconnected the power.

When the electricity ceased to flow, said Franklin, the youngster's badly burned body tumbled to the ground.

Husband Mourned By Two Widows

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—The grief of Mrs. David McCormick of Tacoma was tempered with sympathy Monday for Mrs. David McCormick of Minot, N.D.

Both learned they were married to the same man when a traffic accident killed McCormick, 24, Friday near Miles City, Mont.

"I'll give her back all the things David took," said Anne McCormick of Tacoma, mother of the man's 20-months-old son, Paul.

OLD FASHIONED

"I may be old-fashioned but I think the bride should have the wedding presents."

The bride is Donna McCormick, 19, of Minot.

The two women learned for the first time that McCormick had two wives when police notified them of their husband's death. Anne telephoned Donna, who said she married David May 19.

He had left her a few days before the accident, she said, taking the presents.

Donna told Anne, the latter said, that she knew McCormick had been married previously, but she thought there had been a divorce.

"I felt sorry for the poor girl," said Anne. "She not only learned that he was dead but that she wasn't even legally married."

Donna said she will seek an annulment.

LEFT FIRST WIFE

Anne said she married David Jan. 5, 1963. He left her three months later to look for work.

David McCormick never had seen his son.

"We hardly got to know each other," said Tacoma's Mrs. McCormick.

Arguments Still Raging Over Capital Punishment

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (UPI) — Should society follow the ancient rule of "an eye for an eye" and take a life for a life?

The arguments for and against capital punishment are almost as numerous as its victims.

In the time of Henry VIII more than 50,000 people were put to death for crimes ranging from the theft of a loaf of bread to murder. Murder wasn't considered the worst crime then.

There were 200 offences punishable by death.

TRAITORS

Traitors in Britain were hanged, removed from the gallows while still alive, then disemboweled, decapitated and quartered.

The turning point came in the 18th Century with the rise of democratic political philosophy and its accompanying humaneness.

And the new light of political enlightenment began to glow on the criminal as well as the workhouses.

In the United States, New York abolished public hangings in 1835. England followed in 1868. New York invented the electric chair in 1888.

Through the years countries have leaned towards more and more humanity. Those who retained capital punishment used it sparingly. Forty countries abolished it.

There are two main arguments for and against capital punishment:

- ● Man's innate sense of justice requires that a murderer should lose his life.
- ● No man has the right to take a life which God alone can dispose of.

The federal government's current paper on capital punishment lists 153 arguments — 65 for, 87 against and one neutral.

RETENTIONISTS

Some argue capital punishment is the only deterrent: the only way to stop others from committing murder is to kill a man who does.

The retentionists also argue life imprisonment only exposes prison staff and fellow prisoners to dangerous murderers. There is also the risk, they say, of these murderers being out in the world again, through escape or parole.

This possibility was lessened in Canada last year following sharp criticism from British Columbia over the commutation of convicted sex slayer Kenneth Meeker of Mission, B.C.

Meeker sexually attacked and murdered 12-year-old Alice Mather in a gravel pit near Mission City, B.C., June 10, 1963. His death sentence was commuted to life seven days before he was to have been hanged.

PAROLE SYSTEM

Newspapers and irate citizens screamed that under the Canadian parole system, he would be eligible to go free in 10 years. Two psychiatrists declared Meeker would likely repeat his offence if freed.

Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson announced—on the day Meeker was to have been hanged—that from then on the cabinet would take the responsibility of deciding on the release from prison of those murderers who had been spared from execution by commutation.

The implication was that persons like Meeker would remain in jail for life.

The practically-minded retentionist also argues that "lifers" are an economic burden. It costs the taxpayer, currently, $2,700 a year to keep a man in prison.

He works some off by manufacturing some products, or through prison maintenance. But no one has yet figured out how much that $2,700 figure is trimmed by prison labor.

Opponents of capital punishment say there is no proof it is a deterrent.

COMPARISONS

They will give comparisons of states with it and those without it. They point out that homicide rates are the same in each.

The Canadian Corrections Association claims the drop in recent years in Canada of executions "has actually been paralleled by a dramatic decline in the murder rate." Repeal of the death penalty for rape in Canada in 1955 was not followed by any marked increase in this type of crime.

The abolitionists note innocent people can—and have—been hanged. The million-member Canadian labor congress recently raised this argument in its stand against capital punishment.

A British Royal Commission was told in 1864 that 22 persons convicted of capital crimes between 1802 and 1840 were later found innocent. Seven of them had been executed.

Canada's biggest storm of doubt still blows about the 1956 execution of Wilbert Coffin, a 43-year-old prospector, for the murder of three Pennsylvania hunters in 1953.

Coffin died proclaiming his innocence, and Montreal writer Jacques Hebert wrote a book condemning the trial he received. A provincial Royal Commission disagreed with Hebert but doubt still seems to linger.

94 Top Age

Oldsters Bit Younger

By GORDON DODD

If James K. Nesbitt only knew what he started.

Who is the oldest living native of Greater Victoria?, the well-known Victoria historian and writer wondered aloud in these columns recently.

With the death of Miss Evaline Pemberton at the age of 98, he suggested that it could be Arthur Douglas Crease, QC, 93, who would adopt the mantle.

Claims Galore

That's when claims of greater longevity began to fly. Two 95's and a 94, to be exact.

"Check them out", ordered the boss.

"Simple enough", thought the super sleuth of a newshound. After all, his sources were good—relatives of the senior citizens.

The illusion was soon shattered.

Not 95

The 95 born Oct. 3 insisted she was only 94.

So it was off to Suite 4, Abbey Apartments, 1702 Quadra, home of Mrs. Mary Neal. She's 96 Oct. 24, was the information.

Mrs. Neal, still the possessor of an agile mind, wasn't so certain. Her birth certificate had been destroyed in a fire, she explained. She did not know whether she would be 95 or 96 in October, and seemed to modestly favor 95.

Apologetic

Mrs. Neal smiled apologetically over not being able to help the reporter in his quest and, prompted by daughter Dorothy with whom she lives, began to talk easily about her life.

Her father was Caleb Pike, a farmer and one of the first English immigrants to reach the area. Her mother was also from England and for many years the family was settled at what is still known today as Pike Lake.

Mrs. Neal would probably have never met her husband if the Umatilla had not gone down near Esquimalt naval dockyard. He was a diver who was sent by his firm from San Francisco to assist in salvage operations of the passenger vessel . . . and liked Victoria so much that he stayed. Even so, it was several years before the two met.

Truth Found

As Mrs. Neal spun her interesting tale, daughter Dorothy, one of six children surviving, had gone off to rummage in the family papers.

When she returned, the truth was out.

Mrs. Neal, as she discovered only then, is but a young 93.

Which left Mrs. Duncan Robertson, who WILL be 95 in October. She is a daughter of the late Col. Richard Wolfenden, who landed at New Westminster in 1858 aboard the Quebec City.

Ventures Out

Mrs. Robertson now lives at Rose Manor and is still able to venture out periodically to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Love.

She first married Charles Innes who was in real estate. All four daughters of that marriage are still alive, although Mrs. Love is the only one remaining in Victoria.

Mr. Robertson, the second husband, was a veteran, who died 10 years ago.

Most of Life

Also currently 94 is Mrs. Elizabeth Turnbull. Though born in Victoria and a resident here most of her life, she has lived for the past year with daughter Agnes in Port Angeles because of her health.

Son Lovell, of Saanich, is a former Colonist printer. Another daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Fisher, lives in England.

But we are still not certain whether the issue is closed.

Move Capital To Mountains

PARIS (Reuters)—A pressure group has been set up here to try to persuade the French government to set up a new political and administrative capital away from Paris. The group says Paris is being strangled by its rapid increase in population and is too vulnerable to nuclear attack. They suggest a site in a mountainous region in the centre of the country.

Was Downed Island Plane Far Off Course?

By BILL STAVDAL

Victoria pilot Ervyn Duke, 23, was apparently lost Saturday when he and three companions survived a plane crash on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

On Monday, 15 hours after the four were rescued, the husky boom-man and student commercial pilot said he was about 15 miles northwest of Cowichan Lake when he crashed in fog into tall timber.

* * *

But the RCAF's Rescue Co-Ordination Centre in Vancouver places the crash 20 miles to the southwest, about 10 miles east of Bamfield.

Only one of the four is still in hospital. Arnold Anderson, 22, of 943 Lodge, sustained a broken left wrist and a burned shoulder when the four-seat Tri-Pacer caught fire as it crashed through trees to a mountain slope.

* * *

Mr. Anderson is in satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Passenger Victor Hohlachoff, 25, of 760 Roderick, who walked out and summoned help, was unhurt.

Roy Paul, 41, of 1285 Dunsterville, sustained facial cuts and bruises.

Hohlachoff

Pilot Duke, of 151 Cadillac, received only a slightly cut finger, a wrenched left knee and bruised ribs.

* * *

What began as a combined pleasure jaunt and training flight for Mr. Duke ended in a flaming crash shortly after 10 a.m. Saturday on the watershed of the Klanawa River east of Bamfield on the West Coast.

Mr. Duke, a boom-man at B.C. Forest Products Plumper Bay operation, intended to fly to Tofino by way of Shawnigan Lake, Lake Cowichan and Port Alberni. He was going to carry on to Comox, then head south down the east coast back to Patricia Bay.

Duke

* * *

Victor Hohlachoff, an expert outdoorsman, was looking for game while Mr. Duke was practising his mountain flying.

"We just got closed in with the weather," Mr. Duke told the Colonist at home Monday.

He said he was flying up a valley northwest of Cowichan Lake when he found the path ahead closed by lowering cloud. He was boxed in.

He made a series of turns, then plunged into the fog and immediately began climbing to get clear.

* * *

"The fog was so thick it looked like snow," he said.

Suddenly tree tops loomed ahead.

"I didn't think I was going to die. I was trying to think my way out, but there wasn't any.

"There was only one thing to do. I dumped air speed and pulled the nose up."

Papandreou to Fight

ATHENS (Reuters) — Ousted Greek prime minister George Papandreou Monday declared "a new unrelenting struggle" in his clash with young King Constantine as he addressed an estimated 400,000 demonstrators, unprecedented in Greek history.

"The question now is who rules the country, the king or the people," 77 - year - old Papandreou said after making a triumphal entry into Athens in a flower-bedecked car from his country home.

VOTE URGED

The crowd called for a referendum for or against the monarchy.

"We have declared a new unrelenting struggle," the veteran statesman said. "We are sure we will win. Democracy will win again. Down with the government of traitors."

KING REFUSED

Papandreou was forced out of office last week when the 25-year-old king refused to sanction a purge of right - wing army officers and the proposed dismissal of Papandreou's defence minister Petros Garoufalias.

Despite the [illegible] the crowd which gathere[illegible] [illegible]5 - degree heat, there were no clashes or incidents. Police were scarcely to be seen.

Pitched from Car

Nightmare Brings Death to Skydiver

OLYMPIA, Wash. (CP)—A British Columbia skydiver who was having a nightmare opened the door of a moving car and was thrown to his death Monday.

William Virtel, 26, of Vancouver, died in a hospital in this state capital.

Elaine Trood, 31, of Vancouver, driver of the car, told police that she and Virtel were returning from a parachute jump rally south of here.

She said Virtel, asleep in the front seat, had a nightmare and somehow opened the car door. He awoke just at that moment and grabbed the steering wheel in an apparent effort to save himself from falling out of the car, she said.

The car veered off the highway and plunged over an embankment, pitching Virtel out of the door.

Miss Trood was in fair condition in hospital with a back injury.

Romania Takes Rift-Healer Role

BUCHAREST (AP)—Romanian Communist party chief Nicolae Ceausescu called on the Soviet and Chinese Communist parties Monday to make a "sincere and comradely" new effort to settle their long-seething conflict.

The unity of the world's Communist parties is in the vital interest of the Communist system and world peace and must prevail over all disagreements, Ceausescu told 2,000 cheering delegates at the ninth congress of the Romanian Communist party.

Communist unity can only be achieved, he declared, if every party respects the independence and equal rights of the other.

INDEPENDENT COURSE

Premiers Facing Federal Hard Line

BOTH SIDES DIG IN

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—This federal-provincial conference is shaping up like a battle royal which could answer the classic question of what happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable object.

Right from the opening bell Monday several provinces pounded the federal government with tough demands and hard-line statements.

If they keep punching the rest of the week—and there's every indication they will—something has to give.

BACKED DOWN

At the last two such conferences it has been the federal government that has backed down, largely when confronted by vociferous demands from Quebec.

This time, rumor has it, Prime Minister Pearson has been urged by his key officials to stand firm, and not give way to provincial demands.

British Columbia, Quebec and to a slightly lesser extent Ontario distributed tough-talking statements Monday before the conference opened in the west block of the Parliament buildings.

'SHORTSIGHTED'

B.C. Premier Bennett accused the federal government of having a transportation program that is "shortsighted" and leaves "much to be desired."

He added that the federal government has been "most unfair" by ignoring his province's requests for aid for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Convicts Burn Prison

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI) — Rioting prisoners set fire to the maximum-security Mount Eden Prison here early today during a breakout attempt. Authorities said the prison was virtually destroyed.

Police said more than 200 soldiers cordoned off the prison.

The wardens released other prisoners into a courtyard to save them from the fire.

Job Ads Anger Carriers

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto postmen are angry and it isn't only because they think they aren't getting enough money.

Monday, some letter carriers found they were distributing slips advertising for persons to fill positions in the postal department and the Civil Service Commission.

The action infuriated some postmen, who said they would destroy the slips rather than distribute them any more.

An official of the Toronto office of the Civil Service Commission said it is just a coincidence that slips are beng distributed at a time when the Toronto carriers were talking of strike action.

Refuse Clothing

Two Naked Women Held for Arson

KELOWNA (CP) — Two Sons of Freedom Doukhobor women, found naked at the scene of a fire Sunday, refused to put clothes on for a court appearance on arson charges Monday.

RCMP said they had to cover Mary Malakoff and Mary Astaforoff with blankets when they were taken into court.

* * *

The pair refused to enter a plea to charges of setting fire to buildings on the property of Wasyl Konkewicz. They were remanded in custody for a week.

"They're in the cells, still naked," an RCMP officer said. "We made clothes available for them, but they won't put them on."

One of them refused to walk into the courtroom and had to be carried in by three RCMP constables.

* * *

Police said the women had stripped and burned their own clothes when they were arrested on the Konkewicz property Sunday.

He said fires set when the owner was at church destroyed five sheds. There was heavy smoke damage to the house.

Old-Time Foes Wave Warmly

OTTAWA (CP)—For that great-to-see-you atmosphere, the Monday opening of the federal-provincial conference could only be surpassed by the arrival of an immigrant train.

"Duff!" exclaimed Premier Robarts of Ontario when he spotted Premier Roblin of Manitoba. "Mike!" shouted Premier Lesage of Quebec, at the sight of Prime Minister Pearson, a huge red flower adorning his buttonhole.

* * *

Around the big round conference table they mingled like long-lost friends. Mr. Lesage, who said several months ago he wouldn't talk again with Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland, was standing beside the bow-tied "Joey" in gleeful conversation. Premier Manning of Alberta, whose comments on Finance Minister Gordon were never regarded as complimentary, was waving warmly across the table in the direction of Mr. Gordon.

France Accuses U.S. Of Aerial Espionage

PARIS (AP)—France has accused the United States of aerial espionage at its super-secret nuclear complex, where enriched uranium for the French hydrogen bomb is produced.

The incident aggravated French - American relations, coming at a time when Paris and Washington are poles apart on the Viet Nam and Dominican Republic crises.

FOUR PASSES

French officials charged Monday that a U.S. Air Force RF-101 reconnaissance plane made four passes over the nuclear complex at Pierrelatte in southeastern France Friday and took 175 photos despite interception by a French fighter plane. A formal protest was lodged with the U.S. embassy here by the foreign ministry.

NO COMMENT

American officials in France and in West Germany, where the photographic reconnaissance plane is based, declined all comment after details of the incident were reported by a French defence ministry communique. State department officials in Washington said only: "The investigation is continuing."

Some hours later, the defence department in Washington issued a brief statement saying "there was no intent to overfly any prohibited area in France." It added, "we are continuing to investigate the matter."

Earlier, American officials said that on the basis of first reports, the plane had been on a routine training mission. They said a thnderstorm caused the plane to go off course, but expressed belief it had not flown over the Pierrelatte complex.

Medicare Offer Wins Support

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson proposed Monday that Canada build up a nationwide medical care system through a series of provincial plans backed by federal money.

He said he was "very encouraged" by provincial reaction to the idea.

His offer of federal financial help for any provincially-operated medical plan which meets four basic criteria appeared to catch premiers at the federal-provincial conference by surprise.

* * *

After an hour's detailed questioning, however, they were described as "interested and intrigued" by the plan.

The prime minister, for his part, was reported hopeful that he can win approval in principle for his proposal when the discussion resumes today.

He told the conference he would hope the plan might be in operation by Canada's 100th birthday July 1, 1967.

The prime minister made his medical proposal to the first top-level federal-provincial conference of the year.

* * *

The conference discussed the prime minister's statement in a 60 - minute question - and - answer session in which all 10 premiers took turns querying Mr. Pearson on various aspects of his proposal.

Among the question left unanswered is the size of federal contribution to a provincially-operated health insurance plan which meets Ottawa's broad criteria for universality, com-

This Boozer Should Be Flushed

WIGAN, England (Reuters)—A secret drinker on the outskirts of this northern England industrial town has blocked the local council's new sewage pumping station.

A flood of pocket-sized bottles of Scotch whiskey has several times brought pumping to a standstill, and engineers have had to dismantle equipment to remove them.

Council surveyor James Holding said the tiny bottles had been flushed down a toilet, presumably after private drinking sessions in the bathroom.

Government Ready On Medicare Plan

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is ready to move immediately on medicare.

Officials say that if the provinces react quickly to Prime Minister Pearson's proposals, the majority of Canadians could be covered within a year.

Before the prime minister went into the federal-provincial conference Monday with the federal proposals, officials of all 11 governments had made a technical study of medicare and informants said the results were encouraging. Ottawa officials are highly confident of success.

STANDARDS

The role of the federal government in a medical care program is simply to make necessary revenues available to the province and to see that acceptable standards are met by all provincial governments. All provinces will be free to raise their plans above those standards, although they won't be compensated by the federal government beyond the predetermined revenue rebates that will precede establishment of the plans.

In laying out four preconditions for medicare, the informants said the federal government is being "pretty firm" on them.

UNIFORM TERMS

First, the benefits must apply to the services of both physicians and specialists; second, the plans must cover all residents of a province on uniform terms and conditions; third, the plan must be publicly administered either by a provincial government or its agency; and fourth, the coverage must be mobile among provinces.

Federal insistance on publicly administered plans means that of the provincial schemes now operating only Saskatchewan's qualifies. The Ontario and Alberta governments have devised plans operating through private companies while B. C. has set up a non-profit medical insurance society.

"If public funds are to be used," said an official, "it is only reasonable that there be public administration."

TACKLED LATER

The question of how Canadians would pay for medical care has not yet been established. This would be tackled later.

While the necessary revenues would be provided through new fiscal arrangements, the outflow would have to be met by increased government income. Among systems being talked about by federal officials are premiums and income-tax rebates that would result in the well-to-do paying more than the poor.

This method of using income taxes to relate contributions to earnings was mentioned by Mr. Pearson in 1961 when he advocated a form of national medical scheme. The federal-provincial tax structure committee would have a good deal to say about the financial aspect.

Forest Fire Cuts Power

QUESNEL (CP) — A forest fire ate through a high-voltage transmission line Sunday night, cutting normal electrical power to the entire Cariboo district for about 15 hours.

Normal service was restored about noon Monday.

The entire area from 100 Mile House to Quesnel was without power for two hours, when emergency service was started.

Medicare Reaction 'Good'

prehensiveness and transferability.

The reaction of most provinces was one of guarded approval.

All four Atlantic premiers, for example, said they probably would take part in any such program provided federal financial contributions are sufficient.

Premier Lesage of Quebec said the four main criteria laid down by Mr. Pearson were no obstacle to his province.

Mr. Lesage indicated his government is ready to participate in the Pearson plan, provided Ottawa will advance its money through a taxabatement and not through the type of cost-sharing program from which Quebec has chosen to stay out.

Premier Robarts of Ontario, whose government is ready to launch a medical plan which falls short of Ottawa's criteria, indicated he might be ready to compromise on his legislation provided the federal financial aid made it worthwhile.

For Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan, the prime minister's offer amounted to a gift horse. Heading the only province which now has a medical care plan meeting Mr. Pearson's criteria, Mr. Thatcher has only to count up the amount of federal aid he'll receive. His first estimate: $12,000,000 a year.

BASE ON NEED

Premiers Bennett of British Columbia and Manning of Alberta indicated concern that the federal plan is not voluntary, while Manitoba's Roblin said he would like a program based purely on need.

Mr. Pearson said the federal government would be ready to establish and operate its own medical care plan if the question did not fall within provincial jurisdiction. But even while the constitutional responsibility was provincial, Ottawa had a national role in seeing that public medical services are available to all.

SILENT ON AID

But nowhere in the opening speech on the federal side was there mention of a subject raised most frequently by premiers in advance of the meeting—increased federal aid to universities.

Subject to parliamentary approval, the federal government would support provincial medical plans "by means of a fiscal contribution of pre-determined size, Mr. Pearson said.

The criteria on which it will subsidize provincial plans are:

- ● That the scope of benefits should cover broadly all services provided by physicians, both general practitioners and specialists.
- ● That the plan should be universal, covering all residents of a province on uniform terms and conditions.
- ● That the plan be publicly administered either directly by a provincial government or through a provincial government agency.
- ● That each plan provide for full transferability of benefits when people move from one province to another.

HOPE FOR AGREEMENT

Mr. Pearson said he hoped the conference would agree first on these four principles, then establish a committee of health ministers to write out the conditions in precise terms.

Then the federal government would offer technical help in co-ordinating standards and operation of medical services, and consider what tax adjustments should be made to cover the federal contribution.

"When medicare begins, Canadians will be relieved of costs which they are now paying either directly to their doctors or through various prepayment plans," he said.

"Instead they will have to pay more in public revenues, to meet these existing costs and those of the improvements in service which are brought about. The federal and provincial governments together will have to raise the revenue needed for medicare, or else reduce other expenditures.

"No one, I am sure, would assume that these costs could be added to budget deficits, which must be determined according to economic circumstances and a responsible fiscal policy."

Dancers Delayed

Visiting Children Delight Islanders

By JEAN BAIN

SHAWIGAN LAKE — A mix-up in transportation took some of the local color out of Welcome Day ceremonies at Children's International Summer Village here Sunday.

Indian dancers were to perform for children and visitors at 3 p.m. They did not arrive until after 5 p.m., and most of the visitors had gone.

REEVE ON HAND

Among visitors welcoming the children were Reeve and Mrs. Don Morton of North Cowichan.

The children were presented with T-shirts bearing the emblem CISV, and "1965-V.I., Canada".

Boys promptly stripped to the waist and pulled on the shirts.

One little girl from Guatamala combined enthusiasm with a gymnastic feat as she got the T-shirt half on, then slipped off her sweater underneath, then finished pulling on the T-shirt.

The youngsters roared through a number of games, including leap frog, drop-the-handkerchief, and relays.

Visitors were delighted by the children, as the youngsters from many lands tried desperately to understand the instructions of the games.

After games, they went swimming in Shawnigan Lake.

Following a salmon barbeque, the children watched four Indian dancers, two from Cowichan, two from Saanich.

Foresters' Camp Ends Schedule

DUNCAN — To round out a busy winter schedule, the local Independent Order of Foresters recently held two camp-outs.

The first was held June 30 to July 4 at Fairbridge Farm School with over 100 campers attending.

With temperatures rising to 80 degrees during the four days, water activities were prominent, including kayak races for young and old with heavy fellows sinking the kayaks before they could even begin.

This weekend, all the Island Foresters met at Mountain View Resort at Shawnigan Lake for a three-day camp-out.

Foresters attending included Court Arrowsmith (Port Alberni), Court Nanaimo, Court Tzouhalem (Duncan), Court Victoria, and a few from Vancouver, Manitoba and California courts who were holidaying on the Island.

Musical Mayers

Ensemble with Moo

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—Music, animals and the peaceful pastoral setting of their country home is the joy of the six children of Mr. and Mrs. George Mayer on North Road near Duncan.

Ranging in age from 11 to 15 years, including two sets of twins, they are determined to win again the many trophies awarded to them last year for outstanding 4-H activities.

Longest list of prizes is held by 15-year-old piano-playing Margaret, who is a member of Cowichan 4-H Jersey club.

* * *

She took last year: Cowichan Calf Trophy for best calf, Gulmarg trophy for highest points in 4-H at the Cowichan Fall fair, B.C. Hydro trophy for highest points in the Cowichan Valley; Scott and Peden trophy for highest points in club; Walker Showmanship trophy.

Second best in the Mayer family is Alison, 14, who like her older sister belongs to the Jersey Club and the Basting Belles. She is the family's violinist.

For highest achievement last year in the Basting Belles she won the Archie Stevenson trophy; represented with another local 4-H girl the Cowichan district at the PNE at Vancouver; and took a ribbon for best demonstration recently here.

* * *

Together with Margaret and her twin sister Sylvia she won an award at this year's Cowichan Music Festival in square dancing. Sylvia last year won the distinction to be chosen as Miss Basting Belle and at a recent 4-H field day she earned the third highest aggregate in the intermediate class.

Guitar-strumming Richard, 13, who at the end of the school year last June won the citizenship award of the Tansor Elementary School, also made a name for himself as the only boy member in the Basting Belles, and he outdid the girls by winning the highest award for his project: sewing.

* * *

He also is a member of the Cowichan 4-H Lamb Club. Proud owners of lambs are youngest twins, Eric and Eileen, 11, who follow their sisters' footsteps in the Cowichan 4-H Lamb Club.

Eric is learning to play the recorder and guitar and his twin sister also belongs to the Basting Belles and both attend Tansor Elementary School.

All of the Mayer children were born and raised in the Cowichan Valley and sometimes at night their animals may hear their young masters strum, fiddle and blow a happy melody together with their father who plays the harmonica.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Trustee Claims Plans Correct

NANAIMO — Denial was made Saturday by trustee Waldie Manion that Nanaimo school board had underestimated school needs in the Departure Bay area.

He was answering charges made during the week by a Pacific Lands Ltd. spokesman that the board had refused to go to arbitration and had not made provision for student increase in Departure Bay.

Mr. Manion said negotiations for the land had started as far back as 1962, when the board was told former owners of the land, CIL, would not subdivide. Since then the property has been sold, and the school board found the new owners wanted $60,000 for 7.3 acres.

"The department of education only allows us to place bylaws three years in advance of needs.

"All we want is parity with other provinces but we are still negotiating, Mr. Manion added.

In seven other Canadian provinces subdividers are forced to set aside percentages of their land for public use.

The Nanaimo board has submitted a brief to the provincial government asking for similar legislation in B.C.

Woman, Goat Rescued From Old Well Shaft

By KLAUS MUENTER

COWICHAN STATION—After 20 anxious minutes Saturday afternoon in an old, unused well, Mrs. Mercedes Gibson, 67, and her favorite milking goat Betsy were saved from drowning by George Plumb, 47, who lowered himself on a rope to the helpless woman.

The drama started after Mrs. Gibson heard a bleating from the old well.

She saw the other goats standing near the well and "I knew what had happened!"

She ran to the well and tried to rescue Betsy, who had broken through rotten timber which covered the well and fallen 15 feet into the 80-foot well, which was filled with about 65 feet of water.

PHONED FOR HELP

Not waiting for neighbors, Mrs. Gibson put a ladder against the side of the well, but as soon as she stepped on it the ladder slipped and disappeared in the water and the elderly woman plunged in.

She grabbed hold of a pipe with one hand and held the goat with the other. She said her husband has a heart condition and was unable to help.

NEIGHBORS ARRIVE

Finally Mr. Plumb and neighbors arrived at the scene. Mrs. Gibson said, "If it had not been for Mr. Plumb I would have drowned because I could not hold on any longer. My arm became weak, I felt dizzy and my sight was blurred because of pain."

SHE HESITATED

Mr. Plumb said, "I had my leg around a pipe and told Mrs. Gibson to step on it, but she hesitated at first, fearing I might go under. Finally she did as I told her, stepped on my upper leg, on my shoulder and on my arm, and then she was pulled from the top by North Cowichan fireman Ray Bujold and RCMP Constable Tom Earl."

Mr. Plumb said, "When we carried her across the meadow she insisted on walking, and told us to get the goat." Mrs. Gibson said, "I love my goats!"

Curious Flock to Sea To See Whale in Tow

COURTENAY—Namu caused a sensation passing down the coast of eastern Vancouver Island Saturday to Monday.

Sightseeing boats rushed out from Courtenay and Comox to catch a glimpse of the killer whale in its floating cage, as it passed Point Holmes near the RCAF station.

* * *

A man with a loudspeaker on board the towing vessel warned boaters to keep clear of Namu, to keep from "scaring" the beast.

One of the two tugs apparently developed engine trouble, and had to send tugmen to Comox Marina for parts.

The tugs and Namu put in at Deep Bay, a sheltered inlet 10 miles south of Comox, to wait for better weather, Monday.

* * *

The expedition also required repairs to Namu's corral during a stop near Comox over the weekend.

Tons of kelp were caught in the corral.

Gary Keffler, a world champion sports diver from Seattle, was flown to Comox to help remove the kelp.

Duncan Trustees Accept Low Bench, Somenos Bids

DUNCAN—School board here has found one firm seems to hit the low bid on school tenders.

At last night's board meeting the board accepted two tenders for separate projects from Burek Construction, and is considering awarding the Duncan firm a third contract.

TWO ADDITIONS

Bids accepted were for one-classroom additions to Bench School, $14,840, and to Somenos School, $19,384. Both are subject to approval by the education department.

The building committee recommended the board accept Burak's $22,224 bid for an addition to Quamichan Secondary.

The other bidder was J. L. Peterson of Lake Cowichan, $23,800. The board is still considering these bids.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

Tenders for petroleum for several schools were let by the board: Gasoline, 31.08 cents a gallon, Standard Oil; furnace oil, 14.64 cents, Imperial Oil; stove oil, 17.84 cents, Imperial Oil; bunker fuel, 12.0 cents, Standard Oil.

The board also had first look at a sketch plan of a proposed quarter mile track to be laid out at Quamican Junior High School.

Baby Found Dead On Camping Trip

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — Three-month-old Arlene Waters, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Waters, of 1062 Queens Avenue, Victoria, died suddenly Saturday while on a camping trip at Shawnigan Lake.

The infant was found dead in her bed. Police said a coroner's inquiry has been ordered by Duncan physician Dr. R. R. Wilson.

An autopsy has been performed and police are awaiting the coroner's verdict.

Besides her parents she is survived by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril E. Waters and Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Ramsfield, all of Victoria.

Private services will take place from Royal Oak Chapel, Victoria, Tuesday at 10:00 followed by interment at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Fire Guts Power Boat

COURTENAY — An $18,000 26-foot cabin cruiser, the Blackhawk, owned by William Husdon, Forbes Landing, caught fire late Sunday evening and burned to the water line, before sinking in about 200 feet of water, midway between Denman Island and Buckley Bay ferry slips.

The owner was aboard the boat at the time, and jumped overboard when the fire broke out. He was not hurt and was picked up later by a Mr. Hill of Denman Island, who was out fishing.

Chief Scorns Captors

'Namu Will Pine and Die'

By JIM BRAHAN

Namu the killer whale will not live long in captivity, according to Chief Edwin Underwood of East Sanich band.

"I don't think he will last very long, because his spirit will be with his family, and he will just pine away and die of loneliness," Chief Underwood said.

Killer whale is a white man's name fr the mammal Indians call Black Fish.

"White men seem to think the black fish is a menace and is out to kill anything, but this is not so," said Chief Underwood.

He said the whales only kill for food, and are actually mild creatures unless in their mating season, or if they feel their young are in danger. Then they can be extremely dangerous.

The black fish is a highly respected creature in Indian tribal folklore, and is greatly featured in their tribal legends, dancing and art.

Chief Underwood pointed out the skill and degree of cleverness the black fish employ when they are hunting.

'When a school enters a bay the old-timers will stay near the entrance of the bay, and it is the young speedier whales which cruise the coves and inlets to chase the seal and salmon out to where the big fellows can make the kill," he said.

The family of a wounded or injured black fish will not leave until certain it is dead, according to the Saanich Chief.

"I do not think it is right that these people should be bothering the black fish, they are meant to live to have the freedom of the oceans—not to be kept in a cage," he said.

Male Cougar Killed At Westholme

WESTHOLME — A 135-pound male cougar was shot in this farming community by local hunter Frank Holman who was called to the farm of Mrs. H. M. Goodwin on Mount Sicker Road, Sunday.

Mrs. Goodwin said her family was sitting down for supper when members spotted the cat roaming through a herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle belonging to George Compton of Westholme.

Shortly after Mr. Holman arrived with two dogs the cat was treed and killed with two shots.

For Mr. Holman it was his 78th cougar, but his father, Albert, during his lifetime shot 300 cats. Frank Holman said the cougar was starving, and there was only some grass in its stomach.

Vancouver Man Dies in U.S

OLYMPIA (AP) — Richard French, 62, of North Vancouver, B.C., died in a Tacoma hospital Monday of injuries he received in an automobile accident 10 miles south of Olympia June 26.

The state patrol said his wife, Joan, 45, was killed instantly when their car ran off the road and was pierced by a guard rail.

B.C. Chain Buys Duncan Newspaper

An Island weekly newspaper has been sold to a chain of B.C. publications which also owns Prince George Citizen and Cariboo Observer.

Cowichan Leader at Duncan was sold by J. F. Magor to Northwest Publications, a newly formed company headed by W. B. Milner of Vancouver.

PRINCE RUPERT

Mr. Magor, and minority shareholder L. C. Way, also sold the Prince Rupert Daily News to Northwest Publications in the two-paper sale announced Monday.

The Cariboo Observer was recently purchased from Lew Griffith of Quesnel.

BEST INTERESTS

Mr. Magor said "I am confident it is in the best interests of both papers to become members of the strong B.C. group being established by Mr. Milner.

He added, "It has been gratifying to note the growth of these papers during my association with them, and I look forward to continuing with them as a director."

NO STAFF CHANGES

Mr. Milner said earlier no major staff changes are planned at the papers but indicated both papers will "probably" switch to the offset printing process "in due course."

Both the Prince George and Quesnel papers are already offset printed while the other two are printed by the conventional hot metal process.

No details of selling prices were disclosed.

Six-Hour Sitdown

Pickets Plug Comox Gate

COMOX — Project '67 peace workers closed down the main entrance to Comox RCAF base for a six-hour period Sunday, during a weekend of demonstrating at the base gate.

Four marchers picketed the main gate from 10 a.m. Saturday to 1 p.m. Sunday.

At 1 p.m. the four were joined by about 45 others who sat down before the gate made speeches and sang songs.

TRAFFIC RE-ROUTED

RCAF officials re-routed traffic through another gate to the base.

The air force public relations officer characterized the demonstration as a "fizzle."

He said the group "was barely a nuisance, insofar as we had to use another gate."

He said the project members did not attempt to gain access to the base.

The group had erected a microphone and loudspeakers, and discussed the various aspects of non-violence, what affect it could have on Canada as a nation, and what Canada's role should be in the present day and age.

Among those sitting at the gate were some dozen children, all of whom appeared to be under the age of 10.

Peter Light and his followers plan to stage another sit-down late in August, when they have stated they will make a serious attempt to block at least five entrances to the base.

Cowichan Copper Finder

Veteran Mining Man M. L. Douglas Dies

DUNCAN—Merlin Lloyd Douglas, who discovered copper ore near Lake Cowichan in 1915, which led to the Cowichan Copper mining operation in the 1950s, died last Friday at King's Daughters' Hospital in his 87th year.

Born at Ann Arbor, Mich., March 3, 1879, Mr. Douglas followed mining and construction industries all his life until his retirement from Lake Cowichan to Duncan before the Second World War.

WORKED IN MINES

He worked in North Dakota, at Butte, Montana, and Mount Sicker Mines and Crofton Copper smelter after the turn of the century.

He prospected at Lake Cowichan in 1902 when massive timber stands covered every hillside, and also near Stewart on Portland Canal and other points.

OTHER VENTURES

He was associated with a number of mining ventures here, including the Blue Grouse mine of the First World War, later to be the Cowichan Copper mine, and a manganese operation on Hill 60, Cowichan Lake Road. He also worked as a timber cruiser.

Mr. Douglas was an acknowledged authority on mineral deposits in this region of Vancouver Island.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Grace Gooding, of Seeattle.

Funeral services were held Monday at 2 p.m. at Hirst Funeral Chapel, followed by cremation.

Girl Dies After Car Crash

COURTENAY — Linda Robinson, 16, of Courtenay became the second victim of a car crash on Island Highway Friday night. She died in Comox hospital.

Killed in the crash was Donald Grant McDonald while Wayne Hughes who suffered severe cuts was transferred to Victoria hospital, and Douglas Sinclair and Norman Sealey, driver of the other car are in satisfactory condition in local hospital.

Harvey Hodgins also in the crash was released from hospital shortly after the accident.

Inquests into both deaths will be conducted by Coroner Thomas Menzies.

Drivers Recover After Smashups

DUNCAN — Donald Fee of Duncan and Jack Van Aert of Hillbank Road are in satisfactory condition at King's Daughters Hospital with injuries they suffered in two separate accidents over the weekend.

Mr. Fee received cuts and internal injuries when his sports car went out of control on the Trans-Canada Highway near Dougan's Lake and tumbled down a 60-foot embankment. The car was demolished.

Mr. Van Aert suffered unstated injuries when he was struck by a car while walking near his home. The driver was Ian Johnson also of Hillbank Road.

Was Downed Island Plane Far Off Course?

By BILL STAVDAL

Victoria pilot Ervyn Duke, 23, was apparently lost Saturday when he and three companions survived a plane crash on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

On Monday, 15 hours after the four were rescued, the husky boom-man and student commercial pilot said he was about 15 miles northwest of Cowichan Lake when he crashed in fog into tall timber.

* * *

But the RCAF's Rescue Co-Ordination Centre in Vancouver places the crash 20 miles to the southwest, about 10 miles east of Bamfield.

Only one of the four is still in hospital. Arnold Anderson, 22, of 943 Lodge, sustained a broken left wrist and a burned shoulder when the four-seat Tri-Pacer caught fire as it crashed through trees to a mountain slope.

* * *

Mr. Anderson is in satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Passenger Victor Hohlachoff, 25, of 760 Roderick, who walked out and summoned help, was unhurt.

Roy Paul, 41, of 1265 Dunsterville, sustained facial cuts and bruises.

Hohlachoff

Pilot Duke, of 151 Cadillac, received only a slightly cut finger, a wrenched left knee and bruised ribs.

* * *

What began as a combined pleasure jaunt and training flight for Mr. Duke ended in a flaming crash shortly after 10 a.m. Saturday on the watershed of the Klanawa River east of Bamfield on the West Coast.

Mr. Duke, a boom-man at B.C. Forest Products, Plumper Bay operation, intended to fly to Tofino by way of Shawnigan Lake, Lake Cowichan and Port Alberni. He was going to carry on to Comox, then head south down the east coast back to Patricia Bay.

Duke

Victor Hohlachoff, an expert outdoorsman, was looking for game while Mr. Duke was practising his mountain flying.

"We just got closed in with the weather," Mr. Duke told the Colonist at home Monday.

He said he was flying up a valley northwest of Cowichan Lake when he found the path ahead closed by lowering cloud. He was boxed in.

He made a series of turns, then plunged into the fog and immediately began climbing to get clear.

* * *

"The fog was so thick it looked like snow," he said.

Suddenly tree tops loomed ahead.

"I didn't think I was going to die. I was trying to think my way out, but there wasn't any.

"There was only one thing to do. I dumped air speed and pulled the nose up."

The light plane mushed into the tree-tops, hung for a mo-

Papandreou to Fight

ATHENS (Reuters) — Ousted Greek prime minister George Papandreou Monday declared "a new unrelenting struggle" in his clash with young King Constantine as he addressed an estimated 400,000 demonstrators, unprecedented in Greek history.

"The question now is who rules the country, the king or the people," 77-year-old Papandreou said after making a triumphal entry into Athens in a flower-bedecked car from his country home.

VOTE URGED

The crowd called for a referendum for or against the monarchy.

"We have declared a new unrelenting struggle," the veteran statesman said. "We are sure we will win. Democracy will win again. Down with the government of traitors."

KING REFUSED

Papandreou was forced out of office last week when the 25-year-old king refused to sanction a purge of right-wing army officers and the proposed dismissal of Papandreou's defence minister Petros Garoufalias.

Despite the size of the crowd which gathered in 95-degree heat, there were no clashes or incidents. Police were scarcely to be seen.

Pitched from Car

Nightmare Brings Death to Skydiver

OLYMPIA, Wash. (CP)—A British Columbia skydiver who was having a nightmare opened the door of a moving car and was thrown to his death Monday.

William Virtel, 26, of Vancouver, died in a hospital in this state capital.

Elaine Trood, 31, of Vancouver, driver of the car, told police that she and Virtel were returning from a parachute jump rally south of here.

She said Virtel, asleep in the front seat, had a nightmare and somehow opened the car door. He awoke just at that moment and grabbed the steering wheel in an apparent effort to save himself from falling out of the car, she said.

The car veered off the highway and plunged over an embankment, pitching Virtel out of the door.

Miss Trood was in fair condition in hospital with a back injury.

Romania Takes Rift-Healer Role

BUCHAREST (AP)—Romanian Communist party chief Nicolae Ceausescu called on the Soviet and Chinese Communist parties Monday to make a "sincere and comradely" new effort to settle their long-seething conflict.

The unity of the world's Commnist parties is in the vital interest of the Communist system and world peace and must prevail over all disagreements, Ceausescu told 2,000 cheering delegates at the ninth congress of the Romanian Communist party.

Commnist unity can only be achieved, he declared, if every party respects the independence and equal rights of the other.

INDEPENDENT COURSE

Romania has been steering a course independent of Moscow and Peking.

BATTLE OF OTTAWA: BOTH SIDES DIG IN

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—This federal-provincial conference is shaping up like a battle royal which could answer the classic question of what happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable object.

Right from the opening bell Monday several provinces pounded the federal government with tough demands and hard-line statements.

If they keep punching the rest of the week—and there's every indication they will—something has to give.

BACKED DOWN

At the last two such conferences it has been the federal government that has backed down, largely when confronted by vociferous demands from Quebec.

This time, rumor has it, Prime Minister Pearson has been urged by his key officials to stand firm, and not give way to provincial demands.

British Columbia, Quebec and to a slightly lesser extent Ontario distributed tough-talking statements Monday before the conference opened in the west block of the Parliament buildings.

'SHORTSIGHTED'

B.C. Premier Bennett accused the federal government of having a transportation program that is "shortsighted" and leaves "much to be desired."

He added that the federal government has been "most unfair" by ignoring his province's requests for aid for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Convicts Burn Prison

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI) — Rioting prisoners set fire to the maximum-security Mount Eden Prison here early today during a breakout attempt. Authorities said the prison was virtually destroyed.

Police said more than 200 soldiers cordoned off the prison.

The wardens released other prisoners into a courtyard to save them from the fire.

Job Ads Anger Carriers

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto postmen are angry and it isn't only because they think they aren't getting enough money.

Monday, some letter carriers found they were distributing slips advertising for persons to fill positions in the postal department and the Civil Service Commission. (See Page 17.)

The action infuriated some postmen, who said they would destroy the slips rather than distribute them any more.

An official of the Toronto office of the Civil Service Commission said it is just a coincidence that slips are beng distributed at a time when the Toronto carriers were talking of strike action.

Refuse Clothing

Two Naked Women Held for Arson

KELOWNA (CP) — Two Sons of Freedom Doukhobor women, found naked at the scene of a fire Sunday, refused to put clothes on for a court appearance on arson charges Monday.

RCMP said they had to cover Mary Malakoff and Mary Astaforoff with blankets when they were taken into court.

* * *

The pair refused to enter a plea to charges of setting fire to buildings on the property of Wasyl Konkewicz. They were remanded in custody for a week.

"They're in the cells, still naked," an RCMP officer said. "We made clothes available for them, but they won't put them on."

One of them refused to walk into the courtroom and had to be carried in by three RCMP constables.

* * *

Police said the women had stripped and burned their own clothes when they were arrested on the Konkewicz property Sunday.

He said fires set when the owner was at church destroyed five sheds. There was heavy smoke damage to the house.

Talking again: Smallwood, Lesage

* * *

Old-Time Foes Wave Warmly

OTTAWA (CP)—For that great-to-see-you atmosphere, the Monday opening of the federal-provincial conference could only be surpassed by the arrival of an immigrant train.

"Duff!" exclaimed Premier Robarts of Ontario when he spotted Premier Roblin of Manitoba. "Mike!" shouted Premier Lesage of Quebec, at the sight of Prime Minister Pearson, a huge red flower adorning his buttonhole.

* * *

Around the big round conference table they mingled like long-lost friends. Mr. Lesage, who said several months ago he wouldn't talk again with Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland, was standing beside the bow-tied "Joey" in gleeful conversation. Premier Manning of Alberta, whose comments on Finance Minister Gordon were never regarded as complimentary, was waving warmly across the table in the direction of Mr. Gordon.

France Accuses U.S. Of Aerial Espionage

PARIS (AP)—France has accused the United States of aerial espionage at its super-secret nuclear complex, where enriched uranium for the French hydrogen bomb is produced.

The incident aggravated French-American relations, coming at a time when Paris and Washington are poles apart on the Viet Nam and Dominican Republic crises.

FOUR PASSES

French officials charged Monday that a U.S. Air Force RF-101 reconnaissance plane made four passes over the nuclear complex at Pierrelatte in southeastern France Friday and took 175 photos despite interception by a French fighter plane. A formal protest was lodged with the U.S. embassy here by the foreign ministry.

NO COMMENT

American officials in France and in West Germany, where the photographic reconnaissance plane is based, declined all comment after details of the incident were reported by a French defence ministry communique. State department officials in Washington said only: "The investigation is continuing."

Some hours later, the defence department in Washington issued a brief statement saying "there was no intent to overfly any prohibited area in France." It added, "we are continuing to investigate the matter."

Earlier, American officials said that on the basis of first reports, the plane had been on a routine training mission. They said a thunderstorm caused the plane to go off course, but expressed belief it had not flown over the Pierrelatte complex.

Medicare Offer Wins Support

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson proposed Monday that Canada build up a nationwide medical care system through a series of provincial plans backed by federal money.

He said he was "very encouraged" by provincial reaction to the idea.

His offer of federal financial help for any provincially-operated medical plan which meets four basic criteria appeared to catch premiers at the federal-provincial conference by surprise.

* * *

After an hour's detailed questioning, however, they were described as "interested and intrigued" by the plan.

The prime minister, for his part, was reported hopeful that he can win approval in principle for his proposal when the discussion resumes today.

He told the conference he would hope the plan might be in operation by Canada's 100th birthday—July 1, 1967.

The prime minister made his medical proposal to the first top-level federal-provincial conference of the year.

* * *

The conference discussed the prime minister's statement in a 60-minute question-and-answer session in which all 10 premiers took turns querying Mr. Pearson on various aspects of his proposal.

Among the questions left unanswered is the size of federal contribution to a provincially-operated health insurance plan which meets Ottawa's broad criteria for universality, com-
